CAROLINA TELEPHONE COMPANY ERECTS STATION

The Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company has started construction upon a modern home for its Lillington plant. The station will be of brick and one story in height. A modern automatic switchboard will be installed which will give instant service to patrons, thus improving long distance usage as well as local.

Manager Boyd of Fayetteville was here Monday, in the interest of his company. He says the company has had the local situation in hand for some time, the actual beginning of work on the station being delayed on account of inability to get materials. The work now, he says, will be pushed rapidly and Lillington will soon have a telephone station as thoroughly modern as is possible for any town.

Manager Boyd says applicants for phones will not be denied much longer, as his company now has every assurance of being able to install every facility here for which there is a demand. He says further that long distance service will be improved one hundred per cent by the new installation. The present equipment, which is antiquated and inefficient, will be discarded altogether. Mr. Boyd says the new service will be started just as soon as the new plant is completed, and that will be as soon as the work on the new building can be finished and equipment installed.

LILLINGTON HIGH SCHOOL RESUMES YEAR'S WORK

The Lillington schools resumed work Tuesday morning with a very full attendance. Some few dropped out, but more new ones came in—sixteen in all. Notwithstanding some new seats were purchased in the fall it looks now as though more would be needed.

Because of the low prices of farm products a few of the dormitory pupils did not return, but some others came.

Among the new pupils in the high school is Miss Helen Draper, sister of Miss Draper, the high school principal.

One of the most urgent needs at the dormitories and the school building is water. The board went to a great deal of expense putting in a system of closets which cannot be used for want of water. What's the matter with the town, we wonder, that as cheap a thing as water is, enough cannot or is not furnished? The health of every child that attends school and all who live near here is endangered by lack of water supply.

Tuesday morning we had no lights at all except a few lamps that could be used. Who will tell us what is the matter with the present lighting system? We cannot work in darkness, and do not want to go back to the old eye-killing lamp system; but light we must have. It seems to us that the best thing Lillington can do is to own its own light and water plant and not be dependent on any irresponsible company.

SUPERIOR COURT MONDAY.

Harnett County Superior Court will convene Monday morning, January 10th, and continue for one week for the trial of criminal cases exclusively. The list of jurors has been published in a former issue of this paper.

MUCH DEPENDS ON RALEIGH MEET

COTTON AND TOBACCO GROWERS TO HOLD IMPORTANT MEET- INGS JANUARY 12 AND 13 IN CAPITAL CITY.

Raleigh.—Secretary of Agriculture Meredith, former Governor Richard I. Manning of South Carolina, head of the cotton export corporation movement, and Aaron Sapiro of California, expert in co-operative marketing, are expected to address and confer with the cotton and tobacco growers of this State at their meetings to be held in Raleigh on January 12 and 13.

The North Carolina Tobacco Growers Association meets Wednesday, January 12, and the North Carolina division of the American Cotton Association on Thursday, the 13th. While these are separate and distinct organizations they have a great deal in common. Both are working toward the same end—that proper and the most efficient marketing facilities may be provided for the principal agricultural products of North Carolina.

In addition to the farmer delegates—and all cotton and tobacco growers of the State, regardless of affiliation with these organizations, are invited to attend the mass meetings—the banking and commercial interests are expected to be largely represented. What is done at the Raleigh meeting will doubtless have far-reaching effect upon the economic life of the State.

Plans are to be laid for the future guidance of the hundreds of thousands of producers of the two chief products of North Carolina's soil.

The tobacco growers' meeting will begin at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, January 12—both meetings to be held in the City Auditorium—with organization for business, the basis of representation being one delegate for every one hundred members in each county. Words of welcome and of greeting will be heard from the outgoing and the incoming governors, to be followed by a round table conference.

At the recent meeting held in Richmond certain recommendations were made looking to the organization in North Carolina of a tobacco growers' marketing association modeled somewhat along the lines of the California co-operative organizations, Aaron Sapiro, who is the attorney and the guiding hand of fourteen of the most successful of these, and who has been retained as attorney for the organization committee of the Interstate Tobacco Growers Association, will explain in detail the proposed plan of operation.

The meeting Thursday of the cotton growers will be, in point of fact, the annual convention of the North Carolina division of the American Cotton Association. It will open with a word of welcome from Governor Morrison. The recommendations of the Southern Cotton Conference, held in Memphis, December 7 and 8, having to do with such important matters as reduction of acreage, credits and advances, diversifications and warehousing and classification of cotton, will be considered.

The principal matter of business, however, will be the working out of plans to better facilitate the marketing of the staple. The co-operative plan will be considered in all its phases. Mr. Sapiro will address the cotton growers Thursday morning.

Cotton Export Corporation. At the morning session on Thursday, the 13th, former Governor Richard I. Manning of South Carolina will address the convention, explaining the plan of operation of the so-called cotton export corporation movement, which is the outgrowth of the American Cotton Association, and tell of the progress that has been made. Governor Manning himself a farmer, is president of the American Products Export & Import Corporation, which, organized in South Carolina in the fall, is already a going concern, with more than $2,000,000 of its capital stock subscribed in that State alone.

The export of cotton to reopen the markets of Europe to the South's staple has already begun, although the movement is still less than three months old. The first shipment was made from the port of Charleston just before Christmas.

The cotton export corporation movement will be extended into North Carolina as throughout the cotton growing South, and, although not intended to conflict in any way with any strictly co-operative marketing program that may be adopted, will be launched, it is hoped, at the Raleigh meeting as among the activities of the American Cotton Association in this State. Already there is much interest felt throughout North Carolina, among farmers, bankers and business men, in the movement which has made such wonderful headway.

Secretary of Agriculture Meredith has been invited to close the two-day meeting with an address on Thursday night. He is a forceful speaker and always has a message to deliver. The list of speakers secured for the Raleigh meeting have been selected with special consideration for the intimate knowledge they possess along lines bearing directly upon the problems the cotton and tobacco growers now face and in the hope that they may be able to give some practical advice and suggestions toward the solutions of those problems, rather than by reason of their oratorical powers.

RALEIGH LETTER

(Special Correspondence.)
(By Maxwell Gorman.)

Raleigh, Jan. 3.—With Speaker Grier of Iredell and Lieut. Governor Gardner (for one week) presiding over the two branches of the General Assembly, that body will convene here Wednesday of this week for a session that in some points will be a most interesting and remarkable one. The inauguration of the new governor and the swearing in for the new term of the reelected and other state officers will take place one week later, it has now been determined, although it had been reported that Governor Morrison would wait till the 19th in order to give plenty of time to the measure to increase the salaries of the state executive officers before the new term begins.

It now develops that although some opposition has been aroused to the measure it will either be passed or defeated in the first few days of the session.

The inauguration address will be separate from the Governor's message to the Legislature, and the ceremonies will be marked for their simplicity—for the overturn in the office of Governor carries with it a difference in the characteristics of the personalities of the outgoing and the incoming executives.

Governor Bickett has been partial to display and the spectacular, while Governor Morrison is a "plain man" with a strong personality that does not invite the staid and who promises to be the most democratic of all the Governors in many years. It is to be hoped that he will be able by his example to retain that atmosphere around the executive offices after some of his subordinates have thrown the ego of their presence sufficiently into the faces of all who will behold and see it out in its initial stage.

There will be much of interest to write about from Raleigh the next two months, and the readers of these Raleigh Letters will be amused as well as astounded by some of the things I intend to tell them about. One of the hottest games of the session will be the redistricting of the state to provide for two additional districts. There are several vaulting ambitions that are already starting their machine to elect the two "at large," instead of by adding two new districts. That will be the greatest obstacle the redistricting forces will have to contend with—the individual aspirations of several men who think their personal advantage should take precedence and result in a hot primary (if that thing survives the present legislature).

CHRISTMAS DINNERS ON THE PIPKIN PLANTATION

Down along the Silver Run where cotton grows big and corn yields heavily, there are some broad acres known as the Pipkin Plantation. Through the generations the Pipkins and their kin have lived here, representing the first planters of the Old South who settled and cleared before railroads and highways brought outside territory into closer acquaintance.

The present homesteads have lost none of the oldtime hospitality and cordial goodwill among friends and neighbors. Neither have the customs of old been discarded in gathering around the fireside each year-end of the kin as the different branches of the family have spread out and called in new names.

Each Christmastime and New Year finds the Pipkin family gathered together, as nearly as possible, for feasting and reunion.

On Monday evening, December 27, the gathering took place at the home of James Pipkin, who married Jean, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Withers.

Turkey, quail, venison and North Carolina ham served at this dinner made the guests feel that nothing of the oldtime good eating had lost its favor or flavor at the hands of the younger generation.

The preparation of the feast was just what was expected by members of the immediate family, but newcomers into the circle wondered that they had never tasted food quite so good.

On New Year's Eve at the home of Cliff Pipkin, who married another daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Withers, a sumptuous dinner of kindred taste was served. A feature of this dinner was a vegetable salad of lettuce and tomatoes from the family garden. From the oldest to the youngest, none could recall a more delightful repast.

Music and family stories hurried the time away and the Old Year gave up its claim to the New. In the wee hours the guests departed for their homes, all with happy remembrances of the gathering.

LOCAL NEWS OF INTEREST FROM JOHNSONVILLE

Among the many happy Yuletide events was the perfectly planned party given by Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Stewart on Wednesday evening. A large number of relatives and friends gathered with these good people to welcome the coming of the New Year.

Mr. Ray Rowland of Chillicothe, Ohio, is visiting in the home of his sister, Mrs. J. T. Craig.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Harps, who have resided at Pineview for the past nine years, shipped their household effects to Greenfield, Ohio, this week. They will spend some time with their daughter, Mrs. W. H. Johnson, before returning to their old home in Ohio. Regret is all but universal over the loss of these estimable people from our midst.

Rev. S. A. Edgerton of Buies Creek conducted services at Pineview last Sabbath. Heretofore, Mr. Edgerton has been coming to Pineview on the first Sunday of each month, but until further notice will make his visits on every fourth Sunday instead, preaching at 7:30 Saturday evening and at 11 o'clock Sunday morning.

Cameron-Haddock. Mr. David Haddock and Miss Janie Cameron were married at the Baptist parsonage in Sanford Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Mr. Gilmore performing the ceremony. Mr. Haddock is employed by the A. C. L. Railroad Company and resides at Spout Springs. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Cameron. The congratulations and good wishes of a large host of friends in this section go out to these young people. May their portion be a long life and a happy one.

Several tobacco growers are now preparing ground for plant beds, it being their rule to seed these between "new" and "old" Christmas. Owing to high cost of production and low prices realized from their crops this year, it is the consensus of opinion that a smaller acreage will be devoted to the culture of the weed this year.

Where there is no vision the people perish! Last summer the people of Johnsonville demonstrated their progressiveness by voting a bond issue for the construction and maintenance of good roads throughout their township. Such movements are highly commendable at any time, but time has proven that this action on their part was especially timely, since when this work is started it will furnish employment for all who wish it, as well as furnishing work for practically all teams in the community, thus lessening the burden brought about by the present depression. All details in connection with the project have been attended to and road builders have been in conference with the township commissioners during the past ten days, and we are advised that actual work on the roads will begin some time during the current month.

PREACHER KIRKPATRICK IS UNABLE TO TALK

There will be no services at Presbyterian church next Sunday on account of the illness of Mr. Kirkpatrick. He has just returned from the Hospital in Fayetteville where he went to have his tonsils removed. He is improving rapidly but will be unable to preach Sunday.

OPENING OF THE HOSPITAL

The opening of Central Harnett Hospital last Friday afternoon and evening proved to be one of the most delightful affairs of the holiday season. More than two hundred guests called during the receiving hours—among whom were several doctors from over the county, and their expressions of admiration and congratulations goes to prove that it is one of the neatest, best equipped hospitals in this section of the state.

Mesdames Will Marsh, J. D. Johnson and J. B. Tugwell welcomed the guests at the door and presented them to Dr. and Mrs. Halford, Dr. Riddle and Miss Morris, who took great pride in showing them over the hospital. The operating room, in snowy white, with electric apparatus—a buzz and instruments shiny, was the center of attraction.

In the dining room the guests were greeted by Misses Mary and Kate Hockaday, Mary Faucette and Edwina Steele, who served delicious hot chocolate in the afternoon and refreshing punch in the evening.

Emma Chance and Pearl Murchison held sway in the kitchen and were delighted to show "de white folks" over their department, which was as neat and well furnished as any part of the modern establishment.

As the clock struck nine and the delightful reception was closing, there was heard in the distance the tinkle of many bells and the blowing of horns. The doors were thrown open and in walked Master Robert Johnson in the guise of the New Year, and pulling a snowy white wagon laden with "ready made New Year resolutions" for the hospital. Dr. Halford in a few well chosen remarks accepted the "resolutions" and assured "1921" that these would never be broken.

As the wagon was unloaded, however, the guests begged to differ for there were resolutions of the most breakable nature—the very first of Allen Shaw's favorite scuppernon wine—then china cups and saucers, pitchers, canned goods, pictures, towels by the score, couch pillows, curtains—in fact, so many lovely gifts that for once Drs. Halford and Riddle were "stood" and Mr. Ross was called upon to "ask the blessing."

The goodbyes were said with the real New Year spirit, and the wish that the growth and prosperity of the Central Harnett Hospital will be as great and rapid as it so richly deserves.

CITIZENS MET WITH TOWN COUNCILMEN

On Tuesday night, at the regular monthly meeting of town council, a number of citizens availed themselves of the invitation given by the Mayor to meet with the council and discuss plans for supplying lights and water.

Under the new order from the Cumberland Railway and Power Co. this town gets very little electricity, not enough to furnish ample light, and not half enough to pump sufficient water. This matter was discussed freely by the citizens with the council, and it was unanimously agreed that the town must look forward to putting its own plant in operation in the near future, inasmuch as it is believed the Cumberland company is about to say good-night.

Dr. Halford, Mr. H. T. Spears, Mr. McBroon and others spoke of the conditions confronting Lillington and urged immediate action. A resolution was adopted appointing a committee of attorneys to go before the Court next week in an endeavor to secure an order compelling the Cumberland managers to give ample service. Failing in this, it is in order to put the town's plant to work, which will no doubt be the course pursued ultimately.

A BIRTHDAY DINNER.

There was a birthday dinner given at the home of Mr. Daniel M. McDonald of Bunnlevel R. 1, last Saturday, New Year's Day, it being the birthday of Mr. Daniel M. and Martha C. McDonald. They were 68 years old. Both are hale and hearty. A table was spread in the porch and was covered with good things to eat, and after all had eaten all they would, the good relations could not be missed.

Those who enjoyed the dinner were: Mr. D. M. McDonald and sisters, Mr. J. P. McDonald and family, Mr. Hawley McDonald and sisters, Mr. W. N. McDonald and family, Mr. John Q. McLean, mother and sisters, Mrs. J. A. Clark, Mrs. S. M. Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Shaw and little son Norman.

All present enjoyed themselves and report a pleasant time. All returned to their homes in the late afternoon, wishing the two many more happy birthdays like this. A Friend.

NOTABLES SPEAK TO THE FARMERS

Raleigh, Jan. 5.—E. T. Meredith, secretary of agriculture, Richard I. Manning, former governor of South Carolina, and Aaron Sapiro, of California, expert in cooperative marketing, will address meetings of cotton and tobacco growers of North Carolina in the city auditorium here on January 12 and 13. The North Carolina Tobacco Growers' Association will meet Wednesday, January 12th, and the North Carolina division of the American Cotton Association will hold its annual convention Thursday, January 13th.

While the two organizations are distinct units, they are both, right now, working toward the same goal—a proper and efficient method of marketing their products. Attendance upon the sessions is not limited to the membership of the two associations for in addition to farmers not affiliated with the two bodies, banking and commercial interests are expected to be largely represented also.

The tobacco growers' meeting will begin at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, January 12, with organization for business, the basis of representation being one delegate for every one hundred members in each county. Words of welcome and of greeting will be heard from the outgoing and the incoming governors, to be followed by a round table conference.

The California Plan. At the recent meeting held in Richmond recommendations were made looking to the organization in North Carolina of a tobacco growers' marketing association modeled somewhat along the lines of the California organization. Cotton Export Corporation.

At the morning session on Thursday, January 13, former Governor Richard I. The meetings have been arranged to be held at a time when many people from all parts of the state will be in Raleigh in addition to those who will come especially to attend the sessions, and will doubtless draw in numbers that will be in keeping with the importance of the occasion in its bearing upon the economic welfare of the Old North State.
