

BRILLIANT WEDDING.

Miss Zula Aurora Hinshaw
Bride of Eugene T. Bost.

Miss Zula Aurora Hinshaw and Mr Eugene Thompson Bost were united in wedlock's holy union Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the marriage taking place at the home of the bride's uncle, Mr James A Odell, at 313 East Washington street, Greensboro. Rev Dr G H Dotwiler, of West Market street, M E church, officiated in the presence of a large company of relatives and friends.

The Odell home was decorated by the J Van Lindley Nursery Company in the most exquisite style and presents a scene of rare beauty and splendor.

While Elam's orchestra played Mendelssohn's wedding march the party entered the east parlor, Dr Dotwiler coming first, followed by Mr C E Boger with Lenna Stevens, of Concord. Next came the bride's sister, Miss May Hinshaw, who acted as maid of honor. She preceded the groom and his best man, Mr Jas F Cannon, of Concord, followed by the bride, leaning upon the arm of her uncle, Mr James A Odell, who gave her away.

Following the ceremony an elegant wedding reception occurred, the hours being from 4:30 to 9 o'clock.

Mr and Mrs Bost will be at home after March 21, at Bost's Mill, near Concord where the groom is a successful business man.

The bride is a native of Randolph county, but has made her home with Mr and Mrs Odell here for the past seven years. She is an accomplished and lovable young woman and much admired by all who know her. She graduated at Greensboro Female College in the class of 1903.

A BOON TO SETTLERS

WHY GOOD ROADS TEND TO DRAW HOME SEEKERS.

Purchases of Many Fine Places in a California County Were Due to a Large Extent to Hard and Dustless Highways.

The value of good roads to a community is thus treated by the Santa Rosa (Cal.) Press:

As an abstract proposition most people are, of course, in favor of good roads. Yet as a matter of fact comparatively few stop to think how much well kept thoroughfares really mean to a community. They not only stimulate travel, popularize the sections traversed, increase land values, attract new residents and build up trade, but they also make life more pleasant and improve conditions generally.

No one appreciates the value of good roads more than the real estate man, who makes it his business to show prospective home seekers about, point out the beauties and advantages of the country and locate as many desirable residents in his territory as possible. When he starts out over a hot, dusty road he knows that the chances are against him to begin with. The way seems long, the country uninviting, and his customer will nine times out of ten become disgusted and get out of the notion of buying before the objective point is reached. The trip is therefore a failure, and unless the agent is fortunate enough to locate his man elsewhere he leaves the country with an unfavorable impression and carries this opinion with him to be imparted later to his friends and acquaintances in other places, not only to the injury of the real estate business, but to the detriment of the community as a whole.

On the other hand, when bowling along behind a spanking team and over a fine road, well sprinkled and free from dust, ten or twenty miles are rolled off before any one realizes it, the good points noted en route are discussed and properly considered, and the prospective customer is very apt to find himself favorably impressed with the whole country and is sure to reach the place he started for in a frame of mind, where he will at least give the arguments presented by his guide due consideration and attention.

As an indication of what this means let us look at the Kenwood and Glen Ellen country, in Sonoma county, California, where the sprinkling of roads with oil was first inaugurated. Many of the roads in that vicinity had been neglected for a long time. Aroused to the necessity for action, the residents and property owners of that section organized a "good roads club." A "good roads convention" was even held there, with delegates from many distant points. In short, the matter was regarded as an even, possible way. The natural result followed.

During the past few years more real estate has changed hands in that vicinity and more desirable new residents have been brought in than in any similar period before. The improved condition of the roads alone may not have brought about this result, it is true, but it has, beyond doubt, contributed very materially to it.
