Says Co-operative Selling Has Proven Its Worth To Members Cotton Association

Second Payment Will Be Made December 15th On All Cotton Delivered

(By B. F. TENNILE, Field Agent)

Those who have been waiting to see if cooperative marketing of cotton would make good need wait no longer, for it is making good in every way. Those who have been in it from the first feel proud of the fact, and know that their names will go down in history as those who help to make the Farmer a seller as well as a producer.

And it is very gratifying to the farmer to know that the business men as a rule have done all in their power to help in this great cause. Those who have waited, and have been able to get a better price for their cotton, should at least feel grateful to the Association. All know that because of the Association the price of cotton has kept on the upward grade, all during the time that the distress cotton has been going in.

Those of you who have been waiting to see if we made good, don't you think you should come in now, and make it 100 per cent strong? The Association will make second payment on all cotton delivered by the first of December on December 15th to $25.00 per bale, making $75.00 a bale on all cotton delivered. All chairmen of Local Groups should hold meetings once a month and tell members what the Association was doing and to see that none of the members were breaking their contract. It is not fair to yourselves that any member should violate his contract, and do nothing to hold him to his pledged word.

Let every man be honest in his dealing with the Association, for you are the Association. Anything you want to know in regard to the affairs of the Association, please write to H. B. Mask, Raleigh, N. C. and you will get information at once. Loyal support is asked of every member by our directors. So let us see that they get.

Tell your home-town editor you like his paper, or why you don't. He is doing a job, left undone, would make your community not much of a community.

FATHER COMES INTO HIS OWN IN PICTURE "THE GOOD PROVIDER"

Papa Not Such a Bad Skate After All As Is Shown in This Photoplay

If your father complains that he is not appreciated in his own home, that your mother and your sisters and brothers overlook the fact that he is supporting them, that his love for you all falls on deaf ears, just advise him to go to RICHARD THEATRE next FRIDAY and SATURDAY when there will be presented a photoplay that will make up for Dad all of the gratitude that he thinks he has missed for years. It will make him happy, make Mother happy and you happy, too.

"The Good Provider," written by Fannie Hurst and directed by Frank Borzage, his father's own picture. "Humoresque" revealed the beautiful quality of mother's love. "The Good Provider"—written by the same author and directed by the same director—shows that father isn't such a bad skate, after all.

Vera Gordon and Dora Davidson are the featured players in this new Cosmopolitan production released by Paramount. Everyone who saw "Humoresque" knows what an inimitable Papa and Mama they make. And Miriam Battista, who was the little girl in "Humoresque," plays a similar part in "The Good Provider."

As usual with Cosmopolitan Production, the cast is particularly noteworthy. It includes, besides those mentioned, Vivienne Osborne, William (Buster) Collier, Jr., John Roche, James Devine, Blanche Craig, Ora Jones, Edward Phillips, Muriel Martin and Margaret Severn, the dancer.
