Futures opened steady at a decline of 5 to 8 points in sympathy with the easier tene in the Liverpool contract market, and also on more favorable reports from the cotion belt. The weather map showed favorable conditions all over the cotton region and the forecast promised another good map to-morrow morning. This caused considerable selling movement among scalping shorts and also brought out some long liquidation under which prices remained depressed the greater part of the day, standing at the lowest, 8 to 9 points below yesterday's last quotations.
