A Word Regarding Malinery

Every woman looks best with a hat made individually for her. No two women look equally well with bats alike; if they did there would be no need for such a thing as artistic or individual millinery.

Now when it couses to hate we have them in all the newcet and most dostrable abapes and styles—dress hate in every sense—and they cost no more than the or-dinary kind and less than same one and see them.

Florence Owen.
