Carrespondence of The Observer. Winston-Salem, June 4.- Miss Blossom Traxler was the charming hostess last week at a most enjoyable party given in honor of her cousin, Miss Artman, of New York, and Miss Sallie Stafford. The home was tastefully decorated in roses, Marechal Neils, Jacquominots and other handsome varieties lending their gracious Dr. and Mrs. Phincas Horton did the honors at the door, while Mr. and Mrs. Traxler gave welcome to their hospitable home. Receiving with Miss Traxler were Mr. Herbert Leak, of Greensboro; Miss Pearl Artman, Mr. Robert Ogburn, Miss Sallie Le Grand, of Portsmouth; Mr. T. W. Blackwell, Miss Ruth Crist and Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Shafer. Others assisting the hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Ledeux Siewers, Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Nissen and Mrs. W. B. Ellis, the latter presiding very chamingly at the punch bowl. Tempting refreshments were served.

Last Friday evening Miss Ruth Crist entertained very delightfully in compliment to her guest, Miss Annie Sue Le Grand, of Portsmouth, and Miss Pearl Artman. Crimson ram-bler, together with roses and flagrant honeysuckle, most tastefully bestowed, composed the effective decorations. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nissen, assisted by little Miss Ida Wilkinson and Master Paul Sprinkle, welcomed the guests at the door and directed them on their delightful pilgrimage Miss Crist was assisted in receiving by Mr. T. W. Blackwell, Miss Artman, Miss Le Grande, Mr. Owen Norvell, Mr. Reid Nunn, Miss Traxler and Mr. Robert Ogburn.

Others assisting in deing the hon ors of this delightful occasion were Mesdames W. A. Wilkinson and T. S. Sprinkle. Punch was served by Mrs T.
