GOOD PICKING FOR THE NEW CONGRESSMEN

(R. E. Powell in News and Observer)

The lot of the minority Congressman in the 67th Congress, when both branches will be overwhelmingly in control of the Republicans, is not going to be such a hard one after all. And for a new member it is going to be easy sailing with such chances for advancement as have not been known in two decades of law-making for the nation.

Congressmen-elect Lyon, Ward, Hammer and Bulwinkle of North Carolina have been chosen at a time when the opportunity for advancement to the big committees of the House is alluring. There will be few Democrats, comparatively in the 67th and preservation of the majority and minority strength, which Republican leaders have indicated will be the rule, must necessarily include some of the new members taking office with President-elect Harding in March.

Many Desirable Vacancies.

Beginning with the powerful ways and means committee of the House, from which Congressman Claude Kitchen expects to retire in order to accept the minority leadership, there will be many vacancies brought about by the retirement of Democrats now in the House. Three vacancies are certain on the biggest and most powerful of the many committees, while on the enlarged appropriations committee there will be more. Representative John H. Small recently appointed to the appropriations committee by virtue of his rank on the rivers and harbors committee, will retire and leave room for a younger Democrat.

Down the line through the judiciary, military affairs, labor, foreign affairs, rivers and harbors, roads, agriculture, commerce and the many smaller bodies that really whip the laws in shape for the larger and unwieldy body to ratify, only on the rules committee of the House will the fine ranks heretofore held by North Carolinians be preserved and the indications now are that Representative Edward W. Pou will remain ranking minority member of this committee which, on some occasions, supercedes in importance any of the smaller bodies of the House.

Democrats Expect Landslide.

The biggest advantage that can possibly accrue to the new member lies of course, in the prospect that the Democrats will be returned to power in the next Congress. Many political observers believe that there will be an overturn in the House at least with the possibility that the Republicans will lose the Senate and after two years of Harding find themselves checked even as was Mr. Wilson when he brought the treaty back from Paris.

Capturing the House would prove the strongest kind of entering wedge for complete national victory in 1924. It would mean the organization of that body by the Democrats and the control of the committees, sending the ranking Democrats to chairmanships and providing patronage for making the districts of wavering members safe for two years more. Small rooms in the House office building would give way to the larger and more commodious quarters in the capitol building proper.

No Postoffice Disputes.

While, from the standpoint of obtaining recognition in national legislative halls, the committee assignments mean most to the new member, at a time like this there is additional satisfaction in belonging to the minority party, particularly so when the party in control has such a

COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS TREE

Lillington's Community Christmas at the courthouse Monday evening was a grand and glorious success—so say all the younger generation—and the grownups, too, will vote in the affirmative. Old Santa Claus remembered each and every child in the community. It was a big undertaking, but it was carried out without a hitch, for the genuine Christmas spirit was there.

The ladies of the different denominations in town gathered together and put such energy into the affair that when the most wonderful event of the year (in the sight of the small eye) was pulled off there was great rejoicing indeed.

The auditorium was packed to its capacity. Rev. G. F. Kirkpatrick offered prayer and opened the exercises, introducing Rev. J. H. Frieze, who told the youngsters that their hearts' desire was about to be realized, because Santa Claus was going to see to it that each one present—and others, if they were not present—would be remembered by the good "Old Man."

With Mrs. L. J. Arnold at the organ, a chorus of beautifully dressed children marched in singing "Joy to the World." This coupled with the beautiful and emblematic setting of the stage made the scene very impressive. There was the manger, the light shining forth that guided the Wise Men (Laurie James Arnold, Jere Pearsall, Harry Baker, Neill and Reid Ross) to the spot where He lay—He who was to be the real Light of the world. Miss Mary Hockaday, who enacted the part of the Madonna, imparted to the scene that sweet solemnity that made it all so beautiful.

CHICKEN PARTY.

Mrs. John D. Johnson on last Thursday evening gave a most unique "chicken party" to the "chickens" from the favorite "roosts" in town—the teachers home. Of course there were a few "old hens" to chaperone, and Mr. Johnson was there to keep watch.

Mrs. Walter Sutton and Miss White took "blue ribbons" for best chicken stories, while Mrs. Halford and Miss Draper tied for honors on the chicken-eating contest. The dancing trophy fell to Miss Bryan, who was most graceful in the "chicken trot."

A delicious chicken salad course with hot coffee was served in the dining room.

Those enjoying this delightful affair were: Misses White, Bryan of Savannah, McKethan, Martin, Taylor, Draper, Pierce, Crumpler, and Mesdames Bowen, Sutton, Halford and Tugwell.

STUDENTS APPRAISAL FOR COLLEGE AID

A joint committee of students representing the student bodies of the University of North Carolina, the N. C. College for Women, the East Carolina Teachers Training School, and the State College of Agriculture and Engineering, following a meeting here yesterday issued a statement appealing to the public in the interest of increased facilities for higher education in the State.

The representatives of the various student bodies in turn are members of student committees in their respective institutions and have taken the appointment of the general committee as a means of co-ordinating the efforts of each toward an improvement in college conditions. The meeting adjourned after a thorough discussion of aims and plans to meet again on January 3rd to survey the work accomplished.—News and Observer.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION

MRS. EDGERTON HONOREE

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Baptist Church was at home Tuesday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Sidney A. Edgerton of Buies Creek, wife of the new pastor of the church. Mrs. J. B. Tugwell was hostess and her home was most attractive in its Christmas attire. The devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. Shaw, president, after which a song, "O little Town of Bethlehem," rendered by Trinity choir through the victrola was very much enjoyed.

The Society voted to send $25 to the relief fund for starving children.

After this the meeting was turned into a social one, and the ladies entered heartily into a racy Biblical contest in which Mrs. H. M. Spears won the prize. This she presented in a happy manner to the guest of honor.

A trip to Christmas Tree Land was next in order and on entering the dining room a beautifully lighted miniature Christmas tree laden with holiday favors for the guests adorned the table. Much merriment was provoked by the reading aloud of the rhymes attached to the favors, these being original from Mrs. Tugwell's pen. The hostess assisted by Mesdames J. W. Halford and J. D. Johnson served a tempting salad course with hot coffee.

The guests of the Society were: Mesdames S. A. Edgerton of Buies Creek, O. C. Christensen of Denmark, Taylor of Brazil, McBroom, Hilliard, Chaffin, Misses McBroom, Taylor, Pierce, Crumpler.

DEFER PAYMENTS UNTIL NEXT FALL

Payment on all notes due to Roanoke & Salem Railway Company for stock was deferred until October 15, 1921, when nearly 500 of the stockholders met in a special session at Shady Grove school Tuesday morning of last week to consider the advisability of continuing the effort to construct the road which is to connect Dunn and Roseboro and to carry rail transportation to the old town of Salemburg in Sampson county.

There were few who wanted to abandon the project, but there were not many who considered it advisable to begin building now in face of the serious money scarcity and the depression that scarcity has brought to the various communities in which stock has been sold.

Will Not Begin Before Fall.

This action obviates the possibility that construction on the road can be started before next fall, although it is certain that much of the needed material will be contracted for before that time. Surveys will probably be completed during the spring.

It has been pointed out to the stockholders that with the quantity of stock already subscribed and issued it was possible to issue bonds against the prospective assets of the company and begin construction early in the spring. Captain G. M. Tighman, a stockholder and one of the principal advisers of the company, was against this, however, explaining that bonds would be a mortgage against the property and that it was extremely likely that the bondholders would eventually control the property in the case bonds were issued.

Mr. Tighman and Jesse Franklin Wilson, both of Dunn, addressed the meeting Tuesday. Their views concerning the success of the road are optimistic and they were able to inspire much of this enthusiasm in their hearers. It was their opinion that the best interests of all concerned would be to defer collection on the notes until next year's crops are ready for the market. Prof. W. J. Jones of the Pinebluff school for girls and a director of the company, was chairman of the meeting. He, too, is an enthusiastic believer in the road's success.

Captain Tighman and Mr. Wilson stated yesterday that there was no doubt that the road would be built and that they were practically certain that construction would begin next fall. Some time before that time Dunn and the other towns along the route will be asked to subscribe stock in the venture, which is to be owned and entirely controlled by local capital.—Dunn Dispatch.

UNCLE WALT'S STORY

Matchmaking

"Now that Miss Favorite is coming to spend a few days with us, I think I'll invite Charles Augustus Terwilliger to dinner," said Mrs. Jamesworthy. "I have always thought she was a very nice girl, and they were intended for each other, and they should be better acquainted."

"I never could understand why married women are always matching up the young people of their acquaintance," remarked Jamesworthy. "Most wives insist—at least to their husbands—that matrimony is a pronounced failure."

Every time you see an old maid you turn green with envy, and you have told me a million times that a woman sacrifices her liberty and independence the minute she investigates a man to the altar, and vows to love, cherish and protect him. You have said in my presence that the spinster is the only woman who is her own boss.

"It doesn't take the ingenuity of a Sherlock Holmes to deduce from your remarks that you consider matrimony a total loss. Why, then, Mrs. Jamesworthy, are you forever trying to beguile your friends into that condition of misery? Of course, you can't explain; neither can any woman explain. Matchmaking just comes natural to all of you."

"When I am looking for all kinds of plain and fancy trouble, I'll begin matching up the young men and women of my acquaintance. But not until I am suffering for an invoice of grief, I might persuade my friends to invest in a western silver mine, or buy patent rights in a revolving churn, but you'll never see Elijah Jamesworthy boasting matrimony in your indiscriminate way. If two young people got married through your fine generosity, and they found that each had drawn a gold brick, they would hate you as long as they lived, and would always speak of you as an old busybody with a nose too long for legitimate purposes, and they'd make faces at you whenever you met them on the street."

"Do you ever think of your responsibility when you try to boom the orange blossom market? Does it ever occur to you, at such times, that you are rushing in where angels fear to tread?"

"Now, just consider Sarah Jane Favorite and Charles Augustus Terwilliger, who will be retrograded to the altar if you have your way. I admit that they make a handsome pair. Sarah is a blonde with a pug nose, and Charles Augustus is a brunette with a nose like a Roman senator. They afford a pleasing contrast. But appearances count for little, Mrs. Jamesworthy, when the real business of married life begins."

"Sarah has basked in the lap of luxury all her days, and she has the idea that money grows on vines like cucumbers. I don't suppose she ever knew what it means to need fifty cents or a dollar. When she wants anything she goes to the store and gets it, and has it charged to her father. If there is one word in the dictionary she isn't familiar with, that word is retrenchment."

"Charles Augustus on the other hand, had hard wedding all through his boyhood. As a result of his experience he has an exaggerated idea of the value of a kopeck. He is the sort of man who will walk eight miles through a thunderstorm rather than cough up carfare. Whenever he parts with a nickel he has to take a bromoseltzer to steady his nerves. His reverence for money increases every day, and it will keep on increasing as long as he lives."

"Yet you, Mrs. Jamesworthy, in your feeble-minded matchmaking enthusiasm, would use your vote and influence to join these two people in the holy bonds. Just take the advice of your swayed husband, and let such people work out their own destinies, and everybody concerned will be happier."

Takes Salt Behind Halibut.

Uncle George Butler of Ellsworth, Me., now in his eightieth year, hooked a halibut while fishing off Sisters Lodge, and casting off his anchor rope, which he had fastened with a toggle, he enjoyed a sail about the bay, with the halibut for power. After a while the halibut got tired and Uncle George hauled it in. It weighed 200 pounds.

Ancient Perfume.

It seems strange to us today to read of saffron as a perfume; so today the romances about it lies in the story by Hakluyt of a pilgrim smuggling, at the risk of his life, from the Levant a hand of saffron in a hollow made in his staff.

ADVOCATES ARMAMENTS

Washington, Dec. 27.—The United States, if it does not enter the League of Nations, should initiate a movement looking to an international conference for the reduction of armaments, Secretary Daniels of the Navy Department, said tonight. If an agreement is not reached by all nations for such a program, the Secretary added, "the United States should have a navy second to none."

The question of disarmament also was discussed in the Senate today. Senator Johnson, Republican, California, declaring that a disarmament agreement by the nations, who constituted the five allied and associated powers in the great war, would constitute "the one grand step that could be taken toward the promotion of peace and the prevention of all future wars."

Explains Program.

Secretary Daniels, in his statement tonight, declared that his naval estimates recently submitted to Congress called only for minor vessels and expressed approval of the general board's building program only in the event that the United States does not enter the League of Nations or become a party to an international agreement to limit armaments.

The Naval Secretary advocated legislation similar to that in the 1916 naval appropriation bill, which authorized President Wilson to appoint a commission of nine members to represent the United States at an international armament conference.

Suggests Conference.

"If we do not want the League of Nations," said Mr. Daniels, "we ought to have a conference purely on the subject of reduction of armaments. Every nation that has joined the League has promised this and all they need now is to get us in. Unless there is some such agreement the United States should have a navy second to none. This is the reason that I have advocated the staking of the German fleet in mid-ocean as an object lesson to all the world that it is unhealthy to build great armaments for purposes of conquest."

Mr. Stewart Morgan left last week for Little Rock, Ark.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Byrd and children spent the Christmas holidays with relatives in Johnston county.

Students at the various colleges and universities from Lillington and vicinity came home to spend the holidays with relatives. They include: Misses Allie Hill Boney and Kathryn Hockaday of College for Women at Roseboro; Miss Isabel Spears, Roseboro College; Winston; Messrs. M. B. Matthews, Claude Sexton and Carlton Senter, Southern Dental College, Atlanta; Caviness Brown, Trinity; Paul H. Green and Steadman McLean, University, Chapel Hill.

Mr. John McArtan was in town for a while Tuesday.
