

MATTERS of INTEREST to FARMERS

Grazing Crops Give Cheapest Hog Feed

Hogs can be grazed for 12 months in the year in Eastern Carolina and for 10 months in Western Carolina.

Green feed acts as a tonic. It encourages health and thrift in pigs. It saves 15 per cent of the grain required in growing out hogs. It saves 30 per cent of the protein feed. It increases the milk flow of sows. Grazing provides exercise for the animals, which is very valuable. Less labor is required in handling the hogs, since they harvest their own food. Grazing reduces the time required to produce market hogs.

Jack Kelley, Extension swine specialist at State College, recommends temporary pastures for sows and pigs; permanent pastures for dry sows and boars.

Good pasture doesn't just happen. The right crops must be seeded; at the right time on well fertilized land. The question naturally arises as to what crops should be seeded at this time for grazing the coming crop of pigs.

Kelley makes these suggestions. Any time during the next two months, seed 30 pounds of rye grass per acre. Another suggestion is a combination of 1 bushel of rye, 2 bushels of oats, and 2 bushels of barley per acre, seed about the first of September. Still another suggestion for this period is 30 pounds of rye grass and 15 pounds of crimson clover.

This is rather heavy seeding, but a good sod is required. These grazing crops are also valuable for other livestock.

The agronomists suggest 400 pounds of high grade fertilizer per acre at seeding and then a topdressing of nitrogen just as the crops begin to grow. This provides for extra fall grazing. Repeated tests have shown that the crops need to be seeded early. Write the Agricultural Editor, State College, Raleigh, for Folder 87.

Dehydrated Yams For Livestock Feed

Dehydration of sweet potatoes offers the farmer an opportunity for marketing his entire crop, both graded potatoes and culls, and it also provides for the utilization of cull potatoes into a valuable livestock feed.

The marketing of only high quality potatoes will increase sales, because it has been shown that the housewife will buy more good sweet potatoes than field-run and will pay a premium for them.

J. Y. Lassiter, Extension horticulturist at State College, says that small dehydration plants are now on the market that will take care of the culls from 300 to 500 acres of potatoes. This means that small dehydration plants can be placed in all sweet potato growing sections of North Carolina.

Three bushels of raw sweet potatoes, when dehydrated, are equal to about one bushel of corn.

The leaves and terminals of the sweet potato can also provide valuable feed. Most dehydrators are now equipped with attachments that make it possible to dehydrate the leaves and the terminals as well as the cull potatoes. Recent information shows that 1.4 tons of the dried leaves and terminals are equivalent to one ton of the best alfalfa hay in livestock feeding.

In the past the farmer has wished to sell his sweet potatoes as field-run, without grading. On the other hand, the housewife has repeatedly shown that she wishes only graded potatoes. Lassiter says that in the future, where 300 bushels are grown, 100 bushels will go into the market, as graded potatoes and the remaining 200 bushels will go for livestock feed, equivalent to about 66 bushels of corn. And, 300 bushels of sweet potatoes per acre can be grown with improved practices.

Electric System is Like Growing Plant

The electric system of the farm home and other buildings can be compared to a healthy plant with a good root system.

If a plant does not have an abundance of roots, reaching into all parts of the soil around it, the plant does not get the food materials that it needs. The size of the plant is reduced and its yield of fruit is smaller than it should be.

W. J. Ridout, Jr., Extension agricultural engineer at State College, says that the electric system in the farm home and for the other buildings must be adequate. If plenty of current has not been provided for, the equipment does not operate as it should.

He says that it is just as important to provide adequate wiring as it is to put plenty of doors and windows in the house.

He suggests that home owners study not only their present needs, but also their possible future requirements, and provide for them now. Electrical contractors, power supplies, and the Extension Service will all be glad to help in working out the plans.

Rewiring is costly. It is much better to provide for future requirements in advance. The switch box must be large enough, and the same is true for the service entrance cable, and the circuit wires. "More Facts About Wiring" will give the basic information needed. This free publication, Folder No. 66, may be obtained by writing the Agricultural Editor, State College, Raleigh.

About 100,000 North Carolina farmers will receive electric service during the next few years and many mistakes can be made. Ridout says that about nine farmers out of ten who have already had their homes and other buildings wired, say that their wiring is inadequate and that they need to have their homes rewired at considerable expense.

FLUSH KIDNEY URINE

Benefit wonderfully from famous doctor's discovery that relieves backache, run-down feeling due to excess acidity in the urine

People everywhere are finding amazing relief from painful symptoms of bladder irritation caused by excess acidity in the urine. DR. KILMER'S SWAMP ROOT acts fast on the kidneys to ease discomfort by promoting the flow of urine. This pure herbal medicine is especially welcome where bladder irritation due to excess acidity is responsible for "getting up at night". A carefully blended combination of 16 herbs, roots, vegetables, balsams, Dr. Kilmer's contains nothing harsh, is absolutely non-habit forming, "just good ingredients that many people say have a marvelous effect."

Send for free, prepaid sample TODAY! Like thousands of others you'll be glad that you did. Send name and address to Department A, Kilmer & Co., Inc., Box 1285, Stamford, Conn. Offer limited. Send at once. All druggists sell Swamp Root.

TIMELY FARM QUESTIONS

Answered at State College

Question: When can we expect more soap?

Answer: You haven't seen anything yet in the way of a soap shortage as to what will occur next winter, unless the collection of waste fats and oils is stepped up at a rapid rate. Authorities say that the situation is more serious than ever. Mrs. Estelle T. Smith of State College, who is chairman of the Fat Salvage Committee, urges that the more than 40,000 member of the home demonstration clubs tackle this job and save more waste fats than ever before, especially during hog-killing time.

Question: Can you give me information on control of the potato tuber moth?

Answer: The adults of the potato tuber moth lay their eggs on exposed potatoes, especially at harvest time when the tubers are left exposed overnight, says James T. Conner, Jr., Extension entomologist at State College. At harvest time, to prevent the caterpillar from migrating from the wilting vines to the potatoes, the infested vines should be cut and burned, or removed from the field a few days before digging. Conner says that the potatoes should never be left exposed to the egg-laying moths during late afternoon or over-night. Put the potatoes immediately into storage and destroy all culls. When potatoes in storage are infested, they must be fumigated with carbon disulfide for 48 hours when the temperature is above 45 degrees—with 5 pounds of the material to 100 cubic feet of space. Several fumigations are required for effective control.

Question: What are the chief causes of forest fires?

Answer: A breakdown of cause record of all forest fires in the United States show the following: people who set fires, 15,376; smokers, 12,569; debris burners, 7,630; miscellaneous, 7,376; lightning, 6,713; railroads, 4,307; campers, 1,364; and lumbering, 936. During one year 4,167 persons were prosecuted for violations of the state fire laws. Carelessness causes many fires not only in the forests but also around farm homes and buildings.

More Barley Can Be Grown With Profit

Barley acreage in North Carolina is down one-fifth this year as compared with last year but yields per acre are up one-third, at a new record of 25 bushels per acre. Average corn yields are estimated at 23 bushels per acre.

One-third of the crop acreage in North Carolina, or about 2 1/4 million acres, is in corn as compared with only 32,000 acres in barley. State College agronomists say that many farmers can well afford to grow barley as a "winter corn crop" because it can be produced with less labor than corn and because it can be grown in the winter and not interfere with many farm jobs in summer.

The most important points in growing barley, according to the agronomists, are preparation of a good seed bed, planting the right variety, good fertilization at planting, seeding at the proper time, and topdressing on time.

Barley should be seeded in the Piedmont from October 1 to 25; in the Mountains, from September 20 to October 10; and in the Coastal Plains, from October 10 to 30. The same seeding dates also apply to oats.

Information as to the best varieties for the various sections of North Carolina may be obtained from the county agents. Maximum benefits from topdressing come when they are applied so as to increase the stooling of small grains and increase the number of heads. The number of seed heads are already determined by the level of nitrogen in February and March, and thus topdressing should be applied relatively early.

Announcement

We are pleased to announce the installation of a completely new Cotton Gin at our Plant in Lillington, North Carolina.

The outfit is composed of four CONTINENTAL 80-Saw Gins with MITCHELL Super-Cleaners, the very latest and most modern ginning and cleaning equipment available—electric powered. It will be operated by Mr. B. F. Poythress, who has been with us since 1930.

For some time we have felt the need of a modern gin outfit in this section equipped to turn out cotton that is clean and smooth. This means money in the grower's pocket when he sells his cotton. We have it now, and will be ready to serve you when you pick your first bale. We are prepared to offer you service which cannot be duplicated in our territory.

We invite you to come down to our plant and look over this modern cotton gin, then send us your cotton with the idea of getting the best and most complete ginning service obtainable. Do your neighbors a favor—tell them about it. We will not disappoint you.
