Again the death angel has visited has visited our home and taken from us our beloved mother, birs. Willie Jane Thomas, aged 72, to be trans lated in the flower garden above. She was faithful member of the Cashie Bantist church, at Windsor, and always present at all services of this church as far as her health would permit. The passing away of this very beautiful life is velled in mystery but "sometimes we'll understand."

has promised that through faith we may, enter in at the golden gate, there curtains will be lifted, and we shall behold you, more beautiful than before, clasping your hands with the gladness as we enter. Yes, we loved for to know her was to love he. Olld and you beauty of a christian life, and another me has been broken and another shadow cast upon the brightness of our life. But is this all the meaning of this sad providence? If it were, those who are left might wel pour out their tears without measure night and day, but, blessed be God, it is not all. It is true another sweet life has vanished. It has passed through death, however, to enter upon an immortal life of holiness, beauty and fel lowship with our Saviour, to expand into a more beautiful life than could be reached on earth.

You are gone from us, mother, and your children and loved ones miss you so much. In the morning of the Resurection we expect to meet you again for your soul is now basking in the sunlight of Jesus.

Dearest mother, you have left us, With a sad and aching heart; But we hope sometimes to meet thee Where we will never more part.

For I know you are safe with Jesus Safe from all the earth's sin and care: Safe from this world's temptations Nothing can e'er harm you there.

But, oh! how we miss you, mother How we miss your gentle voice; If we could only have you with us How our poor hearts would rejoice.

But, dear mother, you have left us And I know you are safe at rest; Safe from all earth's pain and sorro Resting on Jesus' gentle breast.

But, our mother, how we miss you More than tongue can tell; For to us you were a treasure, And we loved you, oh! too, well.

How we miss you dearest mother, Nights seem long and days so drear; Seems to us you must come back, For we see you everywhere.

You have left us broken hearted, For no more your voice we hear; But your soul is safe in Heaven, And for us you are waiting there.

But, we know you are happy, In the mansion of the blest; Where there is no pain or sorrow, In your sweet eternal rest.

Just a few days ago you left us, For that home beyond the skies; Where there is no pain or sorrow, We will meet you bye and bye.

We serrow for your presence still, As you left us when life was so bright We mourn in silence, no hope come

Can this way of the cross lead to light

But we miss you, dearest mother, Mise your voice and tender care; And our hearts are always saddened When we see your vacant chair. Goodbye mother, we'll meet you ther Over on that golden shore; Where we will always be together, There, never to part any more.

Warrenton, January 20, 1922.

Dear Mr. Editor:
I have jut learned that my good friend, J. B. CHILD AND SCHOOL LUNCH

Published by request of Miss Myrtls Swindell, Home Demonstrator) Since it has been established cleary and scientifically that only the best properly nourished child can dot its best work, it is up to the mother to see that it has the right chance. Every child has a right to health, happine and an education.

Habits of eating should be well grounded that by the time a child reaches school age he will have a very good foundation laid. A child so well prepared will at once and rapidly adapt himself to school conditions.

It is the duty of the mother to se that the child has a nourishing filling breakfast. If this is done the matter of the school lunch is simple. Many children positively refuse to eat a sufficient quantity early in the mo- He reads about the weddin's and he rning and need a good lunch. -CHARACTER-

(By Jno. A. Parker)

You have been very kind to me give me space in your paper, fros written, discussing some great ques tions which I felt ought to be helpful to some reader of your paper.

Character, in the first place, is really what we are; reputation, what we seem to be or what others think of us. Anyone, to have a good character, means much to the individual and the community in which he lives. In order to possess a good character, we have to deny ourselves of some world ly pleasures, and the temptations of the world have to be shunned. Mr. ed SHINGLES FROM $5.00 to $9.00itor, I can't understand how so many folks can afford to be guilty of so many low down tricks—taking ad vantage in a deal.

I have known reputable men who would lie for ten cents. No wonder we hardly know whom to believe. Low moral character is largely resp for so many lawsuits. Our jails are crowded with criminals; some others ought to be there and are not. Ev erything in a stir is brought about by sin. All this is because people are on a low plane of living, minus of real character. Get on a higher plane of living, that your life may count for character building-extends from the WANTED-MEN AND WOMEN TO childhood to death.

I knew a man once who was prom inent in his community, and in his honestly and intelligently looked af- church, who, after living sixty years debauched himself-committed a ve ry great sin. He died in disgrace. I tell you, brother, you are never safe, even in this world or in the next, when you leave God out of your life.

No telling what the end will be, o what you will do. I cannot see how anyone can be a good citizen or a christian who posses a low moral char
