EXPECTING SOMETHING FOR NOTHING. Over Credulous People Who Expect the Government to Provide for Them. Raleigh News and Observer.

When the Alliance was first organized, some of the more ignorant members did not fully understand its mission. They thought it was a sort of Santa Claus that was to bring them something. To illustrate that misconception Captain Alexander told a story about a farmer in his section who brought a bag with him at the second meeting of the Alliance.

It takes time for some people to catch on to new things. Take the matter of free silver. Some people thought they were to get silver for nothing. Some people talk about a "free gospel" and think it means they mustn't pay the preacher.

"Dis is a free d'livery mail hain't it?" asked the darkey. "Yes," replied 'Squire Little, "I deliver your mail free if you put up a box."

"Why don't you subscribe for a paper?" asked 'Squire Little, "and then you'll get mail." "I lowed dis was er free d'livery, and it hits free I see 'titled ter papers same as anybody else," was the answer, and it was sometime before the expectant darkey could be made to understand that the government didn't subscribe for newspapers and send them to him free.
