The state should be gridironed with roads good in all weather. These roads would act as feeders for the ever spreading and extending railroad systems.

The "drug habit" has grown fearfully of late years. The best remedy is the preventive. Teach the children in the family, in the school and everywhere else, the effects of the "drug habit."

The burning question with the people for the next few years at least should be good roads. The only way to get good roads is by a bond issue and in order to get a bond issue the legislature must authorize an election.

Whatever else girls may do, they should never marry a drunkard. Better have old maid on your tombstone than to hitch up to one of those fellows who are addicted to a habit which is scarcely ever shaken.

Most young men had better opportunities than Hon John M Patterson, recently elected Governor of Ohio. He was born in a little log house and received his early education in an old-fashioned country school house.
