Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—A prelude of what-to-expect-as-a-senator was obtained by new Senator Willis Smith last week when he came to Washington with a couple of potential aides and, setting up headquarters in the office of Senator Clyde Hoey, discussed business with a number of his new constituents.

Smith, however, transacted business elsewhere in Washington while here. In the secrecy of a Raleigh Hotel room, he held a number of lengthy conferences about unspecified matters and with unidentified persons. Capitol Hill gossips speculated he was settling the final lineup of his office staff.

If that was true, Smith did not say so. He told reporters he would wait "a little while" until he returned to North Carolina, at least, to announce who would be his aides. But he brought with him to Washington Charles Green, Louisburg attorney and his campaign manager in the primary, and Banks Arendell, Raleigh attorney, who has been assisting Smith for sometime by interviewing prospective staff members, and this led to further speculation that they might be associated with him here.

There has been considerable talk that Green would become Smith's administrative assistant at least on a temporary basis, and Arendell said, without amplification, that he "might be here temporarily."

The incoming senator also found a place to live. He and Mrs. Smith will have quarters at the Mayflower Hotel while in Washington, but unlike some other members of Congress, will not attempt to settle down in any permanent home here.

Smith also lunched one day with Jack Spain of Greenville and John McConnell of Southern Pines, aides to Senators Hoey and Frank Graham.

It is probable that Smith will take over the Senate Office Building Suite, 345, occupied in the past by Graham and his immediate predecessors, Senator William Umstead and Senator J. M. Broughton. Senate ofices are allocated on the basis of seniority, and a senior senator who might want 345 could get it, but thus far indications are that Smith can have it.

They are literally running for their lives while a border guard peers over his shoulder at an approaching Russian patrol.

Meanwhile, the office is a scene of general confusion as Graham's staff members pack his and their accumulations of mementoes preparatory to moving out.

Graham's staff will be scattered to the winds. It was not believed likely that any of them will be named by Smith for his staff, although it is possible that some will remain in Washington, possibly elsewhere on Capitol Hill.

McConnell, however, settled speculation about his future by declaring he would return to North Carolina and enter private practice in a law partnership with a friend whom he did not identify.

McConnell, a former assistant United States attorney, came to Washington first as administrative assistant to Sen. Broughton. Following Broughton's death after a few weeks in office, he remained with Graham when the former University of North Carolina president was named by Governor W. Kerr Scott to fill Broughton's seat until the past general election.

While the outcome of last week's elections was unpleasing to the Democrats, it did serve to advance several North Carolina legislators in key committee positions.

In the Senate, Sen. Hoey will become ranking Democrat on the Senate Agriculture Committee as a result of the defeat of Sen. Scott Lucas of Illinois and the earlier defeat of Chairman Elmer Thomas in the Oklahoma primary.

Lucas' defeat also will move Hoey from fifth to fourth ranking Democrat on the Senate Finance Committee. He will retain his post as chairman of the Senate Investigations Subcommittee.

Removal of two Democrats from the Senate Judiciary Committee by an earlier primary and a retirement may open a place for Senator-elect Smith on that committee. Smith is a former president of the American Bar Association and has expressed a desire to sit on this committee.

Since much of the job of lawmaking is done in committee, and since seniority means influence, any advance in rank is an advance in legislative power.

On the House side there were the following advances in committee position:

Rep. Thurmond Chatham, of Winston Salem, from tenth ranking Democrat on the Foreign Affairs Committee to eighth.

Rep. C. B. Deane from fifth ranking Democrat on the House Administration Committee to third ranking and from eighth on the Banking and Currency to seventh.

Rep. Monroe M. Redden from third to second ranking Democrat on the Public Lands Committee.

Rep. F. Eitel Carlyle from tenth to ninth ranking Democrat on the Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

North Carolina's newest congressman lost no time in getting himself established in Washington.

Two days after his election, new Rep. Woodrow Jones of Rutherfordton already had acquired an office suite in the Old House Office Building and put one of his new staff to work.

Jones himself is due in Washington this week, at which time he will make public the remainder of his staff assignments.

Herbert Lineberger of Gastonia will be one member of the Jones staff. Lineberger flew back to Washington following the election to procure Suite 437, Old House office Building, for the new congressman, and to begin organizing the office.

Lineberger said he did not know the identities of the other members of the Jones staff, nor did he know who would be its ranking member. There has been talk in Washington that Charles Wilson of Shelby, currently a member of the Hoey staff, will join Jones.

There will be just as many Joneses in the House in the Eighty-Second

G. W. Partin Died Last Friday

Funeral services were held Sunday at 2 p. m. at Sandy Grove Primitive Church near Angier for G. W. Partin, 87, of Angier R-1, who died Friday at 5:15 p. m. He had been ill for sometime. Officiating were Elder T. Floyd Adams of Willow Springs and Elder Luther W. Turner of Erwin. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Mr. Partin was a native of Johnston county but had resided near Angier practically all of his life. He was a son of the late George W. Partin and a member of the Sandy Grove Church. He was active in affairs of the community as long as his health permitted.

Surviving are his wife; four sons, Chester and Wilbur Partin, both of Angier R-1, C. R. Partin of Smithfield, B. S. Partin of Willow Springs; six daughters, Mrs. Leon Harper and Mrs. Ross Dupree, both of Angier R-1, Mrs. Ina Stephenson, Mrs. Preston Stephenson and Mrs. Ransom Stephenson, all of Willow Springs; Mrs. B. M. Allen of Smithfield R-1; one stepdaughter, Mrs. Dewey Johnson of Angier R-1; 48 grandchildren and 34 great-grandchildren.

Congress as there will be Smiths— and North Carolina will have half the former.

House postal officials said the possibilities for confusion were endless, and apologized in advance for the letters which will be delayed because of misdelivery.

Rep. Hamilton C. Jones of Charlotte and the Tenth District, who has served two terms in the House, will be joined by Rep. Woodrow Jones and the adjoining Eleventh District. The elevation of Jones—Woodrow that is—to the House brings to four the number of representatives of that name, catching the Smiths, who have had four for several sessions.

The Smiths rest their case on Howard, Va. Democrat, and Frederick of Ohio, Lawrence of Wisconsin and Wint of Kansas, all Republicans.

As far as the whole Congress is concerned, the Smiths will expand their lead, again with the help of North Carolina. The installation of Willis Smith as Senator will give the Senate three members of that name, while the Joneses have yet to invade the upper house.
