Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, putting it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Fourth Asst. Postmaster General Bristow Resigns in a Huff—Swayne's Impeachment—One Day Each Week Devoted to Pension Bills—President in Earnest About Railroads—Other Matters.

Washington, January 16.—In my letter of last week you make me say "Crum will not receive his back pay," when it should read "Crum will now receive his back pay."

The session of the week was the resigning Friday afternoon of the Hon. Joseph L. Bristow, fourth assistant postmaster general. It will be recalled that Mr. Bristow made himself famous last year by the prosecution of certain postal frauds, and equally infamous, in the eyes of certain members of Congress, by his unwarranted impeachment of their action in their dealings with the Postoffice Department.

The office of fourth assistant was organized only fifteen years ago, with almost no duties at first, but really to make a place for a "deserving" man, but it has spread itself like a green bay tree, until today it is the most influential division of the government service, controlling more than 150,000 men.

The big question brewing in Washington now is the regulation of the inter-state railways. The President has made it clear that he is in the light to the finish. It looks now that the "stand-paters" have backed him down, or at least quieted him for the present, on the tariff revision, but he says this railway question must be dealt with. The hearing has already begun before the House committee and Mr. Samuel Spencer, president of the Southern, is the first man to appear in the interest of the railroads. Unless the President is sidetracked in some way in this matter, there is fun ahead.

Another White House reception was pulled off last week. It is wonderful why the throngs continue to go to these affairs, but they do. It is difficult for a fellow who has social functions confused with "tap-hand," "drop-the-handkerchief," "sit a partner," etc., to see any real social life in being pushed and jammed along crowded corridors for two or three hours among folks you don't know and never expect to know; I'd rather be pulling molasses candy on the kitchen porch.

High Point Store Robbed. High Point, Jan. 15.—Burglars raided two stores early this morning and the sufferers by their operations are the High Point Clothing Company and Beson Hardware Company.

The theft at this store consisted of a few caps and some underclothing in the show window. These, it is thought, were secured from the outside, the burglars evidently becoming suspicious and not entering the store. Adjoining this store, upstairs, several people live, and the terrible noise and jar occasioned by the breaking of the plate glass was enough to arouse the slumbers of anyone, for 100 yards distant, across the street, Mr. Lewis Harris heard the racket and with his gun in hand looked out for the burglars, expecting to present them his compliments in the way of several balls of cold lead. But this "brave" individual didn't see anything. However, shortly afterwards the burglars passed that way and began their work of devilment at the Beson Hardware Company's, where, as in the first case, a glass was broken, in which to make their entrance. But sleeping over his store, Mr. Bob Hagan awoke instantly and went to the window with his right hand and revolver in the left, he looked down on the pavement and spied his destroyers. Bang! went his gun with the swiftness of a deer went the burglars. Mr. Hagan under different circumstances could have, perhaps, felled his game but with pistol in left hand and the right hand holding a window of him it was well-nigh impossible to shoot straight. Nothing was secured at this store. Such depredation are of frequent occurrence here and will continue as long as High Point hasn't an all-night police force. Very few of the offenders are ever caught.—Cor. Charlotte Observer.

FOUND

Odd Notice in Prominent Southern Paper of Interest to Asheville Residence.

One of the best known newspapers in the South is the "Guide" of Dunn, N. C. Its publisher, J. P. Pitman, sends as the following clipping with request to publish:

"Found,—by the editor of the Guide, a bottle of Hyomei, the wonderful treatment that cures catarrh without stomach doing. We can speak in highest praise of its remarkable power to cure and relieve catarrh of the head and throat. This mention is made not only as an advertisement, but in the interest of those who suffer the torture of that terrible disease, catarrh."

In sending the clipping, Mr. Pitman wrote the following letter: "I enclose a little piece from my paper, issued to-day. You will see from this that I desire to push the selling of Hyomei as far as possible. I am using it in my own family, and find that it gives the desired relief, so that I take pleasure in spreading far and near the knowledge of this sure relief for catarrh."

Asheboro Drug Company in preparation for the catarrhal troubles of this season of the year, have ordered a large stock of Hyomei, and sell it under guarantee to refund the money if it does not relieve. The complete outfit costs but $1, and extra bottles can be obtained for 50 cents. Ask them to show you the strong guarantee under which they sell it. This remarkable remedy medicates the air you breathe, soothes and healing the mucous membrane of the air passages, and making a complete cure of the worst case of catarrh.

STRONGHOLD OF LIQUOR BROKEN.

The Senate Gives Richmond County Prohibition. Five years ago, it was said that Richmond county would be forever the pool of pollution for the manufacture and sale of liquor in North Carolina, and if anybody had suggested a general prohibition law for that county, that man's words would have been hailed with contemptuous derision as being impossible. It has the strongest and biggest distilleries in the east, which are fortified, prosperous and progressive, but yesterday with almost a unanimous vote the Senate passed a stringent bill against the manufacture or sale of liquor in Richmond county, upon the petition of a majority of the qualified voters of that county.

If the House passes the bill, as it undoubtedly will, do the towns of Hamlet and Hoffman are redeemed from the curse of liquor.

Some months ago the town of Rockingham, the county seat of Richmond, refused to license distilleries and saloons after the first of January, so this bill will not affect Rockingham, but the driving out of the distilleries and saloons from Hamlet is of State wide importance and interest.

It was not very long ago that a prominent capitalist from New England visited Hamlet with the intention of establishing a large cotton mill industry there, but when he discovered that the town and county were predominated by the whiskey interests, he abandoned his purpose, and stated to several well known men that he did not want to invest his money in any industry in that locality that would give employment to the laboring people for fear that they would be demoralized by liquor. And it is notorious that Hamlet and Hoffman are darker in their liquor light than any other place south of hell or east of Marion.

The farmers and manufacturers of Richmond county will be rejoiced at the passage of this bill, for they recognize the fact that Hamlet is peculiarly and ideally situated to become a large manufacturing town, and with this great demoralization of labor out of the community it will fast grow up to be a big and flourishing town.

The passage of this bill is of importance not only to Richmond county, but to the entire Southern part of the State. Robeson, Scotland and all the counties between Mecklenburg and New Hanover have prohibition, but the Hamlet and Hoffman distilleries have done much to prevent the enforcement of their laws, and the people of these counties have long been desirous of seeing Richmond join hands with her sister counties in this moral and progressive step.—News and Observer.

The End of an Era. It would be a rare administration which commended itself in all particulars to the approbation of all people, but that of Governor Aycock, just ended, has enjoyed almost unprecedented popularity and will grow in popular favor as its details are considered and time goes on. The Governor himself has won steadily upon the regard of the people and retires from his high office with their favor, affection and best wishes. He has discharged with ability, fidelity and high purpose the duties committed to his hands four years ago, and retires from office, as few men do, more popular than he was when he assumed it. During these four years the State has made gigantic strides in many directions, and his administration will go down to history as a golden era. That man is accounted fortunate of whom it can be said that he left the world better than he found it, and it will not be disputed that Governor Aycock leaves the Executive chair of his State better and further advanced on the highway of prosperity than when he became its Chief Magistrate. The benedictions of his people follow him in his retirement.—Charlotte Observer.

The grand chancellors of both North and South Carolina have been invited to be present. Three of the district lodges are in this community, at Salisbury and Spencer, and will join in extending a fraternal welcome. The other lodges are at Asheboro, High Point, Lexington, China Grove, Albemarle and Newwood.—Salisbury Cor. Charlotte Observer.

Dead Hand On Jug. Mr. C. C. Inman, a prominent farmer of Westfield, Surry county, left home on Monday January 2, and his body was found last week in a tobacco basement a few miles from his home. Mr. Inman left home with a jug, and went direct to a still house several miles away. He had the vessel filled with whiskey, from which he is said to have drunk freely. When found one hand was upon the handle of the jug. He leaves a wife and fifteen children.
