This Western Section Relative to the Removal of Rutherford College. dence of The News-Herald.

It seems to me that any suggestion to move any of our schools from this western country ought to immediately force upon us the fact that we have no school facilities to spare. It is likely that Rutherford College is about where it ought to be. Instead of being moved it ought to be enlarged and made capable of accommodating the hundreds of young people who live within its bounds. It is not altogether a community affair. It ought to deeply concern all the people of this section of the North Carolina Conference. While there may be no millionaires among us, we have people and money enough to raise funds sufficient to encourage the building of a reasonably well equipped institution in our midst. To the end that funds may be raised, let all the friends of the movement do all they can, and get others to do likewise. Let no one wait for another. Let us hear from you. It does not seem that this territory can afford to let this school go, losing the aid the place where it is finally sit-
