THE CONTEMPT CASE.
Argument of C. A. Moore, Esq., of Counsel for Respondents.
We are called upon to-day to witness one of the most unusual and extraordinary specimens of the law in the history of this State, an editor of a public journal has been called upon to answer at the bar of a court of justice, a role to show cause why he shall not be attached for contempt, fined and imprisoned for a publication in his paper. This is the first time the freedom of the press, a time honored privilege, guaranteed by our Bill of Rights, has been questioned in this liberty-loving "old North State," by such a proceeding, since the days when our fathers were subjects of an English crown.

ter pending in court, say in their paper what they please, in a proper and just criticism of any court. They insist that they can, without being responsible for contempt, say anything, just or unjust, which they may desire. They insist that while they may be responsible civilly and criminally for such publication, but they are in a proceeding for contempt.

JONES FOR THE LEGISLATURE.
CATHY FOR CLERK, BAIRD
FOR SHERIFF.
Editors Citizen:—Permit us to say to the people of Buncombe that a very large number of the Democrats of Leicester Township will support Genl. Johnston Jones for re-election to the House, Mr.
J. L. Cathy for Clerk, and A. H. Baird for Sheriff. If these gentlemen are nominated they will poll the very full strength of the party in this section. Let the Democrats of the county unite on them.
MARY DANCORNS.

kept on draught, free at Hampton and Featherston's. It will be brought from

It is no defense to libel that the words were written in jest.
The offense of libel is not committed where the libellous matter is written, but where it is read and circulated, and the court can see that this libel was read and circulated in the presence of the court.

MISS COE'S LECTURE.
All persons interested in the future of our country, and its deliverance from anarchy, crime, social evils, and im-temperance, should go to hear Miss Coe lecture on the new American method of training young children. They will learn how the years of growth and play, can be successfully and delightfully employed in the development of those traits of character which are the foundation of true manhood and womanhood, orderliness, truthfulness, artistic, and mechanical skill. All other virtues may be learned while the mind is so plastic, that impressions once made will never be effaced.
Moral and spiritual lessons may be learned in these schools, which the public vainly essays to make on minds hardened by transgression.
If we love our children, let us improve the golden moments of infancy and early childhood in implanting seeds which will take root and grow, to our present and everlasting delight. If we be happy, as to become with them, possessors of the Life Everlasting.
Miss Coe will speak on the subject of the training of young children at the Presbyterian church this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

We regret that several material typog-

celebrated ball games.
The State Immigration Agent,
Mr. Patrick, left yesterday for Whittier, to see that country, again, and to investigate certain complaints which have been lodged with the department by some parties who had been there. We hope Mr. Patrick will find all satisfactorily and flourishing.

The persons of the respondents have sunk out of sight in view of the importance of the question now to be determined. The dignity of the court itself divulges into insignificance in comparison. The grave question before the court is this: Is the law to be applied to press a solid substantial right, or is it to be the hitherto regarded privilege, a thing existing only in the imagination of the court? For the leading papers of the country contain the news
of the reading world are upon us, waiting to hear the result. To-day the newspapers of the United States generally watch this encroachment upon their hitherto universally conceded rights.
To-day the law is watching to see whether we shall take the first step backwards toward the commission of the press. To-day the world is watching to see whether we shall make the first inroad upon one of the underlying principles of freedom and justice.

DEATH OF MR. B. J. SMITH.
This gentleman, whose illness we recently noted, died yesterday morning about 11 o'clock.
An appropriate obituary by some friend well acquainted with the particulars of his life and character will be furnished us. We will therefore here only briefly refer to both. He was born in Buncombe county about the year 1804, and was therefore in his 82nd or 83rd year. Most of his life was spent in the county of his nativity in quiet, unobtrusive pursuits as farmer, merchant, and, in late years, as landlord of the hotel at Asheville. He was a man of good acquirement and of strong clear judgment, and so strongly recognized by his fellow countrymen that he was entrusted to represent them in the very important convention of 1855, surviving for fifty-one years an occasion which has become eminently historical. For the last two years he has been a resident of Asheville, and died at the residence of his wife.

Necessarily less variety than usual in this issue by which we stand on the safe side.
The danger of drought we hope has passed. Good showers seem to be general within the past few days.
A number of bids were received by the Mayor yesterday for the city bonds.
Capt. C. M. McLeod left yesterday for New York on an important business trip.
In speaking of the departure of the Rev. Mr. Blackwood and family for Chapel Hill, the name was inadvertently printed Blackwell.
Mr. John W. Beeson, of Cotton Plant, Ark., is here stopping for the season with his sister Mrs. Sarah A.
West on Water street.
Rev. R. A. Edwards, rector of a prominent church of Philadelphia, will preach in the Episcopal Church of this place to-day at 11 o'clock.
Mr. Thomas A. Jones, Attorney at Law, makes an important announcement. It is no less than that he has money to lend. See his notice.
The Asheville and Spartanburg road is filling its destiny. The Southern people have discovered how convenient it is; and come over it in crowds. The incoming trains are filled every day.
Remember that Messrs. Atkinson and Cooke, Land Agents, will sell at auction on Monday, twelve valuable city lots, less than two hundred feet from the public square. It is a rare chance for a fine bargain.
We regret that several material typographic errors occurred yesterday, in the publication of communication from Dr. Sorviele. As the editorial corps of the Citizen was in the hands of the court at a time when "proof" is corrected, allowance will be made for the mistake.
The night of the 10th of August, the anniversary of the burning of the hotel at Haywood White Sulphur Springs will be celebrated by a grand dress ball. A band of Cherokee Indians will be present that day and will play one of their celebrated ball games.
The State Immigration Agent,
had been there. We hope Mr. Patrick will find all satisfactorily and
flourishing.

sunk out of sight in view of the importance of the question now to be deter-
papers of the United States generally
hitherto universally conceded rights.
inroad upon one of the underlying principles of freedom and justice.

For the Asheville Citizen.
MISS COE'S LECTURE.
be successfully and delightfully employ-
be learned while the mind is so plastic,
be effaced.
hardened by transgression.
of the Life Everlasting.
5 o'clock.

DEATH OF MR. B. J. SMITH.
This gentleman, whose illness we re-
about 11 o'clock.
An appropriate obituary by some
furnished us. We will therefore here only
Buncombe county about the year 1804,
and was therefore in his 82nd or 83rd
his wife.
