MY HOBIERY.

Eleanor M. Jencks in N. Y. Times.
The hours I spent with thee, dear Sock,
Are as a string of pearls to me;
I count them over by the weary clock,
My rosary, my rosary.
First two I knit, then two I purl,
And 'round the leg I slowly reel;
Now joyful paeans to the heavens I hurl,
I've turned the heel!
Oh, knotted ends that scratch and burn,
Oh, stitch that dropped, uneven row;
I kiss each blight, and strive at last to learn,
To reach the toe, O Lord, to reach the toe!

A Comparison.
To The News-Herald:
I note the apparently vast change of war sentiment in my good friend A. M. Ingold, cashier of the First National Bank, as shown by his calendars for 1917 and for 1918. The calendar for 1917 depicts a peaceful farm deer, innocent and unafraid, drinking from a peaceful stream in a quiet grove and a highway running along the stream and through the forest that breathes the spirit of Him who said, "My peace I give unto you." The calendar for 1918 shows a great battle flag waving high over a screaming, soaring eagle. At this rate of real change of sentiment Mr. Ingold should be driving the flag ship "Liberty Motor" by May, and if the people of the United States show a similar spirit the war and German militarism will certainly end this year. For surely as the Lord liveth the U. S. flag floats and the American eagle screams only for the perfect universal and permanent peace, and we could never have the millennium promised in the Scriptures while German militarism exists.

JOHN T. PERKINS,
Morganton, Jan. 1, 1918.

Woodward-Andrews.
A quiet home wedding occurred in Albemarle, the home of the bride, on Friday, December 21st, when Mr. J. Alexander Woodward and Miss Ellen Andrews were united in marriage. Immediately after the marriage they came to Morganton on a visit to Mr. Woodward's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Woodward. They are now at Burke, Va., where Mr. Woodward is located in the employ of the Southern Railway.

The bride has visited frequently in Morganton and has many friends here. She is a bright, exceptionally attractive young woman. The bridegroom was reared here and his friends have followed with interest his rapid rise in his chosen work. Many good wishes attend the young couple in their married life.

Death of Mrs. Leonard Whisenant.

Mrs. Whisenant was a daughter of the late Thomas Setzer, of Caldwell county. She was the mother of eight children, all of whom are living—Mr. Will Whisenant and Mesdames Lizzie Mull, Nellie Whisenant, Cinda Saulman, Annie Puckett, Laura Whisenant, Frances Whisenant and Emma Page.

TWO REASONS.

By William Jennings Bryan—Extracts From Address on War-Savings at a Mass-Meeting in Asheville, N. C., Dec. 14th, 1917.
There are two arguments in favor of the Thrift Campaign in the interest of War-Savings Certificates.
First Reason.
"The by-products of the war are already numerous and important. Among them three are especially worthy of consideration in this connection.
"First, the immediate effect of the war has been to reveal more clearly than before the evil of alcoholic liquor. In such a crisis as that through which we are passing the Nation needs 100 per cent men and intoxicating liquor impairs the economic value of the citizen as a producer, and the military value of the soldier at the battle front. The lessons learned from the war are increasing the prohibition sentiment in this country and elsewhere; and it now looks as if the National Prohibition Amendment would soon be submitted and it is quite certain to be adopted when it is submitted.
"Second, the voluntary giving that has been necessary has in it a certain spiritual value. The heart is enlarged, the sympathies are expanded, and altruism makes headway against selfishness. All religious and ethical movements are likely to be stimulated because the giving impetus has been aroused.
"Third, our people have never used the Government bond as a savings bank to the extent that people in other countries have. The Liberty loan has led millions to invest in Government bonds as a matter of patriotism and the investment will continue as a matter of business. The Government bond is the best security in the world and the safest savings bank. There is, therefore, a real economic value in the formation of the habit of entrusting the Government with surplus money. It is a good way to provide with certainty against the uncertainties of life and to make sure provision for old age.

Second Reason.
"The Thrift and War-Savings Stamps are the most profitable form of patriotism that the citizen will have a chance to manifest. It is the duty of the citizen to support the Government along every line and in every possible way. It is his duty to support the Government by word and by deed in whatever it may see fit to undertake, because ours is a people's government, and it speaks for the citizen.
"There are several ways in which the citizen may serve the Government, principal among which are thorough military service, through taxation, and through loans made to the Government—three kinds of burdens which the citizen may be called upon to bear in time of war.
"Of these three, military service is the heaviest because it may involve the sacrifice of life. No pecuniary burden can, therefore, equal the burden borne by the soldier.
"Next in weight is taxation. It is lighter than military service, because it is paid out of the income or, at most, out of the property, while military service may demand life, which is more than income or property.
"Loans made to the Government are easier than taxation. When the Government takes money through taxation, it does not promise to return it. But when it borrows money, it pays it back with interest, and interest at 4 per cent is, I think, more than the average rate paid by the savings banks of the country.
"But the War-Savings Certificates have three advantages over the Liberty Loan even. First, the interest is compounded every three months. Second, it can be subscribed in small amounts to suit the ability of the subscriber and at such times as may suit his convenience. Third, the money loaned can be collected at any time on ten days' notice, so that it can never fall below par or embarrass the holder. And in addition to these advantages it has a value which can hardly be over-estimated in that it teaches thrift, economy and saving. It is no exaggeration to say that the lesson which the boys and girls will learn in the purchase of Thrift Stamps and War-Savings Stamps will be worth more to them than the money invested, and they will get their money back, besides, and interest on it. It is more than eating your cake and keeping it, without counting the aid that it is giving the Government.
"Military service, taxes and loans—these three—and the easiest of these is loans."
