INSANITY BIGGERS' PLEA

I saw that was doing no good. I took him into the room where the children were asleep. He began to look into his one hand and he looked at it and looked at it and turned it over and over, and he would stretch his fingers out and he turned to me and said: "This arm is all I have got to support you and my little babies, and I told him that that was all right, and he went and waved his arm over them, and said something in such a strange voice, I would never recognize it as my husband's voice. I then begged him to go to bed. I could hear him all night. He would whistle, as a man does when he has been working very, very hard and is completely tired out."

MONDAY MORNING

Monday morning Mr. Biggers got up early and went out. I don't know when he went or what he was doing and he came home about 2 o'clock and he ate a bite of dinner and I noticed he was pale and all to pieces. I do not know what he was doing in the afternoon. Monday night he went to bed. I told him I was completely worn out and had suffered—I had rather pass through death than to suffer as I had been suffering. I can't express it. I told him I wanted him to go to bed and he told me he would try, and he went into his room, and I could hear him all night. Tuesday morning, before day, I went to his room door and called him to come to my room and he walked in and went to making a fire. I asked him if he was going to make a fire and he said, "I reckon," and I said it was too early to get up. I said, "You come and lie down on my bed and rest," and he laid down for a few minutes, and it was raining, and I made up my mind that I would never again mention this trouble. I said it was raining, and that he had rheumatism and ought of to go out that day and could stay at home and help me to polish my floors. He paid no attention to me and went out; I called him to breakfast and when he came in, I saw he had collapsed. His eyes were fixed on the wall and I never saw such an expression on any face. I would not have recognized my own husband anywhere. He took a few sips of coffee, and I said, "What makes you look this way?" and he paid no attention to me and went out, and I heard him shut the door after him. I went to the window and looked to see him but could not see him. In a short while, my sister, Mrs. Hood, came over and told me what had happened. I said, "He was as crazy as he could be this morning." In a few minutes Dr. A. J. Crowell came in and spoke to me and turned around to my sister and said, "Mrs. Hood, he was the craziest man I ever saw." That is as far as I can go.

Death of Infant Daughter.

Frances Vivian, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Fox, died yesterday morning at 8:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. C. J. Fox, sister of Mrs. Fox. The funeral will be conducted at the home of Mrs. Fox, No. 566 South Church street, this morning at 10 o'clock, by Rev. E. L. Rain, pastor of Trinity Methodist church. The interment will be at Elmwood.

SPEAKING OF FERRIES.

Automobile People Strike Crossing In Georgia Which Requires Twice as Much Time to Cross as Does Sloan's.

The special to The Atlanta Journal of yesterday from the scouting party in an Oldsmobile and a White steam-er, investigating with a view to the selection of a route for the great automobile endurance race from New York to Atlanta tells of Tucker's ferry across the Savannah river in Elbert county, Ga., between Abbeville and Elberton, Ga., the crossing of which required 15 minutes. Only one car could be transported at a time and some concern was felt about even one. All of which, that being on the Capital route, is respectfully submitted. It will be recalled that complaint was made of the Charlotte route that, while only one ferry on it had to be crossed between New York and Atlanta, this being Sloan's ferry near the progressive city of Charlotte, yet this one was just one too many and would count against this route in competition with the other unless the Rozzell ferry bridge were completed by October 1, so that ferrying would be unnecessary.

Now, by actual count, it takes but seven and one-half minutes to cross the muddy waters of the Catawba at Sloan's ferry and furthermore the boat has frequently carried two motor cars with ease. It has also transported the huge truck of the Pepsi-Cola Company a number of times. It would appear on this showing that it would require just four times as long to cross the Savannah as it would the Catawba. Besides, there is a good prospect that the new iron bridge will be available by then. This is handed out merely by way of convincing a portion "the other side out of the mouths of its own witnesses," as the lawyers say.

Charlotte's Wireless Station.

The first wireless station for Charlotte has been established and messages were transmitted yesterday. Though the operation was somewhat imperfect yesterday, it is thought that within a day or two things will be adjusted and the system placed in first-class shape. The wireless is an invention of Messrs. Heriot Clarkson, Jr., and E. L. Keebler, Jr. One station is at the home of young Mr. Clarkson, at No. 702 North Pine street, and the other at the home of Mr. Keebler, at No. 206 East Sixth street.

The young men are each 16 years of age and have given much earnest thought to their invention. Though the messages sent yesterday were not as satisfactory as they should have been, the adjustments had not been completed and to-day better results are expected.

Charged With Stealing Hat.

Sam Wallace, colored, who was bound over from the recorder's court Wednesday on the charge of perjury, visited that tribunal again on yesterday morning. He was charged with stealing a hat from the Seaboard Air Line Railway Company. It was not in evidence that the soulless corporation wears hats but that was no reason why it should not possess one. Bond of $50 was required of the defendant.

WEDDED IN WASHINGTON.

Miss Rena Gray Lassiter Becomes the Bride of Mr. A. V. Joyner, of Wise—Both Popular North Carolinians. Joyner-Lassiter, at Washington.

Washington, June 17.—A quiet, but beautiful home marriage occurred last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Brown, 1422 Potomac avenue, when Miss Rena Gray Lassiter was wedded to Mr. A. V. Joyner, of Wise, N. C. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lassiter, of Wake Forest, are residing temporarily in Washington and the ceremony was performed by Rev. E. P. Ellington, of Wake Forest, an uncle of the bride. The guests were limited to relatives and a few friends. The only attendants were Miss Emma Jeanette Lassiter, as maid of honor, and Mr. Clarence Holloway, as best man.

The wedding march was impressively rendered by Mrs. D. J. Brown. The bride was handsomely arrayed in cream messaline satin, made d'ecollete, and carried a shower bouquet of Bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor was charmingly attired in pink silk and carried a large bouquet of Enchantress carnations.

The decorations were beautiful in the extreme, consisting of pink and white carnations with ferns and palms. Delightful refreshments were served before the departure of the happy couple for Baltimore and other cities on their bridal tour.

Mr. Joyner is a prominent young Baptist minister of North Carolina, a graduate of Wake Forest College, and a gentleman of pleasing address and fine intellectual equipment. The bride, a graduate of the State Normal with bachelor's degree, is a young lady of unusual accomplishments and beauty of character, who while at the normal was actively identified with W. W. C. A. work. Mr. and Mrs. Joyner will reside at Wise, N. C.

Young Woman Prefers Charge of Seduction.

Mack Jenkins, a young white man of about 30 years, is under arrest here on charge of seduction under promise of marriage, preferred by Gaffney, S. C. Jenkins asserted his innocence, but refused to go without requisition papers. This fact was communicated to Sheriff W. W. Thomas, of Cherokee county, S. C., who wired Governor Ansel and the latter telegraphed Gov. W. W. Kitchin, of this State. He in turn wired Chief T. M. Christenbury to hold him. The papers, it is presumed, are en route. Jenkins had been in Charlotte some time, being an employe of the Hoskins Mill. He was arrested by Officer House as soon as the warrant was received from Sheriff Thomas.

A LITTLE RED SPOT.

Novel Experiment by Which It May Be Made to Disappear.

A peculiar feature about psoriasis, the new skin discovery, is that no one is asked to buy it without first sending to the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West Twenty-fifth street New York City, for an experimental sample and applying same to an affected part of the skin, about the size of a silver dollar. It will clear the spot so treated in twenty-four hours—a remarkable visual demonstration of its powers. While psoriasis has been mentioned principally in connection with the cure of eczema, the most stubborn of skin diseases, it must be remembered that when used for itch, hives, pimples, blotches, acne, itching feet, scaly scalp, chafing of infants and similar minor skin troubles its action is all the more pronounced, results being seen after an overnight application. As only a small quantity of psoriasis is necessary to cure such cases, a special fifty-cent package, usually sufficient, has been placed on sale at R. H. Jordan & Co.'s and other leading drug stores in Charlotte and throughout the country.
