MONUMENTS OF SHAME.

Monuments Erected to Men Who Were Liars While on Earth.

While other nations build monuments to the memory of men who have done great and noble deeds, the Dryaks heap up a pile of the branches of trees in memory of the man who has uttered a great lie, so that future generations may know of his wickedness and take warning from it.

The Dryaks consider the most of any tongue but he may pass a sacred duty, the omission of which will meet with supernatural punishment, and so, however pressed for time a Dryak may be, he steps to throw on the pile some branches or twigs.

This custom dates from very ancient times. It is interesting to notice that though the ethics of the Dryaks, even at the present day, do not agree in many points with the moral code of other and more advanced races, still from the earliest ages the Dryaks seem to have agreed in considering the most disgraceful crime and a liar a man who deserves the curses not only of his own generation, but also of people yet unborn.

A few small branches, a few dry twigs and leaves—that is what the tongue-bula is at. But day by day it increases in size. Every passerby adds something to it, and in a few years' time it becomes a large and imposing monument raised to the memory of one who was a liar.

It has often been remarked by Dryaks that any other punishment would, if a man had his choice, be much preferred to having a tongue-bula put up in his memory. Other punishments are soon forgotten, but a tongue-bula remains as a testimony to a man's untruthfulness for succeeding generations to witness and as a standing disgrace to his children's children.

Believing, as the Dryaks do, in the efficacy of curses—a curse among them being a fineable offense—it is easy to understand how a Dryak would dread the accumulation of curses, which would necessarily accompany the formation of a tongue-bula—Straits Settlements Budget.

Smoking in Berlin Streets. Before May 23, 1832, no smoking was allowed in the streets or parks of Berlin, and offenders were punished by a fine for the first infraction of the rule and by imprisonment afterward. The king of Prussia in those days detected smoking and the police and the military men were under strict orders to arrest any one who dared to smoke in public. It is recorded that when Napoleon occupied Berlin a hundred years ago the Berliners eagerly took advantage of the opportunity to smoke, and took a special delight in puffing smoke in the faces of the police, who had then no power to arrest them. In 1832, however, the restriction was withdrawn, and since then the people have celebrated the anniversary with great joy.

Extinguisher. "I followed good advice about returning good for evil," said Mr. Rafferty. "Casey has done me some bad turns, but he wanted a favor, and I heaped coals of fire on him."
"Coals of fire, is it?" said Mr. Dolan.
"Well, there's no great danger. As he can't pass the house while ago yer wife, he may be neighborly repairs, he tossed a bucket of water on 'im, so the chance of his burnin' alive is over."
—St. Louis Republic.

Speaking From Experience. "If a man tells the exact truth at all times," says the philosopher, "he has done as much as ought to be expected of him."
"My friend," answered the weather forecaster, "he has done a great deal more than ought to be expected of him."
—Washington Star.

A WARNING TO MOTHERS.

Too much care cannot be used with small children during the hot weather of the summer months to guard against bowel troubles. As a rule it is only necessary to give the child a dose of castor oil to correct any disorder of the bowels. Do not use and substitute, but give old-fashioned castor oil, and see that it is fresh, as rancid oil nauseates and has a tendency to gripe. If this does not check the bowels give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and then a dose of castor oil, and the disease may be checked in its incipency and all danger avoided. The castor oil and this remedy should be procured at once and kept ready for instant use as soon as the first indication of any bowel trouble appears. This is the most successful treatment known and may be relied upon with implicit confidence even in cases of cholera infantum.

LOVE.

Love's a whetstone to the mind.—Anacreon.

Love stoops as fondly as he soars.—Wordsworth.

Love's best habit is in seeming trust.—Shakespeare.

They who love are but one step from heaven.—Lowell.

Love is not where most it is professed.—Spencer.

The deeper the love the more exacting it is.—George Sand.

There is but one kind of love, but there are a thousand different copies of it.—La Rochefoucauld.

Love is never lost. If it be not reciprocated, it will work back and soften and purify the heart.—Irving.

Love looks through spectacles which make copper appear like gold, poverty like riches and foul tears like pearls.—Cervantes.

Natural Law. The reputation of Mr. George Washington Jones for honesty had been slightly tarnished for some years, but his son Erastus was not supposed to know it.

"Cur's how cold contracts 'tings," Mr. Jones remarked thoughtfully one evening. "Now dere's Maximilian Smith's wood pile for a case. 'Pears like dat wood pile is shrinkin' steady since dis las' col' spell set in."

"Seems as if our pile behind de stove was gettin' bigger, paw," hazarded Erastus, gazing at his parent for explanation of this phenomenon.
"Course it am, chile," said Mr. Jones calmly. "'Cause de room is hot an' heat expands 'tings. 'Pears like yo' gwine to school don' put much wisdom into dat head of yours."

A Chinese Dog Story. The following dog story is a favorite one in China:

"There was a Chinaman who had three dogs. When he came home one evening he found them asleep on his couch of teakwood and marble, whipped them and drove them forth.

"The next night when he came home the dogs were lying on the floor. But he placed his hand on the couch and found it warm from their bodies; therefore he gave them another whipping."
"That night, returning earlier than usual, he found the dogs sitting before the couch, blowing on it to cool it."

Almost Impossible. Jack—Why wouldn't she marry you? She loves you to distraction. I know it, because she told me so. George—She insisted on my proving that I am not almost married, because she says there is a great deal of bigamy nowadays. Well, it is easy enough to prove that one is married, but how the dickens am I going to prove that I am not?

Painless Spanking. Father (cutting the whip smartly through the air)—See, Tommy, how I make the horse go faster without striking him at all. Tommy—Papa, why don't you spank us children that way?—Glasgow Times.

Stinky Steps. An old man was passing our house one afternoon, taking exceedingly short steps. My little cousin watched him for several minutes and then said, "Mamma, doesn't he walk stinky?"—Exchange.

A Knowing Dog. Traveler—Here, landlord, what's the matter with your dog? I've driven him away a score of times, but he always comes back again and sits close up to my armchair watching every mouthful I take. Do turn him out and let me have my dinner in peace. Landlord—Please, sir, my Carlo is such a knowing brute. I expect you have got the plate he generally eats off.

Considerate. "Why don't you take me with you sometimes on evenings, den?" I get so tired of staying at home alone."
"Because I can't afford to dress you as well as myself. I don't want to be seen around with a woman dressed as you are."

Absolute Proof. "Do you consider Whitties an honest man, Keene?"
"I know for certain that he contributes regularly to the conscience fund of the treasury department."

Don't judge a man by his failures in life, for many a man fails because he is too honest to succeed.

A SUMMER COLD. A summer cold is not only annoying but if not relieved Pneumonia will be the probable result by Fall. Mystery Solved at Last.

"I lost my notebook one day," said a novelist. "I searched the house over for it. From room to room I went, examining every corner, and at the end of a two hours' hunt I found the book."
"By Jove!" I exclaimed. "I wonder why it is that one always finds a thing in the very last place one looks for it?"
"Maybe," said a cousin of mine, "it is because after we find what we are hunting for we end our search."

A Doubtful Compliment. He—You are just as sweet as you can be. She—I don't think that much of a compliment. You see, it all depends upon how sweet you suppose I am capable of being.—Town Topics.

Duplicates. She—Did your sister get any duplicate wedding presents? He—Yes; she married a widower with two boys.—Yonkers Statesman.

A SWEET BREATH. Is a never failing sign of a healthy stomach. When the breath is bad the stomach is out of order. There is no remedy in the world equal to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for curing indigestion, dyspepsia, and all stomach disorders.

Mrs. Mary S. Creek, of White Plains, Ky., writes: "I have been dyspeptic for years; tried all kinds of remedies but continued to grow worse. By the use of Kodol I began to improve at once, and after taking a few bottles am fully restored in weight, health and strength and can eat whatever I like." Kodol digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by W. A. Leslie, druggist.

Breeze Gets Seven Years.

Charlotte Chronicle, July 30th.

S-seven years in the Federal prison at Atlanta.

This is the sentence of Maj. William E. Breeze, who was convicted of the abstraction and willful misapplication of funds and credits of the First National Bank of Asheville, of which he was president prior to its failure, seven years ago this very day. After deliberating for seven hours, the jury returned to the court room at 11:45 o'clock last night prepared to render a verdict. It was shortly after midnight when Col. H. C. Cowles polled the jury and asked for the verdict. "We find the defendant not guilty of embezzlement, but guilty of abstraction and the willful misapplication of funds," replied the foreman of the jury, Mr. John K. Patter-on, of Concord.

Then each juror asserted to his name as it was called by the clerk and concurred in the verdict. Defendant's attorneys filed bill of exceptions, and gave notice of appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Richmond.
