

FRUSTRATE HUMAN NATURE.

Associated Press Operator's Resolution Takes a Double-Back Action Which Leaves Him Out in the Cold - Another Resolution the Only Antidote.

"I don't understand it. A limited water, the unconquerable, in a tone which, for him, admitted that some thing had him going. In his hand he held a newly lighted cigar, at which from time to time he took feebly puffs. Naturally, the curiosity of the bunch was aroused. Inquiries were forthcoming.

"It's this way," explained the 200 pound specimen of muscular humanity who tells this section of the country about the doings of Mr. Roosevelt, and the American club, Mr. Taff and "Boss" the Kaiser and his followers, the Congress and its leaders, its grinds, its sensations, the low affairs of the Duke of Albany, and all the other particulars and happenings from Gay Paree to Mat Jinks.

"The other night I smoked eighteen cigars between 8 o'clock at night and 3 in the morning and I had with a fine time doing it that I had to be in the open portals of the West and then and swore by all the powers of the air and sea that I would never again myself to be able to smoke one off. Feeling that I had done myself self forever against the intemperate indulgence of the privilege of holding cigars, with me, I took New-Orleans, I went to the bank and I walked out of my house carrying unopened boxes of the West and then I had the slightest thought of doing it for one. All night it was the same way. I became alarmed. I felt that I was doing it. By the time I had a kind of work I got away with one, but it was uphill work, and the first time in my life I had to look sick to me.

"If I decide to try to lose my taste and bring it back, I will have to make another box and decide this time never to be a member. In an hour or two I suppose I'll be trying to exhaust the country's supply.

And I'm thinking, double-stranded loneliness, I don't find that what was done in Liverpool either.
