MILL NECK NEWS.

Nothing has appeared in your columns since the new year, 1916. from Mill Neek, which, while seemingly asleep, has been busy in various ways. Farmers hauling fertilizers seems to be most they can do, the cold winds of chilly winds of December have just begun.

On March 17, Mr. William Cale died vary suddenly. He arose very early, went out to feed his horses, and when returning seemed to give away in his left side. After getting him to bed, he remarked that he had had a slight stroke of paralysis. Dr. L. A. Nowel was summoned, and made every effort to revive him, but he was unconscious when the doctors arrived, and died in thirty minutes from Apoplexy. Mr. Cale was a good nurse in sickness. and was always ready and willing to aid his friends.

Two weeks ago little Sophia Sewell was bitten by her father's dog. Fearing that the dog was mad; the dog's head was sent to Raleigh to be examined, and it was found to contain hydrephobic germs. Dr. J. A. Powell left last week for Raleigh, where he took her for treatment. We hope for her a sneedy recovery and an early return.

On March 2nd, Mrs. Willie Beale died after an illness of two months, having lived to a ripe old age. Her last days were spent in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Peele, who, with the assistance of neighbors, did all they could to restore her to health. Although Mrs. Beale had no relatives to care for her, she found a home, and she was useful both in her home and to others in the community.
