JOHNNY KLING, CUBS' STAR CATCHER, WHO IS TO REJOIN HIS TEAM

Johnny Kling, the star backstop of the Chicago Nationals, who had announced his retirement from baseball early in the year, is prepared to don his fighting clothes and contribute hi sbest efforts in helping the Cubs to win a fourth pennant. Manager Chance figures that with his great catcher back on the team the Cubs are assured of another ban-Kling's announced return to the Cubs is hailed with as much delight by the fans as Hans Wagner's was to the Pittsburgs or as Gotham would show if Bresnahan and Donlin were to join the New Yorks. For many seasons Kling has been regarded as the most valuable man on the Chicago team because he is so wonderfully clever in a position that has so few really high-class stars. His work always stands out and is clear cut. Kling handles himself as gracefully as if he were catching in a tuxedo instead of mask and pad. He studies the batters, with wonderful results. His throwing is as hard and accurate as a strong arm and cool brain can make it. On eccount of having the play always in front of him King is able to give the wisest counsel to his teammates in emergencies. He is without doubt the greatest catcher the game ever had.
