WHY NOT HAVE OUR HIGHWAYS LINED WITH TREES?

Concord Times.

This country is several hundred years ahead of France in many particulars, but when it comes to good roads the French can teach us many things. One of the things that impressed the American in France most was the avenue of trees used on all of the important roads in France, and the numerous plainly printed mile posts that made travel in all parts of that country easy even to a stranger.

This State is going to spend $50,000,000 for good roads. Our roads will be as fine as any State's or country's but would they be better, prettier and more impressive if they were flanked on either side by rows of huge, immense trees? When the roads of this State are being built why not let the trees be planted? It will be many years of course before the trees reach a point where they will add beauty or pleasure to travel over the roads, but that time will come, and we believe that once the idea is started, every State in the Union will follow.

The State will provide mile posts for the new roads, and if we understand the law correctly, only the official sign posts will be allowed. That is right. Already thousands of tourists are riding over our State; the number will be increased with permanent roads, and nothing is a greater help to a tourist than a sign post that really signs. The State should erect steel or iron posts while erecting the new system and then weather, hunter's guns and other circumstances will not eliminate the signs within a year or two.
