BANKS AND GOOD ROADS.

Treasurer McClung Points Out Effect of Highway on Finances.

From American Association for Highway Improvement.

Banks throughout the United States are carefully studying the movement for better roads and many of them have made inquiry of the American Association for Highway Improvement, which is the Washington clearing house for the road movement in the United States, for information relating to the methods of financing road improvement in various sections of the country and the effect of such improvement on values of property and the volume of business. Many old calculations based upon values in various sections have been completely upset by the good roads movement. Loe McClung, Treasurer of the United States, who is also treasurer of the American Association for Highway Improvement, in an interview explains why the road movement is attracting the close attention of financial institutions. "Last year," said Mr. McClung, "the expenditures for road improvement aggregated $142,000,000 in several States. A large part of this great outlay was represented by State, county and township bonds. Financial transactions of such magnitude must concern our banking institutions. If the securities are sound and the money realized from them is expended wisely and economically in needed improvements, they constitute excellent investments not merely for better roads but also for such efficient road administration as will prevent wastefulness and loss of road revenues. We need a great deal of road revenues and in this respect the knowledge and experience of the men who are trained in matters of finance can be of great help."

Anti-Saloon League.

An Address by Mr. Spainhour and a Letter From Mr. McKesson at a recent Meeting in Raleigh.

From the News and Observer's report of the second day's meeting of the Anti-Saloon League we take the following:

Without any preliminary Solicitor Spainhour, one of the able prosecuting officers of the State, was introduced. His subject was "Law Enforcement."

Confessing himself unable to understand why the whiskey men should object to the passage of a law that can't be enforced, he said that when a sentiment became strong enough to support a law perfectly, there would be no need of such a law. The difficulty of law enforcement, he said, lies in the county commissioners, the courts and solicitors.

The careless way in which juries are allowed to be chosen, with criminals trying criminals, he thought responsible for outrages of justice. The Christian ministry, he declared, are more at fault in that they do not unite and thunder such a sentiment as will make it impossible for men to sell liquor, ship liquor or drink liquor illegally. He told how the ministers of Burke had done. They carried on a sort of hit and run fight until all united. They had a great rally of the country people and the result of the meeting was that no liquor sympathizer got to the Legislature. "And in a few days," continued Mr. Spainhour, "both Democrats and Republicans were looking for the driest man in the county. And Burke had prohibition two years before the State had it."

The ministers did it, he said. He gave another illustration from Mitchell. An old Baptist preacher, Stephen Collins, went to work, and Mitchell went dry. "They could have had prohibition 30 years before they did, if the preachers had done their duty. And while Statesville was selling liquor like water, Mitchell had not a drop. (Laughter.)

"I don't want to get in a controversy with our new chairman, but Yancey is the driest county on earth. There only 28 votes were cast against State prohibition in 1908. This is the outgrowth of that agitation. In those early days, the dockets were crowded with murders, of the 100 of those prosecuted in my district, 25 being in Yancey. There was so much murder up there that people feared to hear the story of it down here, lest a Yancey criminal come down and get them."

"But they went further. They got together and decided that they would not support a man for office who makes, sells or drinks whiskey. (Great applause.) And they elected J. Bis Ray, a kinsman of Judge Pritchard, who had passed a law making it a felony to sell whiskey. So that now there is no whiskey sold in Yancey, and it is dry."

Mr. Spainhour believed the moral evident. The ministers can make the sentiment so strong that no man can go in the face of the moral forces.

MR. MCKESSON'S LETTER.

One of the most interesting matters of yesterday was the reading of a letter from Mr. C. F. McKesson, of Morganton. He could not come. His thrilling letter almost compensated for his failure. It was addressed to Chairman Heriot Clarkson and read:

My Dear Sir:—With no purpose to weave a golden gauze, to veil my own infirmities, I trust that your deliberations will arouse a deeper interest in the great work you are assembled to uphold. The heart of the best citizenship of the State is in earnest sympathy with the meetings now being held at the Capital City, and hopes that the builders will strengthen the foundation of the great temple of prohibition.

The first utterance for the liberty of the citizen that ever floated out over the world came on the 20th of May, 1775, from North Carolina. Great was that Declaration, the people of this Commonwealth issued a greater one, when by a majority of 44,196 they declared for State-wide prohibition. This temple of prohibition, built of the courage, manliness, the strength, the faith, the prayers and tears of the people, is ours—not to destroy, but to guard and defend. Think you that any conspirators can weave a noose that shall drag down the form and sentiment of prohibition in North Carolina?

Poultry Raising In the South.

Washington Correspondence.

In an effort to encourage and increase poultry raising in the South, the Southern Railway Company, through its Land and Industrial Department, has issued a folder for wide distribution calling attention to the superior advantages offered in the States traversed by its lines for the profitable development of this industry.

The big home demand for poultry products with prices higher than on other markets, and the ideal conditions prevailing in the South for raising chicks at low cost are two of the good arguments set forth in the folder. It is a fact that every Southern city of any size imports annually thousands of dollars worth of eggs and chickens. Eggs will average throughout the year at least five cents more per dozen than in the North. The Southern poultryman has a market near his plant and does not have to consider long hauls and uncertain markets.

For the small poultry raiser who is satisfied to make a living only at first, gradually building up his business with his profits, the initial cost of a poultry plant in the Southeast should not run over $500, according to an estimate given in the folder. Many prosperous Southern poultrymen began on as low as $100 first capital. Several acres of land, a small laying house and runs is about all necessary for poultry raising on a small scale in the Southeast, and such a plant will make a healthful, pleasant living for the family and under intelligent management will in a few years result in a large industry.

The Southern Railway Company is very much interested in the development of the poultry industry, as it is in other industries and activities of the people served by it, and Land and Industrial Agent M. V. Richards at Washington, and Western Agent Charles S. Chase, Chemical Bldg., St. Louis, are prepared to give all possible assistance without charge to prospective poultrymen desiring to locate in the Southeast.

North Carolina Child Labor Committee. To the Editor of The News-Herald: The following gentlemen make up the North Carolina Child Labor Committee:

Chas. B. Aycock, Raleigh; Jos. Blount Cheshire, Raleigh; Robert F. Campbell, Asheville; J. J. Hall, Fayetteville; Thos. J. Jarvis, Greenville; Julian S. Carr, Jr., Durham; Henry A. Page, Aberdeen; William L. Poteat, Wake Forest; Hubert A. Royster, Raleigh; R. T. Vann, Raleigh; Heriot Clarkson, Charlotte; Julius I. Foust, Greensboro; Robert Strange, Wilmington.

These names, within themselves, give assurance that the committee is engaged in work that is not only good, but needful. It may be well, however, to explain to the State at large just what this Committee feels should be done.

The committee is a sort of self-constituted guardian of the childhood of the State. There are defects in the present child labor law which permit the employment in factories of children at ages when they should be either in school or out in the open air, and which also permits the employment of children at night. The North Carolina Child Labor Committee believes that the time has come when the State should say that her innocent children should not be employed at work which will be hurtful to the one hand and which will prevent their mental and spiritual development on the other; and especially that children should not be made or allowed to work during the night hours at the very time that nature has provided for their rest and growth.

The Child Labor Committee further believes that in addition to placing upon the statute books the proper sort of laws for the protection of children, machinery should be created for the inspection and for seeing that the law is obeyed.

W. H. SWIFT, Field Secretary.

POOR ROADS.

The Loss Resulting—The Economy on Good Highways.

Texas annually pays a toll of eight million dollars because of bad roads. Down in Shreveport, La., the other day, there was a gathering of good-roads enthusiasts, in which many Texans participated. One of these was Secretary Ellison, of the Longview Chamber of Commerce, who, in the course of arguing for a first-class road from Shreveport to Dallas, gave these interesting facts:

"The Texas farmers last year marketed approximately 8,000,000 tons of products. It cost 43 cents per ton per mile to reach the market in Texas and the average distance hauled was only five miles. The Government average is only 23 cents. Now let's figure out in dollars the loss of the Texas farmer. If the Texas farmers raised 8,000,000 tons of farm products, and it cost him 43 cents per ton per mile to reach the market, and the average distance hauled was five miles, and it only cost 23 cents per ton per mile on an average throughout the United States, then the Texas farmer did lose 20 cents per ton per mile on 8,000,000 tons of products on every mile he hauled his goods, so the total loss on one mile must be $1,600,000; but the average haul was five miles, so it must be five times that amount, which would be $8,000,000 annually that the farmers of Texas lose on account of bad roads."

Incidentally attention was also called to the fact that the total fire losses in the State of Texas last year reached $4,000,000 and the losses from bad roads reached more than twice that sum. Mr. Ellison concluded with this effective argument:

"The Federal Government has spent over $1,000,000 in trying to find a way of eradicating the boll weevil, but we do not have to spend money to learn how to eradicate bad roads—build good ones."

The Fountain Source of Pies. The Metropolitan club—usually called "The Millionaire"—experimented for a half dozen years with pastry. Try as they might, this important branch of the culinary service was not satisfactory. The cakes, or tarts, were not up to the standard. The pies were impossible.

Some months ago, a native of New England became chairman of the house committee. When the pastry ghost again walked, he said: "Leave that to me."

He went up to Winsted, Conn., and after much persuasion brought back with him two maiden ladies whom he had known for years. He turned them loose in the Metropolitan kitchen with the direction that they should take orders from no one but himself.

Today the "girls" are putting a hundred dollars a week in the Winsted bank, and the millionaires are sighing the other courses to get down to pie.—New York Sun.

CONFIDENCE.

We Back up Our Statements with Our Personal Reputation and Money.

We are so positive that we can relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine free of all cost if we fail.

We think that it is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Cathartics may do much harm. They may cause a reaction, irritate and weaken the bowels, and make constipation more chronic.

Constipation is often accompanied and may be caused by weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or colon. To expect a cure you must therefore tone up and strengthen those parts and restore them to healthier activity.

The discovery of the active principle of our remedy involved the labor of skillful research chemists. This remedy produces results such as are expected from the best of the best-known intestinal tonics, and it is particularly prompt in its results.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our guarantee. They are exceedingly pleasant to take and are ideal for children. They apparently act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels, having, it would seem, a neutral action on other organs or glands. They do not purge or cause inconvenience. If they do not positively cure chronic or habitual constipation and thus relieve the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments, your money will be refunded. Try Rexall Orderlies at our risk. Three sizes of packages, 10c., 25c., and 50c. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store. W. A. Leslie.
