Climatic Cures.
The influence of climatic conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning, made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer climate, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottles 25c; regular size 75c. W. A. Ring.

MR. CONE REPLIES.

As the shippers of High Point are acutely interested in the rate question now before the senate committee, we give below the views of Mr. Caesar Cone, published in the Greensboro Record:

To the Editor:—Referring to the editorial appearing in your issue of the 11th instant, headed "Why Did Mr. Cone Flop?" I feel it due to myself to say that I have not flopped. I am simply opposed to the proposed law giving the government power and duty of making the rates that the railroads of the United States may charge, without the consent of the railroads. I object to this plan because I think it will interfere with the industrial development of the United States and because I think it un-American and socialistic. No committee or body of men who will be assembled at Washington can treat all parts of the United States and the railroads in all of the States uniformly and equitably. While the scheme theoretically sounds very plausible, practically I am sure it will not work. I am sure it will be destructive of the further extension of railroads of this country because under the proposed new conditions buyers cannot be found for the bonds which proposed new roads would necessarily have to issue in order to raise money with which to build and equip.

Can anyone imagine a manufacturer going into business when he has not the power to fix the price of his product? I believe such a law as is suggested by President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft would bring about a panic from those who hold the securities of the railroads of the country and it would take us at least a generation to recover from this panic. I am satisfied with the rates the Southern Mills are now getting on most of the long haul business. My company ships goods to every town in the United States in which there is located a wholesale dry goods dealer or a cutter of cotton goods. We are able to reach most all points in competition with the mills of every other section. We ship goods from most Carolina points to—

Portland, Maine, 49c per 100.
Canaan, New Hampshire, 49c per 100.
Battleboro, Vt., 39c per 100.
Montreal, Canada, 65c per 100.
Newburg, New York, 43c per 100.
Harrisburg, Pa., 40c per 100.
Milwaukee, Wis., 69c per 100.
Dubuque, Iowa, 69c per 100.
Chicago, Ill., 65c per 100.
St. Louis, Mo., 60c per 100.
Duluth, Minn., 98c per 100.
Seattle, Wash., $1.80 per 100.
San Francisco, Cal., $1.80 per 100.

Most of these rates appear to me to be reasonable. I object, however, to our competitors at Columbus, Ga., and Danville, Va., being given lower rates than we have to numerous points. For example, Danville, Va., gets a rate of 29 cents per hundred to New York City, while our rate from Greensboro to New York on similar goods is 41 cents per hundred. From personal experience I know we have some cause for complaint. I have repeatedly brought these discriminations to the attention of the railroad people and am quite sure that in time they will remedy them without the intervention of the government; but this is not the question under consideration.

My understanding is that Mr. Roosevelt proposes to take away from the railroads the power of making rates and get this question into politics by giving this power to a commission. I think this would be "jumping from the frying pan into the fire." I am totally opposed to the red tape methods and delays which I think will necessarily be involved in handling this business through a government commission. I think it probably worse than going into court. There are many phases of this case. For example, merchants of Salt Lake City pay $3.20 per hundred pounds on cotton goods shipped from North Carolina, while San Francisco merchants have their shipments from North Carolina taken right through Salt Lake City and delivered to them more than a thousand miles further and pay $1.80.

Then again, consumers of flour in New York pay 25 cents per hundred pounds on flour from Chicago and the West, while similar shipments for export get a railroad rate of something like 13 cents; but the wheat of the Western farmer must be landed in Liverpool to sell in competition with that of Argentine, India and Australia and this lower special rate on export wheat or flour is consequently given by the railroads. There are many instances similar

CHRONIC SORES

Wheeling, W. Va., May 23, 1903.
Some years ago while at work, I fell over a truck and severely injured both of my shins. My blood became poisoned as a result, and the doctor told me I would have running sores for life, and that if they were healed up the result would be fatal. Under this discouraging report I left off their treatment and resorted to the use of S. S. S. Its effects were prompt and gratifying. It took only a short while for the medicine to entirely cure up the sores, and I am not dead as the doctors intimated, nor have the sores ever broke out again. Some 12 years have elapsed since what I have described occurred. Having been so signally benefited by its use I can heartily recommend it as the one great blood purifier.
JOHN W. FURDIS.
Care Schmulback Brewing Co.

Chronic sores start often from a pimple, scratch, bruise or boil, and while salves, washes and powders are beneficial, the unhealthy matter in the blood must be driven out or the sore will continue to eat and spread. S. S. S. reaches these old sores through the blood, removes all impurities and poisons, builds up the entire system and strengthens the circulation. S. S. S. is a blood purifier and tonic combined. Contains no mineral whatever but is guaranteed purely vegetable. If you have an old sore write us and our physicians will advise without charge. Book on diseases of the Blood free.

to these, most of which the railroads have been in some measure able to explain. If a commission established the ideal railroad rate on the basis of a uniform mileage rate, this would simply kill our business entirely with most sections of the United States.

My testimony in Washington was given on the broad and general issue affecting trade and commerce all over the United States. This subject cannot be treated from a local standpoint.

The Cone Export and Commission Company shipped to all points of the United States last year approximately fifty million pounds of finished cotton fabrics. Every pound was shipped at full published rates without any concession or rebate of any kind, either directly or indirectly, and we had no more consideration shown us than the smallest shipper received.

Very truly yours,
CASAR CONE.

The Owl Courtship.
Master Hoot Owl sat on a limb.
A sweet Miss Owl not far from him;
He frowned, for he had heard it said
That pretty soon she was to wed.

He mused and then said, with a sigh:
"You are the apple of my eye.
I love you true; I do, I do.
Are you to be married? To who, to who?"
Now, Miss Hoot Owl, from on her limb,
Looked 'way and blushed and then at him.
He quickly changed his resting place,
For he could tell by her young face
That what he heard was a mistake,
So love to her he straight did make.

And when he asked her once again
If she would married be and when,
In answer to his soft "To who?"
She murmured low, "To you, to you."

A BOTTLE AND A CUCUMBER.

"When I was a little boy," remarked an old gentleman, "some body gave me a cucumber in a bottle. The neck of the bottle was small, and the cucumber so large that it wasn't possible for it to pass through, and I wondered how it got there. But out in the garden one day, I came upon a bottle slipped over a little green fellow that was still on the vine, and then I understood. The cucumber had grown in the bottle. I often see men with habits that I wonder how any strong, sensible man could form, and then I think that likely they grew into them when they were young and cannot slip out of them now."

Here is a suggestion for young gardeners. Plant some cucumbers and let one grow into a large bottle with a small neck. But don't forget the lesson while it is growing. Remember that habits grow just like the cucumber until they take possession of your life. It is just as easy to form good habits as bad habits.—Ex.
