What a game of contradictions and uncertainties this national pastime of ours really is! One year ago Captain Hans Lobert of the Cincinnati Nationals was batting the cover off the ball, and Mike Mitchel, who cavoris around in right field, was in the dumps, hitting enough air to supply the ozone trust. Nowadays "Mitch" is smakhing the leather in his old familiar way, and Leber, is down with the infants in the nursery of the House of Swat. Now there's one thing about baseball which is part of the House of Swat. Now there's one thing about baseball which is part of the bugomania which is responsible for its tremendous popularity—every fan body is entitled to his opinion, and no one is backward about expressing it. The possession of the captaincy and its attendant responsibilities is charged by some of the superficial observers as the cause for the Lobert slump. Captain Hans scoffs at the idea. There is no reason to believe that Lobert's batting will not improve. Perhaps he will cut loose with a consignment of good old hingles fresh from the he will cut loose with a consignment of good old ningles tresh item.
