The first of the four big trains of Barnum & Bailey's circus arrived at 5 o'clock, and by 9 a hot and elaborate breakfast for 700 was served at tables. Meanwhile every tent had been erected and every seat mounted. Costumes had been unpacked and hundreds of horses stabled, curried and fed. The staff declared that even the crack artillery regiments could not equal the performance, and the Thirty-sixth field artillery regiment was ordered out from barracks to entrain and detrain. Various faults were pointed out by Mr. Bailey and his superintendent. A stenographer took down the sugges-tions, which will later be embodied

School's Prompt Reply.

Fritz Scheel, director of the Philadelphia orchestra, has a fondness for American slang and colloquialisms that is far in excess of his aptness in acquiring the exact words and sense. When he first came to Philadelphia in the summer of 1899, he was struck by the expression "out of sight" sycken with fine heartiness to indicate pleasure and satisfaction with the general order of things. School determined to make use of it at the first opportunity and to that end repeated it over and over to himself, always keeping in mind the circumstances under which it should be uttered. ernoon when the latter was playing at Woodside park and cheerily called

New Jersey's Leach Industry. "Hirudo day" is an anniversary in New Jersey that is never heard of elsewhere. It is the day on which the men who gather leeches for medical use go to town to collect their pay, leaving it till this particular day. Leech buying is not the work for a novice. The question of price is not at all involved in the game, as the leech catchers have the only trust permitted on New Jersey soil, and they fix the price per dozen at which they will sell. Their prices range from $1.80 to $3.80 per dosen this year, according to the age of the leech. A leech under the age of eighteen months is not a medicinal leech. His suctorial proboscis is not fully developed until he passes seventeen months, although he acquires a full set of semicircular teeth in his jaws at the age of one

Mr. Sage is not always accompanied in the street or in traveling between his home and office by a bodyguard or detective. Frequently he goes about entirely alone and seemingly is without fear except when in his office.-New York Press.

A Singular Competition A singular contest has just taken place near Birmingham. Stones were placed a yard apart for a hundred yards, and a local butcher had undertaken to pick each one up sep-arately and return it to a basket at the end of the line. The time allowed to accomplish this performance was fifty-five minutes, and the butcher succeeded in finishing in forty-eight minutes. The task is not so simple as it first appears, for when in the seventies he was running something like 150 yards for such stone, which was increased to 200 at the finish. In this way he covered a considerable distance it

CONDENSED STORIES.

General Pitz-Hugh Loo's Last Cent Major General John Gibbon thus describes his meeting with General Fitz-Hugh Lee at the McLean house, Appomattox county, Va., in April, 1865, at the time of the Confederate surrender: "Going to the door, I found General Fitz Lee seated on his horse and looking, as I thought, somewhat uneasy. He had been a cadet under me at West Point, and I had not seen him for years. As I looked at him a vision I could think only of a little rollicking fellow dressed in cadet gray, whose jolly songs and gay spirits were the life of his class. My salu-tation of Hello, Fitz! Get off and come in,' seemed to put him at his ease at once and brought him to his feet. He came into the house and told me his story. Before leaving, with a grim humor, he took from his pocket a five dollar Confederate note, and, writing across its face, For Mrs. Gibbon, with the compn-ments of Fitz Lee,' he said, 'Send the circus tent, and then the whole circus melted away toward the next that to your wife and tell her it's

THINK WE HAVE KRITZINGER CORNERED was being hotly pursued by Kritsinger himself. So well did he tell his story that the blockhouses actually held up the advance of the pursuing column of English with a heavy fire. Riding up one evening | when he found the door was really to a blookhouse, dressed in an English captain's costume and attended by two orderlies, he announced that the column to which he was attached would pass through at midnight on a night march and they were on no account to fire on it. He selected the spot at which he would cross and insisted on absolute silence being observed "I think we have Kritzinger cornered now," he remarked cheerily, "and so 'elp me," said the crestfallen noncommissioned officer next morning when he found out his mistake, "if I didn't salute 'im and the men give 'im a cheer as 'e rode off."

A Famous Huckster.

At the opening performance of "Beaucaire" its author, Booth Tarkington, was pointed out to a certain ady of Malaprop tendencies as the "famous Hoosier novelist."

"Why Hoosier?" she asked. "That's what they call a gentleman from Indiana," was the reply.

A few evenings later on being introduced to Mr. Tarkington at a reception this Mrs. Malaprop enthusiastically exclaimed in an effort to be genial, "So you are the famous huckster!"—New York Times.

Life Saving Elephant Who Caught Cold and Died. A few years ago two children were bathing in the sea at a little town on the coast of France when suddenly for some reason or other they were carried out of their depth. In a few moments their cries as they struggled in the deep water aroused attention, but before any one could reach them they were rescued in an altogether unexpected manner.

One morning I found my terrier Nip sitting outside the store cupboard. He always liked to be near when it was opened, because he hoped to get something to eat, so I took no notice of him; but he jumped up at me and then at the door, asking as plainly as he could that it might be opened. I scolded him for being so greedy, but he would not move. Later in the day cook wanted something from the cupboard and remarked that Nip had been sitting there ever since breakfast. He seemed very excited and pleased going to be opened, and when cook threw back the door we knew why. Pussy, who is a great friend of his, walked out. COST OF OCEAN SPEEDING.

Much has been said of late regarding the speed of the German Atlantic greyhounds. Not enough, perhaps, has been said regarding the cost of this speed. The latest creation of the North German Lloyd, Kaiser Wilhelm II., is designed to do twenty-four knots an hour at an expenditure of 40,000 indicated horsepower. Our White Star liner Cedric, the largest ship in the world, will go seventeen knots with 14,000 horsepower. But, says the Shipping World, the Kaiser Wilhelm will burn 750 tons of coal per day, which is 190 per cent more than the Cedric, and she will need 256 more hands to work her. Curiously enough, of-her crew of 600 only forty-five will be ordinary sailors, the remainder being mechanics of various orders,-London Telegraph,
