AUSTRIAN PEAS NOW AVAILABLE AT AAA OFFICE

CHAIRMAN CAMERON URGES THAT $95,000 CONSERVATION FUND BE USED BY HARNETT FARMERS

The AAA office at Lillington has received a shipment of Austrian winter peas and advises farmers that they can be obtained by calling at the Agriculture Building.

In an effort to obtain maximum conservation with the $95,000 fund that has been made available to Harnett county farmers through the 1946 Agricultural Conservation Program, McBryde Cameron, chairman of the Harnett AAA Committee, today urged farmers to follow through on their conservation work that was approved on their farm plans last spring.

"We fully realize that many conditions may have prevented farmers from performing the practices as originally planned," he said. In such instances, Cameron said that the county committee is anxious to render every assistance by helping the farmers in selecting substitute practices.

Farmers finding it impossible to carry out their original practices or to substitute others are being urgently requested by Cameron to inform the AAA committee immediately so that the funds allotted to their farms be transferred to neighboring farmers who need additional assistance and are in a position to carry out more practices.

Practices which still can be carried out in Harnett county this fall, according to good farming methods are: Seeding winter cover crops such as Austrian winter peas, rye grass, vetch, etc.; turning under or leaving on the land summer legumes; seeding permanent pasture; constructing farm ponds; applying limestone, potash and superphosphate; terracing; sod waterways; improving forest stands; forest fire protection; open ditch drainage; tile drainage.
