

Georgia and Virginia Reserves. The Richmond Enquirer, in its anxiety to delaminate Carolina, and to make good its charge that the Legislature is plotting to break the Confederacy...

RESOLUTIONS. Resolved, That the Governor be authorized to employ and for military purposes...

WARREN AXIN, Speaker of the House of Reps. JOHN BILLUPS, President of the Senate.

Georgia not only takes such conscripts as she pleases, but she provides that if any of the military of the Confederate States should be incompatible with her Constitution...

Under the act organizing companies of rangers, the military service was declared to be for two months. In the month of August last, the Director of the State...

These State Rangers were raised twelve months ago, and they embrace of course men over eighteen and under forty five. They are now conscripts, and Gov. Letcher is evidently disposed to retain them in State service.

Virginia is a sovereign State, and can raise troops to protect her citizens—but North-Carolina is she "any thing?" But Gov. Letcher, who is evidently proud of his State troops, a portion of which are conscripts, again speaking of Gen. Floyd, says:

He has his ten thousand men, and he will do more for Virginia than any other man could do. He might say of some North-Carolina General, Gov. Vance, the Constitutional Commander-in-Chief, "give him ten thousand men, and he will do for Eastern North-Carolina than any other man is likely to accomplish for the relief of this section of the State."

The war correspondent (P. W. Alexander) of the South Carolina Republican truly says: "It were not too far to say that President Davis yields more power at this time than Gen. Jackson or Gen. Lee ever aspired to in their palmy days."

Current Notes. We do not intend to send you uncourteous letters, and we do not intend to send you uncourteous letters, and we do not intend to send you uncourteous letters...

The Richmond Enquirer. The Enquirer says, "It is only upstarts and pretenders and persons and communities without claim to solid respect, who may be expected to torture themselves with doubts as to their position, and to be ever on jealous watch for some slight or indignity."

We now say, in reply to the Enquirer, and our readers will sustain us in the statement, that no State has more fully confided in the administration at Richmond than North-Carolina, and no State has been more studiously or coldly neglected.

General Roanoke Island, the key to the Albemarle Sound and to Norfolk, was lost in the same way. Generals would not risk themselves on the Island. A mere Colonel, without experience, was obliged to assume the command.

And recently Goldsborough was almost in the grasp of the enemy. What saved it? Not preparations in advance—not a disposition shown by acts, to drive back the enemy and protect our people, but the fact that the Railroad on which Goldsborough is situated is indispensable to the government at Richmond.

And what does this fellow mean by calling Col. Potter a "North-Carolina Yankee?" Col. P. is a Yankee officer, and nothing else. An attempt was made by the Yankees to raise a regiment of the rabble population in those Counties occupied by them.

One of the principal difficulties with which General Evans has to contend in this section, is the disloyalty of the people. There are a few remaining here who are true, but they are a leaven to the mass. One does not know who to trust, and communication with Newbern is so easy that a night passes when information is not conveyed to the headquarters of Gen. Foster.

Without a murmur. But insult to a large majority of our people has been added to neglect, by the systematic manner in which partisans have been appointed to military as well as civil office in this State, by the administration. Political Generals and Generals from other States, have been placed over our troops.

He was allowed to retire with many compliments, just as it is sought to cajole his State with fair words, whenever her people evince their indignation at the treatment they have received at the hands of the administration. But we are not disposed to dwell upon these things, and we have alluded to them only in self-defence.

He has his ten thousand men, and he will do more for Virginia than any other man could do. He might say of some North-Carolina General, Gov. Vance, the Constitutional Commander-in-Chief, "give him ten thousand men, and he will do for Eastern North-Carolina than any other man is likely to accomplish for the relief of this section of the State."

The Southern Cultivator. See advertisement of this valuable agricultural monthly in the Standard to day. The Cultivator is conducted with much ability, and is remarkably cheap in these times of high prices. It is really worth three times the money asked for it by its Editor.

Another Misrepresentation. We have seldom seen in a South-Carolina paper since this war began, ungenerous flings at, or flagrant misrepresentations of, North-Carolina soldiers or of the people of this State.

The Richmond Enquirer, in its anxiety to delaminate Carolina, and to make good its charge that the Legislature is plotting to break the Confederacy, by taking steps to raise the reserves, studiously conceals the fact that the reserves, studiously conceals the fact that the reserves, studiously conceals the fact that the reserves...

Gen. Evans' brigade. We make a few extracts for comment. The writer, anxious to cover up the profanity attributed to the General, on the occasion of the demand of Foster to surrender, gives what he calls a true history of that interview, as follows:

The conversation was commenced by one of the officers in the following words: "I understand, sir, (bowing) that some of your troops have indicated a wish to surrender, and I have been pleased to receive the surrender, by General Foster. I present, sir, that you are General Evans?"

Gen. Evans' brigade. We make a few extracts for comment. The writer, anxious to cover up the profanity attributed to the General, on the occasion of the demand of Foster to surrender, gives what he calls a true history of that interview, as follows:

Gen. Evans' brigade. We make a few extracts for comment. The writer, anxious to cover up the profanity attributed to the General, on the occasion of the demand of Foster to surrender, gives what he calls a true history of that interview, as follows:

Gen. Evans' brigade. We make a few extracts for comment. The writer, anxious to cover up the profanity attributed to the General, on the occasion of the demand of Foster to surrender, gives what he calls a true history of that interview, as follows:

Gen. Evans' brigade. We make a few extracts for comment. The writer, anxious to cover up the profanity attributed to the General, on the occasion of the demand of Foster to surrender, gives what he calls a true history of that interview, as follows:

Gen. Evans' brigade. We make a few extracts for comment. The writer, anxious to cover up the profanity attributed to the General, on the occasion of the demand of Foster to surrender, gives what he calls a true history of that interview, as follows:

Gen. Evans' brigade. We make a few extracts for comment. The writer, anxious to cover up the profanity attributed to the General, on the occasion of the demand of Foster to surrender, gives what he calls a true history of that interview, as follows:

Gov. Seymour's Message. Gov. Seymour, of New York, makes the strongest ground in his message in favor of the federal Constitution, and against unconstitutional arrests of citizens by Lincoln.

He condemns the emancipation proclamation as impolitic, unjust, and unconstitutional. He says if the South must be held under military subjection, and the negroes be managed by the government, the government will become a military despotism.

He argues that the Union is indissoluble, and that sections North and South must be put down and the Union restored on the basis of the Constitution.

The Richmond Examiner. We are glad to find the Examiner putting in a word in behalf of truth and right on the subject of the ten regiment bill pending in our Legislature.

After alluding to the invasion of this State, and the perilous condition of our Eastern Counties, the Examiner says: "It is not surprising that the Legislature of North Carolina should have sought to defend itself by vigorous measures."

The reader need not be informed that we regard the law of emancipation as fully warranted by the Constitution of the Confederacy, for this newspaper was the first proponent of the measure.

How, JOHN BRANCH. This distinguished citizen died at his summer residence, Enfield, Halifax Co. in this State on the 4th inst. at the advanced age of 80 years.

We observe that the Central Railroad train leaves this City every evening immediately after the Raleigh and Gaston train arrives, giving no time for the passengers to get on board the Central cars.

Gen. Gu-avus W. Smith's Department extends from the Southern boundary of North Carolina to Gen. Lee's command in Virginia. There are three divisions, of which Gen. French commands one, Gen. Elzey another, and Gen. Whiting the third.

The Charlotte Bulletin, echoing the sentiments of the Richmond Enquirer in relation to the ten regiment bill before our Legislature, says: "If they permit, we candidly believe the President ought to send a regiment to Raleigh, and arrest and punish every man engaged in the damnable plot."

GENERAL. Soon after the battle of Fredericksburg, the following liberal contributions to the uniforms of that place were made by the North-Carolina troops composing Gen. Cook's brigade:

15th North-Carolina: $366 10; 46th " " " " 650 50; 97th " " " " 109 10; 43rd " " " " $3,071 15.

Municipal Election. Mr. Editor: The election for nine Commissioners of this City will come off on the 19th inst. as an important event. Wholly unprepared, we undertake the claims of others named for the position, we recommend, after consultation, the following ticket to the voters of the several wards.

Municipal Election. Mr. Editor: The election for nine Commissioners of this City will come off on the 19th inst. as an important event. Wholly unprepared, we undertake the claims of others named for the position, we recommend, after consultation, the following ticket to the voters of the several wards.

Municipal Election. Mr. Editor: The election for nine Commissioners of this City will come off on the 19th inst. as an important event. Wholly unprepared, we undertake the claims of others named for the position, we recommend, after consultation, the following ticket to the voters of the several wards.

Municipal Election. Mr. Editor: The election for nine Commissioners of this City will come off on the 19th inst. as an important event. Wholly unprepared, we undertake the claims of others named for the position, we recommend, after consultation, the following ticket to the voters of the several wards.

Municipal Election. Mr. Editor: The election for nine Commissioners of this City will come off on the 19th inst. as an important event. Wholly unprepared, we undertake the claims of others named for the position, we recommend, after consultation, the following ticket to the voters of the several wards.

Municipal Election. Mr. Editor: The election for nine Commissioners of this City will come off on the 19th inst. as an important event. Wholly unprepared, we undertake the claims of others named for the position, we recommend, after consultation, the following ticket to the voters of the several wards.

Municipal Election. Mr. Editor: The election for nine Commissioners of this City will come off on the 19th inst. as an important event. Wholly unprepared, we undertake the claims of others named for the position, we recommend, after consultation, the following ticket to the voters of the several wards.

Municipal Election. Mr. Editor: The election for nine Commissioners of this City will come off on the 19th inst. as an important event. Wholly unprepared, we undertake the claims of others named for the position, we recommend, after consultation, the following ticket to the voters of the several wards.

HEADQUARTERS. Major General Sherman (Director of U. S. Ordnance, &c.) O. R. S. No. 10,000. COMMANDING OFFICERS OF MILITIA REGIMENTS in the 5th Congressional District of N. C., comprising the Counties of Orange, Wake, Granville, Franklin, &c.

COMMANDING OFFICERS OF MILITIA REGIMENTS in the 5th Congressional District of N. C., comprising the Counties of Orange, Wake, Granville, Franklin, &c.

COMMANDING OFFICERS OF MILITIA REGIMENTS in the 5th Congressional District of N. C., comprising the Counties of Orange, Wake, Granville, Franklin, &c.

COMMANDING OFFICERS OF MILITIA REGIMENTS in the 5th Congressional District of N. C., comprising the Counties of Orange, Wake, Granville, Franklin, &c.

COMMANDING OFFICERS OF MILITIA REGIMENTS in the 5th Congressional District of N. C., comprising the Counties of Orange, Wake, Granville, Franklin, &c.

COMMANDING OFFICERS OF MILITIA REGIMENTS in the 5th Congressional District of N. C., comprising the Counties of Orange, Wake, Granville, Franklin, &c.

COMMANDING OFFICERS OF MILITIA REGIMENTS in the 5th Congressional District of N. C., comprising the Counties of Orange, Wake, Granville, Franklin, &c.

COMMANDING OFFICERS OF MILITIA REGIMENTS in the 5th Congressional District of N. C., comprising the Counties of Orange, Wake, Granville, Franklin, &c.

COMMANDING OFFICERS OF MILITIA REGIMENTS in the 5th Congressional District of N. C., comprising the Counties of Orange, Wake, Granville, Franklin, &c.

COMMANDING OFFICERS OF MILITIA REGIMENTS in the 5th Congressional District of N. C., comprising the Counties of Orange, Wake, Granville, Franklin, &c.