SUGAR AND RICE REVIEW.

New York, June 25.-The sugar situation has shown little in the way of interesting features during the past week and taken all in all, is not very satisfactory from the refiners' standpoint. The absence of demand is, of course, only natural after the recent spurt of buying incidental to the short-lived slashing of prices, distributors being busy in taking out the augurs purchased these contracts are cleared up, the tranquility will continue, but some circles point to the rumors of private shading of quotations as not the best of omens The hot weather may for the future clear away the atmosphere of suspicion in refining circles, for an active consuming movement will mean business for all concerned While present selling factics, so brokers claim, have spotled the summer campaign there is yet time to mend matters. The refiners have raw augar enough to carry them through July at least and for this reason are refusing to climb after the remainder of the Cuban crop.
