DAVIDSON DOWNS CLEMSON TIGERS

Game Played on Slippery Field With Many Fumbles Throughout—No Score Made Till Second Half, Final Figures Being 13 to 2—Both Eleventh Give Fine Exhibition.

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 25.—Davidson defeated Clemson at the State Fair grounds today by a score of 13 to 2. Rain fell throughout the game and the field was soggy, but both eleven put up a fine article of ball, there being few fumbles for a slippery field. Davidson made all her scores in the last half and up to that time it looked to be anybody's game.

Clintons scored the second shortly after the ball was again in play after a short punting duel between Harris and Denny. Both teams put up an splendid game and to the first half the advantage seemed to be with Clemson, the half ending without a score. The line-up was:

CHANCE TELLS OF SUCCESS

Reveals Three Secrets Ballplayers Should Learn. Frank Chance, peerless leader of the peerless baseball team, has three rules of common sense that have a lot to do with the success of his ball playing career.

No. 1—Be on the square. No. 2—Do everything above board. No. 3—Remember nothing off the ball field that occurs on it.

The last rule is an important one, for any player that lives up to it can do away with petty trouble. "When a man's on the field," Chance declares, "he says things he doesn't mean. If one of my fellows makes a bad play I tell him, and call him hard. I may even call him names. The chances are I will. But what I say must not be remembered after the game is over.

There never was a time when his greatest admirer would have predicted that he was destined to become one of the great men of baseball. They credited him with pluck with ambition, but that was about all.

It was in 1893 that the great chance of his life came. The chance of the Cuban team, then in charge of the Cuban team, persuaded him to become a first baseman.

Chance didn't want to. The catcher, who was the one he liked, had been catching for years, and was afraid he would fall in the new position. But Seele finally prevailed.

BASEBALL IS VERY COSTLY

LAST SEASON BEST OF ALL. What the National Game Means to the Club Owners and to the Fans All Over the Country—New York Attendance Figures Total Nine Hundred Thousand For Season.

What does baseball cost the American fan in one season? Such is one of the questions now being asked by the fans who are doing up things during the off season.

The greatest baseball season in the history of the major leagues has just closed. 7,282,244 persons witnessed the combined games of the National and American Leagues.

For the first time since 1901, the first year of the invasion of the East by the American League, the Nationals outdrew the National by 60,000, which shows an increase for the old league of 27,188. The American League showed an increase of 5,232 over 1907.

New York was the National's bright spot, and estimates place the figures at $20,000, an average of 9,000 per game, or one-fourth of the total of $78,000. Chicago was second, with $66,232, an average of $264 to a game; Philadelphia being third, with a total of $20,000.

MOBS HONORS FOR CHICAGO

In the cities where two clubs are located the total attendance shows Chicago leading by $281, this being the third consecutive year that Chicago has carried off this honor, due principally to Sunday games. New York follows Chicago, St. Louis is third, and Philadelphia fourth.

The Chicago White Sox led the American League, with a grand total of $28,094, while St. Louis was second, with the figures for the season being $25,225. The Athletics showed a decrease of $1,013, the Athletics showing five club increased its figures over 1907, while five American teams showed increases.

WHAT BASEBALL COSTS.

Said That $17,000,000 Was Spent to Keep Game Alive Last Season. The $18,000,000 spent at the gates of 45 leagues for games by professional clubs covers very large city and the towns of consequence, with very few exceptions, from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

What do Americans spend for baseball in a season? To fix the sum at $17,000,000 might seem like an exaggeration to some people, says The Independent. That is money enough to buy baseball tickets for the 11,000,000 men of voting age in the country, with enough left over to allow one-half of them to see a second game.

It does not cover all the ground. In the $17,000,000 are $1,000,000 for the two great leagues; $10,000,000 or thereabouts, taken by 244 professional clubs in the minor leagues, and estimates as near as may be of the money spent by amateurs and spectators who follow the sport in thousands of parks and open lots.

A big professional baseball club costs about $600 a day. This is spent for railroad fares, hotel bills, buses, salaries and ground expenses. At this rate the 16 clubs in the two big leagues cost close to $10,000 a day. In a season of 25 weeks the daily expenses account foot up to $1,440,000.

The contract lists in the minor leagues foot up to nearly $200,000. To the salaries is added an allowance of $20 a piece for each player on the league team for uniforms. For the 330 players in the 16 clubs in the big leagues of baseball there would come to $2,600 for the season. A similar allowance for the 4,300 players in the minor leagues would swell the tally on bills of the professional players to $128,600.

When the fans yell at the umpire and agree that he's a "piker" and "no good" they seldom stop to think that these useless luxuries at the big city games are costing them anywhere from $25,000 to $42,000 a season.

It would take all the silver mined in Nevada in a year, or upward of $3,400,000, to pay for the 78 ball parks needed for the National and American Leagues. The sums invested in grounds, grandstands and bleachers, of course, vary considerably as to the total amount of capital tied up in the grounds also become a matter of general estimates. One fixed the average at $250,000 each, or $2,900,000 for the eight. The American League clubs he said, belonging to the 16 big cities, would cost so much money, that the average cost of each of their fields would be more like $250,000 apiece, or a total of $4,000,000.

MILLS AND MARKETS

BRITISH TEXTILE TROUBLES.

Effort by Outsiders to Effect a Compromise Between Mill Owners and Operatives Results in Dismal Failure—No Outside Intervention Will Be Tollected—The Committee Proposes Depreciation in the Trade.

American mill men are watching with a maximum of concern the troubles existing between the mill owners and operatives in England. Mention has been made of the various disputes and the history of the case from first to last, has been closely followed. Early this month an effort was made by third parties to effect some sort of settlement looking towards the operation of a new trade agreement, but these efforts have all failed.

The following from The Manchester Guardian, October 14th, will be of interest: The emergency committee of the Federation of Master Cotton Spinners' Association met in the new offices in Cross street, Manchester, yesterday afternoon to consider the meeting which had been arranged on the wages dispute from Mr. W. A. Appleton, secretary of the General Federation of Trade Unions, London. The meeting was at full length, and Mr. C. W. Macaulay presided. In the morning Mr. Appleton, accompanied by Mr. William Mullin, secretary of the Cardroom Workers' Amalgamation, and Mr. William Mullin, secretary of the Operative Spinners' Amalgamation, had spent nearly an hour in private conversation with Mr. John Smeethurst, the secretary of the Employers' Federation, and the last named briefly communicated the gist of the interview to the meeting. The proposals which were placed before the committee for consideration were:

(1) Reduction of 5 per cent. for three months, providing that at the end of that time the whole question of wages is reconsidered.

(2) Militant until November—another three weeks—unless desired by the employers.

"Providing the terms are accepted by the employers as a condition of the operation of the mill before the mills restart in order to ascertain their views on the new proposals.

"There was very little discussion on these proposals, and the meeting was over in half an hour. The striking pressmen were then informed by Mr. Smeethurst that the letter of Mr. Appleton had been considered, and if it had been accepted, the reply to him at 158 Temple Chambers, London. It was also agreed as an act of courtesy to forward a copy of the reply to Mr. William Mullin, secretary of the Operative Spinners' Amalgamation, and Mr. Joseph Cross, secretary of the Winders and Reelers' Association.

"That brief report, officially given, indicated in no way the practical outcome of the meeting. The sensitive subsequently ascertained that the proposals had been characterized as impracticable, and as such could not be entertained. This statement was widely reported, and it was which has been forwarded in the reply to Mr. Appleton, with a clear intimation that there was no necessity for the intention of a third party.

"We are willing to accept any proposal which has been forwarded in the reply to Mr. Appleton, with a clear intimation that there was no necessity for the intention of a third party.

"The decision is exactly in accordance with the views expressed in these columns both yesterday and on Monday, and the probability is that the leaders of the operatives, who have a full knowledge of the employers' attitude on the question, expected no other result.

AFTER THE LABOR VOTE.

Mr. Whitehead Klutts Makes Strong Appeal to Railroad Men at Spencer—Mr. A. E. Holton Speaks in That City Also.

Spencer, Oct. 28.—Whitehead Klutts, Dem. candidate for the State Senate, spoke at Spencer last night on the issues of the day, his speech being an eloquent appeal for the labor vote of the large number of railroad men here in the election next week.

The meeting was largely attended and indicated a genuine interest in Democracy. Mr. Klutts was given the closest attention as he arraigned the Republican party for its extravagance and alleged corruption in public affairs. He was particularly hard on Judge Taft for granting injunctions against labor and on Mr. J. Edward Cox, Republican candidate for Governor, for compelling the furniture factories at High Point last year. He declared that the Democrats are going to enjoin Taft from ever occupying the presidential chair.

Mr. A. E. Holton, of Winston-Salem, spoke at Spencer Monday night, and issued about one hundred voters. Mr. Holton declared there have been big breaks in the Democratic ranks in a number of the counties in the eighth congressional district, and he is a mighty turning to the Republican fold, especially on the part of business men.

He asserts that Charles H. Cowles will be elected to Congress by a heavy vote of the Republican party. The Democratic, Republican and Socialist leaders are all trying hard to land the Spencer vote this year and are making a desperate struggle for it. It is believed the majority of the railroad men here will vote the Democratic ticket. There is, however, plenty of voters who are being won over and being covered by Democratic leaders.

Arrangements have been made for the people of Spencer, regardless of political affiliations, to get full telegraphic reports of the special and State elections Tuesday night. The bulletins will be displayed for the benefit of the public all night by the Commercial Telegraph Company at the Spencer Y. M. C. A.

FINAL RALLY IN CLEVELAND.

Mr. Kitchin Has Big Crowd to Hear His Major Address, Despite Weather Conditions. Special to The Observer.

Shelby, Oct. 28.—Hon. W. W. Kitchin spoke to a large and enthusiastic crowd at Shelby at 1 o'clock Monday night, and in the presence of a downpour of rain for the past twenty-four hours failed to dampen the ardor of the Democrats of Cleveland.

The occasion had been advertised as the final Democratic rally for the county and, though it has rained without ceasing all day long, fully two thousand people were present to hear the next Governor of North Carolina, Mr. Kitchin, speak at Shelby to care for every Democrat in the county; a speaker's stand and temporary seats had been erected in the open, but the rain destroyed all the seats and the speaker's stand was held in the new court house. To say that every seat was taken would not express the full truth, for from five hundred to a thousand people stood during the entire speech. The gallery and every aisle were packed as thick as people could stand, while others crowded the stairway, filled the rooms and begged for standing room.

It was a great Democratic rally and the speech was in perfect harmony with the occasion. It was a speech which filled the souls of Democrats with party enthusiasm, inspired them with hope and renewed their political activity and zeal for the final contest on the 3d of November. The speech was a masterpiece of the discussion was aptly illustrated by some good jokes which kept the crowd in the best of humor and brought forth frequent outbursts of applause.

GOT OVERDOSE OF STRYCHNINE.

Mrs. John Sumrell, of Norfolk, Va., on Visit to Parents in Lenox County, Dies in Poisoning—Thought Misadventurous Was Necessary to Kill. Special to The Observer.

Kingston, Oct. 28.—Last night a distressing death occurred at the home of Mr. E. F. Smith, in Neck township, Lenox county. His daughter, Mrs. John Sumrell, of Norfolk, Va., took an overdose of strychnine, expiring before a physician, who was summoned from Grifton, could reach her.

Mrs. Sumrell, who lived in Norfolk with her husband, Mr. John Sumrell, a son of Rev. S. W. Sumrell, of Neck township, reached home last night with the expressed intention of visiting her parents for a while and returning home in about two weeks. After she had supper, she complained that her heart hurt and she asked her mother if she had any of "that medicine I used to take." Her mother told her to look in the medicine chest and see. She first picked up a bottle of carbolic acid from the chest and, leaving the bottle on a table, she took a dose of strychnine. It is said that she asked her mother how much strychnine it would take to kill one and her mother informed her that it would take a teaspoonful.

In speaking of Jackson, Manager Mack said: "After the way Jackson acted, both before and after coming to this city, I concluded when he deserted us at Washington to give him up for good. Since then Jackson has written to me, saying that he has a chance with the Athletics next season. He stated his case pretty frankly and I decided to give him one more trial.

In the games that Jackson played with the Athletics he looked pretty good to me. He is raw, of course, but he appears to have the natural ability, and I wouldn't be surprised to see him develop fast."

Additional Fire-Fighting Equipment For Wilmington. Special to The Observer.

Wilmington, Oct. 28.—A new and modern fire engine and an old one thoroughly rebuilt has just been added to the fire-fighting equipment of the city. Upon the formal installation of the equipment in the department last night, appropriate ceremonies were observed at the central fire station, participated in by all city officials, members of the fire department from the five stations and a large number of members of the old volunteer organization. Chairman W. A. French, Jr., of the fire committee, presided as master of ceremonies and many addresses were made after an elegant repast served in the assembly hall of the building. The new engine was tested yesterday and demonstrated its power in remarkable manner, throwing a stream over the First Baptist church steeple, 230 feet, and a double stream over the five-story Carolina Apartment House situated on the highest elevation in the city.
