In Debt to the Ants. If the ants had not got into the sugar there would have been no vacation for mother in a Pratt street family. Father was going away for a while and mother had made up her mind to stay at home with the young son and just rest and have a good time in her own yard.

But on the day of father's departare mother was doing some baking and she went to the sugar crock for some sugar. When she removed the lid she found the sugar alive with tiny ants. She took the crock to the back porch, spread a newspaper out on a table and emptied the sugar on the paper. Just then her gaze fell on a railroad advertisement of excursion rates. She found that a special train would run from Indianap olis that night and that the fare was low. The advertisement told about the fine bathing beach, the hotels, the fishing and all of the other attrac-

When father came to dinner that day there was a large bouquet of flowers at his plate. His chair was cushioned and a nice, fat, soft pillow was there also for his comfort. He knew something was about to happen, but he didn't know what nor how much it was going to cost.

"What is it now?" he asked. "Looks $250.00 like there's something on your mind. Mother handed him the paper. As soon as dinner was over father wrote their trunk.-Indianapolis News.

Horse's Part in War. "Les grands maneuvers de pouest," as the French maneuvers are officially termed, are unique in their way because for the first time aeroplanes are to be tried on an organized system, says the Paris correspondent of the London Telegraph, No longer will the commanders in chief be obliged to rely on the reports of the cavalry for their information on the enemy's movements. An aeroplane can do the work of a cavalry patrol in a twentieth of the time and in a far more comprehensive manner; and one thing is certain, this new development of a military science will have the effect of speeding up war and will give birth to a new school of generals, men of lightning decision, who can decide with intense rapidity what the next move on the great chessboard of war

The millennium of peace seems almost to have arrived for the horse. He has practically disappeared from the scene on which he has played such a glorious role in the past. He drags nothing and he is almost useless for scouting.

The motor trolley puffs along the road, relieving him once and for all from the sore backs of his progenitors, and the aeroplane soaring overhead leaves him hopelessly in the rear if he endeavors to ascertain the movements of the enemy.

AT HAGUE.

President Taft Prefers Special Board of Arbitration to Settle Panama Toll Dispute.

Washington Dispatch, Jan. 5th. President Taft is willing to submit to arbitration the questions at issue between Great Britain and the United States over Panama canal tolis but he does not favor arbitration by the Hague tribunal. This fact became known here to-night upon

Although he has not yet given the matter of a tribunal much thought, the President probably would prefer a special board of arbitration composed of an equal number of citizens of the United was to be the composition of the arbitral court he proposed to settle any vital question arising between nations when he spoke in behalf of the arbitration treaties. Saving Carbons. Every time the attendant trims an or four inches in length and this has been heretofore thrown away. The carbon can not be made any smaller for the reason that the rapidity of their consumption varies so that it is necessary to provide a carbon of sufficient length to insure that it shall last a prescribed period, even texture that would consume more rapidly than usual. There seemed to be no prospect of making uses of these pieces, but recently a thrifty German inventor employed by one of the electric companies has caused these pieces to be saved and he makes use of them by cementing this way the entire carbon is consumed. The time spent in the re construction of the carbon is very trifling and the saving well worth while where there are any great num ber of the stubs to be saved.

Health-Color-Sunshine. A wonderful trinity, this. Your health, the color of your qlothing and the glorious sunshine have much to do with the human body. If you have not given the subject any special thought, you may well wonder what connection there can be between the color of one's clothing and health. The alutary influences of solar light-not solar heat-are not sufficiently well known to have their therapeutic value appreciated. The sun has its effect, beneficially or otherwise, on everything in the universe, the human body not excepted. There are certain cases wherein one needs the heat of the sun, but there are many more in which the light of the sun is of greater value.

MORE THAN SHE COULD BEAR

Heart of Gentle Old Maid Was Touched, and Silly Quarrel Immediately Came to an End.

Two old ladies who had been loving friends for many years had a violent quarrel, and it began to look as if the wound would never heal. Neither one felt like taking the initiative, and indeed both were too sore to care

to make up. Efforts of mutual friends were all in vain; representations to one that the other was suffering met only with the stubborn answer that she ought to suffer. They both insisted that they hoped the other would suffer more, and that she richly deserved it. Some thirteen months went by like this, and the one-time intimates saw each other only on state occasions, that is, at church each Sunday, where they sat side by side, too proud to change their pew because of what had happened. But they never pretended to notice that the other was there. On a recent Sabbath morning, however, Miss Sarah glanced around involuntarily at sound of a sneeze beside her, and despite her will kept her gaze xed on Miss Malinda. Then an awil revelation broke in on her mind. Malinda had come to church without a handkerchief! Miss Sarah did not know what the sufferings of a person about to be electrocuted might be, but she knew all about being at church without a handkerchief. Malinda merited electrocution, in Miss Sarah's opinion, but no crime was helnous enough to merit such agony as this. A drop slowly gathered on Malinda's pinched nose, and finally fell off, giving place to another. Miss Saher own handkerchief surreptitiously glad it was a big one. Next moment there was a smothered sound of tearing cloth and Malinda felt something pressed into her rigid hand. It was a half of the handkerchief, and it went to Malinda's eyes before i touched her needy nose. Then two wrinkled old hands groped for each other, and through the sermon Miss Sarah and Miss Malinda sat ar clung to the newly found friend wh. had been lost.

Luxury of Balloon Travel. A Zeppelin airship leaves the earth motion. It is just like a Pullman train, started without perceptible jar and kept in motion upon a perfect road bed, perfect track and perfect wheels. At luncheon time individual tables are placed in position, and luncheon is served much as it is in the ordinary buffet dining car in America. There is soun, an entree a toast-all piping hot-vegetables, salad, cheese and coffee. More of dinner than luncheon and all served as though the chef and waiters had the conveniences of a great hotel at their command. The principles of the fireless cooker have been brought into service in preparing the food, the exhaust from the engines being made The comforts are all those of a very modern hotel. The cabin is kept at an unvarying comfortable temperature by means of pipes that carry the exhaust heat from the engines. There is more room for action than in an ordinary chair car. In the lavatories are hot and cold water. There is a library with the daily papers and the best of books. There is a lounge for those who are willing to sleep away the hours of flight.-World's Work.

Sand and Gravel. One of the most important industries in the United States of which comparatively little is written is the production of sand and gravel. In 1911, according to a report by E. F. Burchard, just issued by the United States geological survey, the production of sand and gravel amounted to 66,846,959 short tons, valued at $21, 158,583. The production of sand of all kinds was 40,253,977 tons, valued at $14,438,500, and that of gravel was 26,592,982 tons valued at $6,720,083. The production of glass sand was valued at $1,457,733, an increase over the figures of 1910; the sand used for building in 1911 was valued at $7,-719,286, a slight decrease as compared with 1910. This was accounted for by less activity in 1911 in the building trade, including that of concrete construction. The production of molding sand in 1911 was valued at $2,132, 469, a marked decrease as compared with 1910. The production of all other sands in 1911, such as sand for grinding and polishing, fire sand, engine sand and filtration sand, was valued at $3,043,012, an increase of over a million dollars in value as compared with 1910.

Imagination. That imagination often lights the way to discoveries that would never be made by matter-of-fact plodding has proved true over and over again. Illustrations of this in the history of chemical science are as numerous as in other fields of discovery. In this connection the Journal of the American Medical Association calls to mind that oxygen was merely a principle to Lavoisier in 1777, and that when, a century later, it was produced in liquified form "the metaphor had become a reality." When Harvey was writing of the blood he wondered whether there might not be motion, as it were, in a circle, the Journal says "he expressed in metaphoric language what only later became the fact of the circulation which was given visible demonstration by Malgiphi," and adds, Remedy," writes Mrs. Lida Dewey legitimate dreams to a greater extent than the practical man is wont to realize or is willing to admit."
