

WANT TO GET INTO COURT

RAILROAD APPEAL SO TAKEN. Mr. E. J. Justice thinks that the only reason for the desire of the railroad companies to get into court is that they may carry their grievances to the Federal court.

The facts that I am not a member of the General Assembly and do not hold any other office and have been continually engaged in private business, have prevented me from saying anything about the railroad appeal and the Legislature of 1909 to do what the special session of the Legislature in 1908 expressly refused to do, to-wit: confer upon the Corporation Commission power to fix passenger rates.

The railroad officials are giving expression to their views upon the pending propositions to raise passenger rates, and to confer power upon the Corporation Commission, as stated upon the General Assembly, to determine what would be a fair rate.

Of course all thinking people who take the lamp of experience for their guide know the railroad appeal and the power conferred upon the Corporation Commission that they can more easily see this Commission, and take the case into the Federal court where one man—a special master—will take such testimony as he wants to hear.

Mr. Finley's article deals with three questions. First, that it was not the understanding of the railroad officials that they were to refrain indefinitely from asking that the present railroad rates be raised.

Second, that the railroad companies as well as all other tax payers have the right of petition to the Legislature for the redress of grievances, and that they are now doing exactly what the advocates of State rights said, in 1907 and 1908, they should do, to-wit: respectfully submit to State control.

Third, that the present rates are too low. The latter part of his article undertakes to justify the position of the railroads in the matter of redeeming mileage books, and in the matter of discrimination in freight rates.

It shall attempt to answer these questions in the order in which they are made. It was, I think, generally understood that the rate fixed at the special session in 1908 would not be disturbed, and I believe that it was contributed to this understanding. They urged peace and a cessation of agitation, until it came to be understood that the rate question would remain settled until after the Legislature of 1909 met.

It is not altogether the trouble of the requirement, with reference to mileage books, that makes the method unpopular, but also the fact that the trouble is unnecessary.

The people of North Carolina are so well informed of the injustice of the discrimination against North Carolina points in the matter of freight rates, that I refer to Mr. Finley's contention, that this condition ought not to excite criticism, merely for the purpose of emphasizing the fact that if the people leave it to railroad officers to see the people's grievances and redress them, they will be long sufferers before they get relief.

I do not think it unjust to all occasions, and everywhere that they are doing our State grave injustice in this matter of freight rates.

E. J. JUSTICE. Greensboro, Jan. 30th, 1909.

Windley-Raynor, at Belhaven. Correspondence of The Observer. Washington, N. C., Jan. 29.—In the town of Belhaven yesterday morning was solemnized a very pretty wedding ceremony in St. James Parish church, when Miss Beulah Raynor became the bride of Mr. Frank S. Windley of that town. The church was beautifully and artistically decorated in ivy, long leaf pine and the other evergreens festooned in arches extending over the centre of the chancel and making a very pretty and pleasing effect. Long before the appointed time the church was filled with friends and acquaintances. Promptly at the appointed time the organ, under the deft touch of Miss Lena Satterthwaite, pealed forth the inspiring strains of Lohengrin's "Wedding March" and the bridal party entered the church. First came the ushers, Messrs. Earnest Swindell and Guiney Brooks, Miss Ella Raynor, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The bride entered leaning on the arm of her guardian, Dr. I. M. Hardy, of this city, who also gave her away. Approaching the chancel, she was met by the groom and his best man, Mr. Ellis Roper and together they stood before the altar, while Rev. A. C. D. Noe spoke the words

MILLS AND MARKETS

ROCKY MT. TOBACCO MARKET. More of Weed Sold During Past Week Than at Any Time Since Holidays. Special to The Observer. Rocky Mount, Jan. 30.—During the week just closed the tobacco market in this city has been more active than at any time since the holidays, and the sales have been unusually heavy for this time of the year, as compared with years past. The offering of tobacco has been of the poorer grades, but they have been bringing satisfactory prices in every instance and eagerly sought after by the independent buyers on the market.

Up to the present date the local market has this season sold its share of the weed, and it is thought when the season closes it will be seen that this market has not fallen behind any of the figures made during years past.
