OLD TEACHERS ELECTED

SALARY QUESTION UP AGAIN

By Reason of Splendid and Earnest Reasoning and Persuasive Power of Commissioners Osborne and Harding, Board Votes to Refer Consideration of Schedule of Salaries For Teachers to a Special Committee.

The splendid oratory of Commissioner W. F. Harding and the equally as earnest reasoning of Rev. F. M. Osborn moved the board of school commissioners in session last night to refer the entire schedule of salaries of the teachers in the city schools to a special committee for conference and re-consideration and the matter remains in an unsettled condition until the first meeting of the board in July.

While it does not necessarily mean that the salaries of the teachers will be increased as requested, it does mean that another agitation is approaching and the sentiment was expressed emphatically at last night's meeting that a shorter term of schooling with better paid teachers would be far more acceptable than the present arrangement.

MR. HARDING'S PLEA.

The plea of Mr. Harding was particularly forceful and that of Mr. Osborn was singularly whole-souled. "If we haven't the money to pay our teachers, it is our duty to get it," declared the former. "I am actually ashamed to solicit the culture and character and refinement of our city for positions in our schools and ask the teachers to do their work for less money than we pay the policemen to guard our homes. It is far more important to protect the citizenship of the city and set a standard of high and righteous living before the youth of Charlotte. We don't want economical class teachers in our schools and we need expert no other kind at the present salaries. I do not blame those who now have for threatening to leave the occupation unless their pay is increased. They can get more money elsewhere teaching and other fields of occupation offer better opportunities for making a living. We have some of the finest teachers in the state engaged in our schools, but we can expect them no longer. We have reached a crisis. We have young women of culture and character and genuine instinct for teaching. An examination counts nothing. That's the poorest test of a teacher. We need those to teach our children who are able to set a standard of high living before them and to inspire them to good citizenship.

GUILTY OF CRIMINALITY.

"Whenever we get the work of an honest man and do not pay him, we are criminals and when we get the services of excellent teachers and pay them less than they are worth, we are criminals. We don't want others like the kind of teachers we now have—cultured and refined young women who have interest and inspiration in their life work. Whenever we get second-class teachers and put second-class ideals in the minds of our children, we may expect second-class men and women. Teachers do more than hear recitations. They are character-builders and for that reason we have to take the kind of teachers into whose care we commit our children."

Mr. Harding had just stepped in the door when Rev. Mr. Osborn had concluded his few remarks in support of a higher salary for Miss Mary Graham, who has been taking an special course in primary work in Columbia University. In this connection, he stated that he was absent at the last meeting and for that reason did not have the opportunity of engaging in the discussion relative to increased salaries for the teachers. He was afraid that the matter had not been given due consideration and he made the motion that the entire schedule of salaries be placed in the hands of a special committee to report at the July meeting. This motion followed a motion by Commissioner Tompkins, chairman of the teachers' committee, to make Miss Graham a supervisor of all primary work at a salary of $750 for nine months. This motion was seconded by Mr. Osborn.

SALARIES RE-CONSIDERED.

After this vote was taken, Mr. Osborn moved re-consideration of the entire matter and the chair ruled that he was out of order because he did not vote in the affirmative at the other meeting. Mr. Harding promptly replied that he would make the motion which Mr. Osborn had just made, stating that he had previously voted affirmatively just because he wanted to bring the matter up again. A number of commissioners again expressed their desire to increase the pay of the teachers, but in the light of the financial condition of the city had found no way to do it. Mr. J. H. Ross said it was humiliating to him to be unable to vote for an increase, but he believed it was his duty to be an honest commissioner just as much as to be an honest man. He would gladly vote an increase if he

OLD TEACHERS RE-ELECTED.

Morrison, Charlie Hutchinson, Jennie Patterson, Josephine Osburne, Alice Moore, Fannie B. Moore, Julia D. Roberts, Bleeker Reid, Ethel Spillman, Margaret Kilgour, Eunice Sadler, Clara Anthony, Lella Green, M. C. Springs, Sadie Washington, Rosa Barber, Wyche, Nellie Johnson, N. L. Lee, Zella Alston, H. G. Stewart, J. M. Pride and S. B. Pride, principal.

The following named were elected to the colored schools: Addie McKnight, M. L. Caldwell, Hattie Neal, E. W. Tyson, Lucretia Jackson, Hoana Green, M. C. Springs, Sadie Washington, Rosa Barber, Wyche, Nellie Johnson, N. L. Lee, Zella Alston, H. G. Stewart, J. M. Pride and S. B. Pride, principal.

It was agreed to leave the assignment of the teachers to the special committee and grade with the superintendent and the teachers' committee and also the selection of a new ninth grade teacher.

BEING SUED FOR DIVORCE.

Mr. George O. Tenney Being Sued For Divorce in Richmond, Va., by His Wife. Mr. George O. Tenney, of Richmond, Va., who is so well known in Charlotte where he spent a great part of his time last year while the Atlantic Bitulithic Company, of which he is president, was putting down the new bitulithic streets on the city streets, is being sued by his wife for a divorce. The following is from a recent issue of The Richmond News-Leader:

"George G. Tenney, president of the Atlantic Bitulithic Company, member of the Commonwealth and Westmoreland Clubs and prominent in society and club circles in Massachusetts, Alabama, Tennessee, North Carolina cities, is defendant in a suit for divorce instituted in the chancery court by Mrs. Aleda Tenney, now his wife, who lives at the Hotel Richmond and occupies a suite of offices in the Mutual building.

"The domestic infelicities of the Tenneys began about two years ago. They then occupied a residence in West Franklin street. Mr. Tenney now lives at the Hotel Richmond and occupies a suite of offices in the Mutual building.

"Mrs. Tenney is the sister of the Dowager Countess von Krockow, of Germany, who was several years ago a social favorite in New York.

"The complaining wife seeks an absolute divorce and alimony sufficient to sustain her social position. She says her husband is a wealthy man, deriving an enormous income from his large holdings in the Atlantic Bitulithic Company and his salary as president of the corporation.

"While no woman is named as co-respondent in the bill of complaint, Mrs. Tenney's declaration carries the charge that Tenney had at different could do so honestly and with the full knowledge that the city could stand the increase. Personally, he did not believe in contracting debts he was unable to pay. Not otherwise was it with him officially.

A RAP AT TAX COLLECTOR.

The question was called for and the vote resulted in a tie. Chairman Sexton stated that he wanted Mr. Osborn to be fully satisfied about the situation and he would therefore vote for the appointment of a committee to make an investigation, naming Messrs. W. F. Harding, F. M. Osborn, J. H. Ross and W. L. Nicholson for this work.

During a subsequent discussion of the election of new teachers, City Clerk and Treasurer A. H. Wear mentioned the fact that the board's account was recently overdrawn.

"I want to ask you why it was overdrawn, Mr. Wear?" interogated Mr. Harding.

"Well, we just didn't have the money," said the treasurer.

"Wasn't it because the tax collector had been sitting supinely in his office and allowing the people to go along without paying their taxes?"

"Well, then, we need a tax collector who will get out and get the money. He has all the facilities and machinery for making the collections and there is absolutely no reason why this board should be embarrassed because another officer of the city does not do his duty."

The board increased the salary of Miss Sallie Bethune, principal of the Fourth Ward school to $75 a month, this being an increase of about $10, but refused to vote an increase of a like amount for Miss Mary Graham as superintendent of the primary work. A large number of the commissioners spoke in the highest terms of praise of the efficiency of Miss Graham and her undoubted qualities as a teacher, but felt that such a salary could not be paid for a new office in connection with the schools.

The following named were elected to the colored schools: Addie McKnight, M. L. Caldwell, Hattie Neal, E. W. Tyson, Lucretia Jackson, Hoana Green, M. C. Springs, Sadie Washington, Rosa Barber, Wyche, Nellie Johnson, N. L. Lee, Zella Alston, H. G. Stewart, J. M. Pride and S. B. Pride, principal.

Judge Daniel Grinnan, of the chancery court, issued a decree by the terms of which Mr. Tenney is required to pay his wife, pending the action for divorce, $200 a month for the support of herself and daughter, and $100 cash for their immediate needs.

Tenney is enjoined by the decree against removing any of his tangible personal property beyond the jurisdiction of the court or disposing of his stock in the Atlantic Bitulithic Company. The defendant in this suit derives from the company of which he is the head an annual salary of $7,500. He is said to be wealthy.

The Secret of Prize Winning Pastry. Fourteen prizes (nearly all of them first) out of fifteen entries of cakes and fine pastry is a record that any woman might envy. This was the showing made recently by Mrs. J. H. Chastain, 299 S. Boulevard, Atlanta, Ga., at the Georgia State Fair. Her explanation of her success is decidedly interesting, she writes: "I entered nine cakes and six pies at the Georgia State Fair, Atlanta, Ga. I won eight first premiums on cakes, three first premiums and two seconds on pies, also first premium on general display. I attribute my success in cake making altogether to using COTTOLENE and not butter."

Mr. Chastain is the wife of the Master Mechanic of the Western & Atlantic R. R., and enjoys a high local reputation for her fine cooking. Not only does she use COTTOLENE in making cakes or crusts, and other pastry; but for frying chicken, fish, etc., she finds it unequalled. For over nine years she has not had a pound of lard in her house, using COTTOLENE exclusively.
