FACULTY RECITAL GIVEN AT THE PRESBYTERIAN COLLEGE

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Anderson, Miss May Penfield, Mrs. E. H. Stewart, Miss Adelaide Stephens and Miss Mary Venable Ramsey Delightful Large Audience Last Night—The Numbers and a Few Words About Each—The Concert the Event of the Year and One of More Pleasure.

In the auditorium of the Presbyterian College last night at 8:15 o'clock the first concert of the season by the music faculty of the college was given. The night was ideal, the audience large and inspiring, the programme excellent and the concert thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Miss Adelaide Stephens gave the first selection on the programme, Tocata and Fugue by Bach and was greeted by a generous burst of applause. Her accompaniment was excellent, looking very charming in a white gown. Miss Stephens is a fine organist. She sits well, she registers easily, her pedal work is clear and fine, her interpretation very intelligent and her technique unusually good.

When Mr. Henry F. Anderson made his appearance and took his seat at the organ, the whole audience gave him a smile of cordial greeting and it was evident from the pleased looks of the pretty college girls that they considered him not only a musical artist but a friend.

Mr. Anderson was accompanied by Mrs. E. H. Stewart, one of the most popular of the many popular teachers in the college, gave much pleasure with her piano selection, a Bolero opus 15, by Moszkowski, a dainty and delicate piece, interpreted delightfully by Mrs. Stewart, who wore a pretty gown of black net. She received flowers in abundance.

When Mr. Henry F. Anderson made his appearance and took his seat at the organ, the whole audience gave him a smile of cordial greeting and it was evident from the pleased looks of the pretty college girls that they considered him not only a musical artist but a friend.

Miss Mary Venable Ramsey played Chopin Ballade in A flat and played it well. She was dressed in white, her touch is good, her interpretation splendid, her technique fine and her number gave much pleasure. She received flowers and applause in abundance.

Mr. Henry F. Anderson, accompanied by Mrs. Anderson on the piano, rendered upon the violin the Allegro movement from Beethoven's Sonata, opus 24.

Mr. Anderson was given in handsome old rose satin dress, in train, and looked dainty and sweet. And she knows how to play the violin, her bowing being clear and graceful and her technique very fine. She plays with taste and feeling and her interpretation of Beethoven is excellent and her rendition of the many trills and arpeggios was faultless.

Mr. Henry Anderson who is not only an able organist, but a delightful pianist, rendered (a) Chopin's Nocturne, opus 37 and (b) Waltz, opus 49. Both these compositions are well known to music lovers and universally enjoyed. Mr. Anderson renders them with the interpretation of an artist and the skill of a finished pianist.

Miss Penfield sang "Nymphs and Fauns" by Debussy, a bright and joyous song, full of dainty passages, captivating little trills and notes, and Miss Penfield was captivating as she sang, her clear and lovely voice being charmingly adapted to the music.

The concert was brought to a close with Beethoven's Sonata, opus 105, for the organ, rendered by Mr. Anderson. The selection was interesting and enjoyable and was rendered with beautiful interpretation and artistic execution by Mr. Anderson, who is one of the most finished organists ever heard in Charlotte and an ideal director of music for any institution.

TERMINALS AT CHARLESTON?

Blackburg, S. G. Man Tells Observer Correspondent That C. C. & O. Railroad Will Ultimately Make This City Southern Terminal—Yorkville Expects to Be Benefited.

Yorkville, S. G., Nov. 17.—While Yorkville is not so much as dreaming that the main line of the Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio Railroad will pass through her limits, still she is expecting to receive substantial benefits from the construction of the road owing to the fact that it connects with the Marion and Kingsville division of the Southern at Marion, N. C., and with the Carolina & Northwestern at Lincolnton, N. C., over the Seaboard. Yorkville has never enjoyed the advantage of being either on or in close touch with a main through line of railroad, but does enjoy the advantage of having two competing branch or independent roads that are a part of the line for principal trunk lines operating in this part of the State.

It was reported here more than a year ago that the Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio Railroad was negotiating with the Southern for the purchase of the Marion and Kingsville division but owing to the fact that there were no subsequent developments given out, it had been generally supposed that the negotiations had long since ended, but The Observer correspondent was advised a few days ago by a prominent citizen of Blackburg that he knew it to be a fact that negotiations were still pending as recently as six months ago, and he was satisfied that could the two corporations arrive at what both sides considered equitable terms the Marion and Kingsville division would be absorbed by the C. C. & O., and the former used as the main line of the latter as a part of the line for reaching Charleston, where he felt satisfied that it was the purpose of the new road to ultimately have its Southern terminals. When asked how this could be when it is generally understood that the road has already been located from Bostic, N. C., to Spartanburg and the contracts for building the same awarded, he replied that it was generally understood that it was not the intention of the C. C. & O. people to construct this line as a part of the permanent main line, and stated that it was claimed that the line from Bostic to Spartanburg would not be on the same general scale as to grades, curves, bridges, etc., as that part of the road between Bostic and Spruce Pine, and was only intended as a means of reaching that part of the State which otherwise could not be reached over its own line, and in which the business possibilities for the road were great.

As to whether or not the Blackburg man has used up the situation correctly and has actually given out the plans of these people who it is stated have already spent $50,000,000 in construction, an inquiry was made, it is claimed will be the best constructed railroad line in the South, this correspondent is not prepared to say, and merely writes what he has as an additional contribution to the theme on which many other correspondents have written during the past two or three years without any more accurate data than has the present writer.

CALL TO REV. W. R. MINTER.

Statesville Congregation Asks Lincolnson Pastor to Become Successor of Rev. Dr. C. M. Richards.

Statesville, Nov. 17.—At a congregational meeting of the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning the matter of electing a new pastor, succeeded by Dr. C. M. Richards, who has accepted a call to Lincolnson, was taken up first and Prof. J. H. Hill for the committee appointed to recommend a pastor, named Rev. W. R. Minter, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Lincolnton, as the unanimous choice of the committee and when the recommendation was put before the church by Rev. J. M. Whaley, D. D., of Davidson, who presided as moderator, it was unanimously adopted by the congregation. It is not known whether Mr. Minter will accept the call at Statesville, and may not be known for several weeks. He will doubtless visit here and look over the field before he makes a decision.

Mr. Minter is highly recommended to the church. He is about 25 years old and has a small family. He is a native of Laurens county, S. C., but has labored in Cleveland, Rutherford and Lincoln counties, this State, since entering the ministry. He was for a time pastor at Shelby but gave up his work there to take charge of a school in Rutherford county which he was instrumental in establishing. He has been at Lincolnton two or three years, having first gone there as co-pastor with the late Rev. R. Z. Johnson, who died last spring. A committee of the Statesville church spent Sunday, November 8th, in Lincolnton and heard Mr. Minter preach and they were very much pleased with him.

The pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Statesville receives a salary of $1,800 a year and is furnished a residence—the manse—free. The church is the strongest in the city.

AMUSEMENTS

"THE GIRL QUESTION."

George Marion, the famous stage director who produced "The College Widow," "The Prince of Pison," "The Merry Widow" and "The County Chairman," has directed the rehearsals of "The Girl Question," the musical comedy by Frank E. Adams and Will M. Hough, with music by Joseph E. Howard, which will be seen at the Academy of Music Friday evening, November 27th, under the direction of the Aakia-Binger Company.

There is a distinction, a class, and an atmosphere of elegance about Mr. Marion's work which stamps it indelibly as that of a master, and any theatre-goer who has witnessed a production of his is always on the lookout for an opportunity to see another.

MORRISON'S "FAUST."

While in various parts of this country, audiences are re-discovering "Faust" in the new and prosaic guise of Molnar's play, "The Devil," Rosabel Morrison is again presenting the Morrison version of this play with enormous success on tour. In the race for popularity, this much can be said for "Faust," that new disguises do not make new "devils" and that the studio of an amorous artist is not quite so romantic as the garden in "Faust," or so exciting a place as the Broken on Walpurgis night.

Morrison's version of "Faust" has much to recommend it. It gives to the English stage something of Goethe's dignity of language without bombast and rant, it maintains the integrity of Goethe's central idea, and it orders the action on the whole skilfully and swiftly and clearly, with tragic intensity. It is no mere operatic libretto; it is a play, a poetic play, a tragic play. To see it performed by competent players with adequate scenery is surely to feel something of the stir and uplift of a mighty legend. Morrison's "Faust" is now on its twenty-second annual tour of this country and its popularity is in no way dimmed by other devil plays, or other versions of the sublime poem of "Faust" in either dramatic or operatic form.

CAMPANARI.

Signor Giuseppe Campanari, the world's greatest baritone, will be heard in recital at the Academy of Music to-morrow night. Since the first announcement of the coming engagement in this city of the celebrated singer there has been unusual interest shown among the music-loving people of Charlotte and surrounding towns.

Theatre parties have been gotten up in all the cities of the State, including Raleigh, Greensboro, Winston-Salem and Wilmington. It is expected that there will be several hundred people coming to Charlotte for this grand occasion.

Signor Campanari is assisted in all of his concerts by Miss Lydia Clarkson, who herself has achieved fame as a pianist.

G. B. BURHANS TESTIFIES AFTER FOUR YEARS.

G. B. Burhans of Carle's Centre, N. Y., writes: "About four years ago I wrote you stating that I had been entirely cured of a severe kidney trouble by taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure. It entirely stopped the brick dust sediment and pain and symptoms of kidney disease disappeared. I am glad to say that I have never had a return of any of those symptoms during the four years that have elapsed and I am evidently cured to stay. I can heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Cure to any one suffering from kidney or bladder trouble." R. H. Jordan & Co. and W. L. Hand & Co.
