HORNETS AND TWINS IN GREAT CLASH

Better Pitching and Errorless Fielding, Winston Got Both the Games, 1 to 0

21 Innings of Play, Last Game of Double-Header Running to 12 Frames, Winston, Boys Played Without Error—Hornets Displayed Ginger and Fielded Brilliantly at Times, Showing Marked Defensive Talent. But Nothing Aggressive—Laval and Dent Did Not Be Hit Successfully—Pitcher's Battles, Were Both Games.

There were some very wise guys in the grandstand yesterday and one or two of them sat in the reserved seats... There are two ways of winning games. One of them is by scoring and the other is by the umpire forfeiting... Carter's bunch is composed of a few first-class artists. Its strength, however, is its team ability, with Charlotte hasn't... It would have been a good day for us to have taken off one or two of those games while Greenville was exulting over its triumph from its height... Umpire Liebrich is a mighty good official, and he needn't explain things to the grandstand. A good way, that, to let the grandstand influence one... Wouldn't it have been much surprised had Winston taken one; less surprised had Charlotte taken both. As it was, O. well, there's no use in crying about it... When Umpire Liebrich and Redmond sat facing each other on the ground at the plate after Warner had tagged the runner, it was funnier than the pictures on the funny sheets... Dent pitched the best game that has been seen on the local diamond and we don't know that it has been beat in the league. Went ten straight innings without a hit and only 28 men faced him in 12 innings... It looks like a strange snap of luck that both games should go the same way by such a close score, but can't blame it on luck. Winston won those two games, as hotly as they were contested... Best for every use. Clinchfield Coal of Quality.
