LITERARY SOCIETIES MEET Society Number Two

The first program of the Literary Society of which Spurgeon Isenhower is president, was rendered very successfully and was fully appreciated by the audience. It was given as follows:

Current events.....Columbus McKeel
Story Telling.....Ila Horton
Pen Pictures.....Elizabeth Dilday
Recitation.....Bessie Cowan
Want Ads.....Cling Odum
Original Story.....Kate Brett

Mr. T. R. Bain, who acted as critic, gave some very helpful advice, which if practiced, this literary society will be climbing the heights to the goal of success. He especially emphasized correct posture, as this seemed to be the thing that most of the ones who took part in the program were sadly lacking in. He also demanded that we have clean jokes and offered a few suggestions as to how to improve the personal appearance when serving on the program. With this he offered other criticisms, after which he prophesied something that was very much appreciated by the entire society. He stated that in this society lies talent and ability with which to develop orators, speakers and useful men and women, and also that we have the possibility of triumphing over rival societies.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION ADOPTS RESOLUTION

The Athletic Association assembled in regular session a few days ago to discuss an important matter. At this meeting, a resolution forbidding any person, not a member of A. H. S. from becoming a member of the Association or taking part in any practice games in basketball, except by special invitation. If any of the town boys wish to form a basketball team and would like to arrange scheduled games with the school teams, we would gladly extend them an invitation to play on our court. This step was voted on after careful consideration and was not intended as a measure against any of the town boys.

Basketball Practice Begins
Basketball practice has begun in earnest and from all indications, we are to have a successful year and a victorious team. The game played on last Friday afternoon was a splendid example of real practice, two school teams engaging in the "basket battle." The score swayed from side to side, one team finally winning by a 20-19 score. The respective sides were:

PEN PICTURES OF FACULTY BY SIBIL MYERS

I
She's the Freshie's teacher
And must be very sweet disposed.
To put up with the Freshies,
Sure, everybody knows.

II
Not very tall, yet not a bit small,
Light hair, blue eyes and dress so neat.
And when it comes to teaching Latin,
She's mighty hard to beat.

III
He's a dandy teacher
When it comes to History
And no one can ever beat him
Teaching Chemistry.

IV
He comes in with his shoes shined,
His hair so slick and prim
And answers every question
That Seniors pop to him.

V
When he comes in the morning,
His hair so crimped with curls;
You just ought to see his smile
As he greets the boys and girls.
And in his class in French
And especially geometry too,
No one will ever know
What our teacher must go through.

VI
She has a bit of temper
Most everybody knows,
But it surely is a wonder
How this temper she controls;
But she's one of the best teachers
That the seventh grade ever roughed.

VII
But the worst thing about it,
There's a way to make each one so

This town don't 'preciate her
'nough.

VI
Mistress Mary, quite contrary,
Has grown so slim and tall,
Her "Shield" is now so faint and dim,
She must have "Moore" or not at all.

VII
We will liken her to modest daisy
With its beauty and its use,
Because she is never lazy
And "lots of work" is her excuse.

VIII
Some used to fear a "Gatling"
While some fear only mice;
But this Gatling all love dearly
Because she is so nice.

IX
The fairest Jewell that we boast,
Was found way off our coast,
But soon we think she will be with us,
And join for good our 'hoskie dwellers.

X
When she lifts her eyes so soft and brown
And speaks to us so sweet and low,
To her we all do fall down
And wonder that she can say "no."

XI
She's been seen a great deal lately
With her "Gatling" in his car
And we hope them great success,
And hope nothing their friendship will mar.

XII
She's quite the youngest teacher,
But not last of the thirteen,
Her hair is black as midnight
With eyes, the brightest ever seen.

XIII
She used to be a Barker,
But now she is a Brown.
You should be with us and hark her,
Make music for all the town.

SCHOOL NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Myers delightfully entertained the high school faculty, October 13, 1922. Many people look upon this date as a day of doom but to those who attended this reception, spending a most enjoyable evening, it will go down as a red letter day in their calendar. In this case, the thirteenth was one of the luckiest possible. Those who enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Myers were Messrs. K. T. Raynor and T. R. Bain; Misses Emily Gayle, Bessie Gaddy and Mina Holloman.

The Sophmores gave a very interesting program in Chapel Tuesday morning. The devotional exercises were conducted by Miss Gaddy. She then gave this history and the practical lesson that Sam Walter Ross, author of "The House By the Side of the Road," had in view when he wrote this popular American poem. The class then repeated in unison, "The House by the Side of the Road." The Seniors must take a hint from the class of '25.

We notice with much pleasure that a majority of the teachers have taken "The Warwhoop's" suggestions as to beautifying their respective classrooms, particularly in the high school. Must we congratulate the Freshmen and Sophmores.

Love, or rather an imitation of love, seems to have established a firm grasp even upon the tots of six and seven as every recess, while marching to the buildings, we hear a tiny voice from just across the school boundary proclaimed with a loud tone, the words of "Sweetheart, sweetheart," to some unknown person in the primary grades.

Miss Mable Clair Hoggard has returned to her home in Ahoskie after spending some time at the Sarah Leigh Hospital. Although she has not returned to school yet, we all hope she will be back in the near future.

The seventh grade recited the poem, "Columbus," in chapel, Thursday, October 12th. The day will be remembered as Columbus' discovery of America.

Contrasts

There are days which are light and cheery,
And cause the heart to be glad.
There are days which are sad and dreary,
Which cause the heart to be sad.

In the days that come to us always,
There's a way to make each one so

bright
By helping lift the load of others
Whose burdens have never been light.

When some days seem lonely and dreary,
When some days seem often too long

Why, just pass a word of cheering
To help them to right their own wrong.

The days seem often two short
For those who try to gain
But for those who do not try to be something,
They pass to earth like rain.

—MARY HOGGARD.

Ghosts I Would Like To Meet
There are very few people who believe there is such a thing as a ghost. I am one of those who do not believe it, but at times, I wish there were such things as ghosts.

If such a thing were possible, I would like very much to meet the ghosts of some of the famous men, whose names have gone down in history as great generals and statesmen.

The one I most desire to meet, is that of our first president, George Washington. I would consider it a great honor if I could even see the "ghost" of a man who never told a lie. If I could only see the outline of this noble man's face, as it was in real life, I would consider it the greatest privilege of my life.

I would also like to meet the ghost of Robert E. Lee, the man, who in my estimation is the greatest hero the south has ever produced. This loving son, who always obeyed his mother's slightest command without a murmur. He was not only true to his mother, but to his country as well; as a general he was loved and admired by all men, superiors and inferiors of rank alike.

Such men as George Washington and Robert E. Lee do not exist today, and I don't think there are many, if any people who would not welcome the opportunity to look upon the faces of these grand and noble men, as they were in real life.

There are others that I would like to meet, but none that I would consider as great an honor as meeting either that of Washington or Lee.

Many Millions Lost Annually by Check Raising

It has been reliably estimated that from thirty to fifty millions of dollars are being stolen annually from bank depositors who do not protect their checks.

It may never have happened to you—yet your next check may be raised.

It is next to impossible to write a check that is safe, unless protected with a modern device.

Remember—that in these days, every class of crime is constantly increasing and an unprotected check is a dangerous asset. No matter to whom you give your check it is not safe for it may be transferred to another party or stolen from the mail or get into the hands of a dishonest employee, who by using a few drops of acid or by clever pen changing can make over your check so that you would scarcely know it.

Do you know that your signature represents every dollar that you are worth? Is it not worth a few dollars of your money to protect it?

Don't put this matter off another day—but write for interesting literature on check protection. It does not obligate you at all. A post card will do.

We can supply you with any standard make of check writer or protecting device for half price or less.

An attractive proposition offered to live wire local salesmen.

SAVE MONEY BY MAKING YOUR OWN SOAP

Here is the way to make 10 pounds of good soap

Every housewife should know how to make this pure soap. All that is needed is one can of Red Seal Lye, 5½ pounds of waste grease and a little water. This will make twenty cakes of powerful cleansing soap, enough for all cleaning and scouring purposes to last several months. Full instructions in the can.

Another important use for Red Seal Lye is keeping the drain pipes free. If the drain runs slowly, shake a little Red Seal Lye into the pipes and it will clear things out in a jiffy.

When scrubbing the bathroom floor, a teaspoonful of Red Seal Lye in the water will kill all the germs and make the water soft, thereby saving soap, time and labor. Make a solution of Red Seal Lye and sprinkle about the cellar—it will immediately kill all unpleasant odors and make your cellar clean and sweet smelling.

Ask your dealer for the old original granulated Red Seal Lye, and take no substitute. Send us a postal for the Red Seal Booklet which will be mailed you free. Send for it today.
