

LUMBER TRADE OF PENNSYLVANIA.

North Carolina for many years enjoyed almost a monopoly in the commerce arising out of the products of the pine forests. She had the prominence not only in "tar, pitch and turpentine," but in timber and lumber, and shingles and staves. Her sceptre has not altogether departed from her, but it has lost much of its power and brightness. The forests in some parts are nearly exhausted, and cease to give importance to Washington and Newbern, once great centres of the naval store trade. Wilmington alone holds its own; but even there there are signs of decadence. The pine belt extends along the Atlantic coast from Virginia to Florida, and then takes along to the Gulf coast through Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana. And the tide of forest industry has begun to sweep with strong current along those shores. Savannah, Darien and Brunswick in Georgia are now large exporters of things that were once almost peculiar to North Carolina. But the most remarkable advance has been made in Pensacola. That city has the finest port on the whole coast, Atlantic or Gulf, south of Norfolk. It is backed by a deep belt of long leaf pine country. Probably for a century, certainly since the acquisition of Florida from Spain in 1819, there has been more or less coastwise trade in lumber from this point. But it is only since the close of the war that its real value as a lumber and timber market was fully appreciated. We present below a table of last years business taken from the Advance Gazette.

Why Pensacola has not become prominent for other business than those referred to is not surprising to those who know the slow progress made in the past two hundred years under successive Spanish, English, and again, Spanish occupation, and who observed how readily American successors to them all fell into the leisurely footsteps of European occupants. But it ought to be a surprise, nevertheless; for it has, as we have remarked, the finest and most capacious harbor on the coast, accessible at all times with a depth of 24 feet water on the bar, a healthy and not a hot climate; good drinking water, and few of the drawbacks of a low latitude. And beyond the pine belt a back country, with which she is now connected by railroad, by which she might get the coal and iron of Alabama and Tennessee, and also the cotton. Her communications extend to the far northwest and she might be the entrepot for all the vast imports for that section, and become the intermediary of the vast business with Europe and South America which is now controlled by New Orleans. Enterprise and sagacity seem all that are needed to give Pensacola a magnificent future.

Here is the table:
Mr. John Pinney, of the U. S. custom house, has made an elaborate statement of the export trade of lumber and timber from the port of Pensacola for the year ending April 1, 1886. From this we get the following:
Exports to Foreign Countries—Lumber, 41,178,000 ft., value $87,848; sawn timber, 104,460,000 ft., value $1,007,918; hewn timber, 1,398,124 cu. ft., value $153,070; total value, $1,448,836.
Coastwise Trade—Lumber, 28,780,000 ft.

Cluverius may not wear charmed life; but the halter draws very slowly. After the last action of the Court of Appeals of Virginia, and its remand back to the Hustings Court, it was natural to expect that nothing more was to be done but remittance to execution. The Court of Appeals has consented to another hearing which will not be had until the middle of September.

The persistent efforts of counsel cannot be condemned if there is good reason for it. But does not this look like an effort to hoodwink the court and defeat justice when it is presumed to convince the court that they did not understand what they were talking about when they not long since deliberately expressed their opinions.

A clipping from the Baltimorean gives the following information:
Thomas Judson Cluverius has a new but very brief lease of life. At the request of his senior counsel, Judge Crump, the Supreme Court of Appeals has agreed to entertain a motion for a rehearing at their term to be held in Staunton, Sept. 10th. This is a very slight ray of hope. In the mean time he eats well, sleeps well, and dresses well. He also sees the morning papers, and some of the journals afford him pleasant reading. One of these has recently informed him in what precise locality he will be hung; who will adjust the rope, who will pull the same, and that the rope is to be made in Baltimore and the hempen strans are to be so interwoven with wire, that its strength will be sufficient to hang any man, who does not weigh as much as Jumbo, the elephant. Cluverius is now in solitary confinement. He remains in his cell by day as well as by night. It is true, that there is a guard who occupies the cell during the day and another at night, but these are anything else but companions, for no mouse was ever watched more closely by a cat than is C. by his special custodians. Escape or suicide are now simply impossibilities.

To those who have been pooh-poohing the operations of the Fish Commission as an expensive and useless institution, it may not be amiss to say that, at least so far as the shad fisheries are concerned, the work of the commission has proved a great success. An unprecedented abundance of shad this season is noticed in all the rivers which have been heretofore supplied with young fish by the commission. An evidence that the abundance of shad is due artificial propagation is that the same increase is noticed in waters on the Pacific coast, in which shad were unknown until the young fish were placed in these rivers by the commission. The most inveterate scoffer can scarcely deny that if shad can be made plenty by artificial propagation in streams where they were unknown, that the numbers can be materially increased by the same method in waters to which they are native.

An idea of the relative frequency of labor disputes and strikes can be formed from the census report on that subject by Mr. Jos. D. Weeks. In the year 1880 the number of strikes and lockouts in the United States was 762. In 1886 a mere review of those mentioned in the newspapers shows that the number was much greater during the first four months of the year. In 1880 about 200,000 men appear to have been engaged, estimating the strikes of which the number was not reported, and the loss to the men in wages was over $13,000,000. This year things are moving at a rate which involves to the working population a loss of over $40,000,000 yearly, distributed among 600,000 workers, though of course it is to be hoped that the same state of things will not continue an entire year. But the loss in the census year would have sufficed to support throughout the whole year 26,000 families, so that it would have been actually cheaper for organized labor to keep that number of men in idleness the whole year than to resort to strikes as a means of settling their disputes. As for this year, the entire cost of the army and navy of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30 will probably be less than the loss of labor resulting from these unwise methods.

Cure for Piles.
Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, after getting warm, is a common attendant. Blind Bleeding and itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cts. Address The Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Piqua, O. Sold by H. H. Lyons, druggist.

The first volume of Gen. Grant's memoirs has paid Mrs. Grant more than $200,000. If the second volume sells as well as it promises the Grant estate will get $500,000 out of it.
The Pole is to be again sought, this time by Col. Gilder, an Arctic traveller, who leaves New Bedford, Mass., next month on a whaler, and will prosecute the search with a party of Esquimaux.
Sir Thomas Erskine May, late clerk of the British House of Commons, author of a "Constitutional History of England since the Accession of George III.," and "Democracy in Europe; a History," has been raised to the peerage, with the title of Baron Fernborough.

There was a decided sensation at the racing grounds, at Cedarhurst, near New York, on Wednesday, when the sheriff made a raid upon the book-makers. The gamblers were deprived of one day's operations and the authorities threaten to keep up the war on the sporting fraternity. A young man who publicly offered a bet was arrested.
Manager Hayman, Daniel Frohman and Marcus Meyer have just signed a contract with Miss Fortescue for a long tour through the United States. Her first appearance in New York will take place at the Lyceum Theatre early in October, and the engagement will consist of six or seven weeks, during which she will appear in several plays. Miss Fortescue has been acting since the termination of her suit against Lord Garmoyne both in London and the English provinces, and has been extremely successful. She is said to be a woman of remarkable beauty and a little talent.

Norway, whose annual revenue is barely about $5,000,000, spends yearly about $100,000, in fighting leprosy. A visitor to one of national asylums, in describing what she saw, thus concludes a long letter on the subject: "Sadder to us than all the awful contortions and deformities we saw was to behold in one of the women's rooms, knitting with the others, a lovely girl. For years she may have done nothing but knit for forty years after their admission, though mercifully 17 1/2 per cent die between 30 and 50 years. Yet some live to an old age. If any are ever cured they are 'ruins of human beings.'"
A gentleman, whose relations with President Cleveland are very intimate, recently said that the President would not only be married in June, but that the wedding trip had been partly arranged. The trip would embrace Buffalo, Canada and the White Mountains and might be even more extensive. While the bridal party were away several changes would be made in the White House for the comfort of Mrs. Cleveland. The gentleman said the President had been decidedly annoyed when the report of his coming marriage was first published, but now he takes the matter more philosophically, and even enjoys some of the paragraphs about respecting the matter.

Forty Years a Sufferer from CATARRH!
Wonderful to Relate.
"FOR FORTY YEARS I have been a victim to CATARRH—the worst of ailments—suffering from EXCRUCIATING PAINS ACROSS MY FOREHEAD AND MY NOSTRILS. The discharge was so offensive that I hesitated to mention it, except for the good it may do some other sufferer. I have spent a young fortune from my hard earnings during my forty years of suffering to obtain relief from the doctors. I have tried patent medicines—every one I could learn of—from the four corners of the earth, with no relief. And AT LAST (47 years ago) have met with a remedy that has cured me entirely—made me a new man. I weighed 120 pounds and now weigh 140. I need bottles of the medicine, and the only relief I have is that being in the humble walk of office, I may not have introduced my name to all catarrh sufferers to whom what has cured me—QUINN'S PIONEER BLOOD PURIFIER."
