FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS For Weak Back, Nervousness, Kidney and Bladder Ills.

Be sure to teach both boys and girls ordinary household duties. Boys should "know how" for their services might be required in their homes in case of sickness. And it is to my mind nothing short of inhuman to raise a girl without a thorough knowledge of plain cooking, sewing and other ordinary duties. When she takes charge of her husband's home she will thank you for your teaching her.—Mrs. Robert Scott in Progressive Farmer.

CHRONIC STOMACH TROUBLE CURED.

There is nothing more discouraging than a chronic disorder of the stomach, and it is not surprising that many suffer for years with such an ailment when a permanent cure is within their reach and may be had for a trifle.

"About one year ago," says P. H. H., of Wakelee, Mich., "I bought a package of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and since using them I have felt perfectly well. I had previously used any number of different medicines, but none of them were of any lasting benefit." Sold by all dealers.

New York Papers a Unit in Praising Selection of Daniels

Washington, N. C., May 8, 1862. When he was a mere boy he started a newspaper in the town of Wilson. Later he bought a paper called 'The Chronicle' and for some time ran it in opposition to 'The News and Observer.' He gave the latter such a fight that the two were consolidated under the proprietorship of Mr. Daniels.

"In North Carolina nearly everybody knows of the time that Josephus Daniels was placed in jail." He criticized a Federal District court judge for his acts in connection with the receiver of a railroad and was arrested. He was not placed actually in jail, but for four or five days was confined to a room in a hotel in custody of a United States marshal. He wrote his editorials there and dated them from 'Cell No. 365.'

"Mr. Daniels charged that the governor of the State was in league with men who wished to place the road in the hands of receivers and bankrupt State property. Judge Purnell fined him $20,000. Daniels said he would 'rot in jail' before he would pay a cent. An appeal was taken and the fine remitted."

The Herald, an independent newspaper, printed the following about the new secretary of the navy:

"Josephus Daniels, like Henry Watterson, is a man so thoroughly in love with his editorial duties that he never has been conspicuous as a seeker for public office. As the editor of the Raleigh News and Observer he has been a power not only in North Carolina but throughout the South. For sixteen years, however, he has represented his State in the Democratic National Committee, and, with a single exception, he is its senior member. It has been said of him that he is closer to Mr. Bryan than any other member of that body.

"The only public office Mr. Daniels has ever held hitherto was that of appointment clerk under Hoke Smith in the second Cleveland administration, at $3,500 a year. He did not like the job and was glad to return to his editorial sanctum in Raleigh. Twentieth century politicians have regarded Mr. Daniels as 'old-fashioned' and of a somewhat severe type.

Mr. Daniels was born in Washington, N. C., on May 8, 1862. The name of Wilson has always been one to conjure with during his career, for it was in the town of Wilson, when he was a boy, that he launched his first amateur newspaper and nursed the ambition to become the greatest editor in the State. After he returned to Raleigh from his first experiment in office holding in Washington, he bought the Chronicle, and ran it so vigorously in opposition to The News and Observer that the two papers were soon consolidated under Mr. Daniels' proprietorship. It now has double the circulation of any other paper in the State, and occupies a handsome office building, from which are also published two weeklies, Farmer and Mechanic and the Weekly News and Observer.

"The Republic organ of the city, the Tribune, praises Mr. Daniels, and gives quite a bit of his personal political history, as follows:

"Josephus Daniels, of North Carolina, chosen for secretary of the navy, is editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, and a member of the Democratic national committee, who did valiant work for the nomination of Woodrow Wilson. He is a seasoned campaigner and a close friend of William J. Bryan. He does not smoke, drink nor swear, but he can talk. Once he held a public office, but it is said he did not like it. He was appointed clerk under Hoke Smith, secretary of the interior in the second Cleveland administration. The salary was $3,500 a year.

"Mr. Daniels was born in

THE CAUSE OF RHEUMATISM.

Stomach trouble, lazy liver and deranged kidneys are the cause of rheumatism. Get your stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels in healthy condition by taking Electric Bitters, and you will not be troubled with the pains of rheumatism. Charles B. Allen, a school principal, of Sylva, Ga., who suffered indescribable torture from rheumatism, liver and stomach trouble and diseased kidneys, writes: "All remedies failed until I used Electric Bitters. But four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me completely." Make your rheumatic pains come from stomach and kidney troubles. Electric Bitters will give you prompt relief. 50c and $1.00. Wilson Stacks Up Well as Executive Head of Nation

A Punch in Everything He Does—No Everlasting Smile, No Bluster.

Washington Dispatch, March 13.

President Wilson, as they say in the street, is stacking up well. Without the bluster of Roosevelt he is doing things. Without the everlasting smile of Taft he is pleasant, and affable.

There is punch in everything this new president does. His brief conversations are full of point. His smile is sincere. His manner is affable.

Soon after the election, Senator Lee S. Overman went to New Jersey to see Mr. Wilson, and on his return to Washington said: "The new president is the best listener that I ever saw; he hears everything, but says very little, although what he utters is to the point.

"A good listener," describes Mr. Wilson accurately. There has never been a better one in the White House.

A shrewd, busy, observant White House man, who served under Roosevelt and Taft, and is now with Wilson, describes the three men as follows: "Roosevelt, as president, was garrulous; Taft, never able to get away from anybody, but Wilson dispatches callers, and business without an effort and does so without leaving pangs of any sort. The other fellow talks, and he listens and smiles if the conversation calls for a smile.

AN EARLY RISER.

"Early to bed and early to rise," is the motto at the White House. At 10:30 o'clock Tuesday night President Wilson excused himself and retired. The next morning he was up at 7:30, and had things going in the office two hours later.

Wilson's simple, direct and independent way pleases Washington people. The horde of office seekers were turned from the White House to the various departments by a brief announcement for office must not see him until he invites them to do so. In other words, to illustrate, if a North Carolinian would be postmaster general, or in case of a controversy, see the president when invited to the White House.

Mr. Wilson has solved a problem that Roosevelt and Taft battled with for years. At the same time he throws away an opportunity to build up a political machine of his own. He puts the selection of men for office up to the cabinet members, without relinquishing a final say in doubtful cases.

WE ARE EXPOSED TO TUBERCULAR GERMS

every day. Post-mortem examinations often show that tuberculosis had been arrested by strengthening the lungs before the germs gained mastery.

You can strengthen your resistance-power by taking Scott's Emulsion. It contains available energy in concentrated form, which quickly nourishes all the organs of the body. It repairs waste—makes rich, active blood and supplies energy to the starving cells. It's timely use enables the body to resist tuberculosis.

For stubborn colds and bronchitis nothing compares with Scott's Emulsion.

Refuse substitutes—insist on SCOTT'S.
