THE STREET RAILWAY.

Some months ago we announced with great satisfaction that Asheville was to have a street railway. The charter had been granted by the Legislature, and under it a company had been formed and the capital stock subscribed. It was exactly what Asheville wanted and also needed. It is a city of distances. The railroad depot is a mile and a half from the court house and when the court house is reached it is still a mile or more to the dwellings beyond. The street railway was to provide ready, cheap and pleasant mode of transportation for those who did not choose to walk or could not afford the charges for carriage hire; and was also expected to perform important functions in relation to traffic.

All was promising well, when suddenly all were astounded by the announcement that the Board of Aldermen had rescinded their grant to the company and denied the powers and privileges once given and extended.

There was nothing to do but watch and wait for the countervailing action of those interested in the scheme. No others could do more in the matter, and it was useless to attempt to influence public opinion because in a question solely at issue between the city authorities and the street railway company, that public opinion had no place for action.

The Board has recently passed another ordinance, which while it affects to concede privileges granted, as in fact chokes the project to death. This is the view taken in the correspondence published in this issue by the parties in New York prepared and anxious to do so, as forcing their aid upon an unwilling people.

Some of these restrictions are as follows: The public can judge how fatal they are, and apparently intended to be. One is "the streets through which the railway is to be run are to be selected by the Aldermen." The interests of the public and of the company demand that those streets shall be the great thoroughfares, where convenience to the large body of the public and the profit of the corporators are best subserved. Who does not foresee that a power hostile to the movement will select such by-ways or side streets as would make the construction of the road a useless waste of money, and therefore it would not be built, so controlled.

Again the Board reserves to itself the right to impose and exact fines on its construction of violations of law, a claim liable to be arbitrarily abused therefore not voluntarily recognized.

Again the Board claims to suspend the running of cars at its own will thus neutralizing the ability of the company to fill its contracts with the public, subjecting it to the capricious will of the public authorities, and destroying the liberties granted to it under its charter.

Again, the Board arrogates to itself the right to fix and regulate fares, thus interfering with a vested right, and erecting itself into a high commission.

Again, the Board claims the right to select the engineer, the exercise of which power denies to the Company one of the chief privileges of corporate body, the right to select and control its own servants.

Again, the Board not only proposes to fix a rate of taxation which may be ruinously high, coupling this proposition with the claim of threat to increase the rate at its will, pleasure or caprice.

We have glanced at these few points as introductory to the communications following; and also to indicate to the Board that their action on this matter is viewed with a jealous watchfulness that will not permit their abuse of a public trust or their denial of a public demand.

Editors CITIZEN:—You will please publish the following correspondence, for the information of the public. Mr. Watkins is either in the city now, or at the Moore Springs in Madison county. Will spend some time here, before he returns North and can be seen by the Mayor and Board or any of the public and speak for himself to them with reference to the street railway enterprise which I projected for this city and for the construction of which he agreed to furnish the money; and he will furnish it if he can get anything like reasonable privileges from the city authorities in the matter of right of way, grants, etc. Very respectfully, C. M. McLOUD.

COLLEMAN HOUSE, NEW YORK CITY, Sept. 20, 1886.

W. E. WATKINS, Esq., Astor House, City.

Dear Sir:—Enclosed I hand you a copy of an ordinance with reference to the Asheville Street Railway which has been prepared by our Mayor, and which I am informed will be formally ratified by his Board.

Though somewhat restrictive in its features, I still think we can afford to begin operations, trusting to the liberal spirit of our people as heretofore manifested on all occasions when the improvement of our city was at stake.

Besides, I am advised that under the former liberal grant of privileges, conferred upon us by a previous Board, and which the present Board undertook to revoke, we acquired a vested right which could not be impaired by subsequent action; and so confident am I in this opinion, that I here pledge you in my own behalf as President of the company and majority stockholder of the same, as well as on behalf of Mr. James P. Sawyer, President of the Bank of Asheville, J. E. Rankin, Vice President of same bank, M. E. Carter, a leading lawyer of the State, G. M. Roberts, one of our best citizens and former postmaster of our city, the Directors of the Street Railway Company, and Capt. Thos. W. Patton, Secretary and Treasurer of our Street Railway Company, that, in the event you will furnish the money for the building of the road under the arrangement heretofore made with you, we will bear the expenses of all litigation that may arise and become necessary to establish and maintain our right under our legislative charter and the privileges conferred by a former board as before stated.

It is a scheme I have worked at for years and in which I have expended several hundred dollars, having the matter always near at heart and being particularly desirous of making a success of it. I am therefore willing to take almost any reasonable risk in order to secure the object for which I have so long labored.

Please give the matter a careful examination and let me have your reply.

I can refer you to the banks of the city of Asheville, and also the Hanover National and First National of this city, for my standing at home.

Yours Very Respectfully, C. M. McLOUD.

ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK CITY, Sept. 21, 1886.

CAPT. O. M. McLOUD, Coleman House, City.

My Dear Sir:—I have before me your letter of yesterday together with copy of recent ordinance relating to Street Railway Co. I note all you have to say with reference to the legal points involved and your willingness to stand between me and any possible loss—but were I to undertake to carry this matter through against the evident wishes of your Mayor and Board of Aldermen it would certainly result in a great loss of time, which to me means money. I herewith return the ordinance to you with the objectionable passages marked and without great modification of which no sane person would put his money in such an enterprise. While visiting your enterprising town in November last and again in August of this year I somehow got the impression from talks with some of your leading citizens that your people would welcome Northern capital. I must say this is "welcome" with a vengeance. I am somewhat interested in this class of property here and certainly shall have to decline having anything to do with a railway in a town where the restrictions placed are so much more burdensome than in places near at hand. If your people are not ripe for this thing, and it is presumable they are not, judging from the action of their representatives—you had better let the matter drop as it is certain that under the existing circumstances it will be impossible to get capital here to put into an enterprise so unfriendly.

Very Truly, W. E. WATKINS.

Just What They All Say. Hon. D. H. Hayes, of Salem, Ill., says: "I use Dr. Bosanko's cough and Lung Syrup in my family with the most satisfactory results, in all cases of coughs, colds and croup, and recommend it in particular for the little ones. Sample bottle free at H. H. Lyons, dawl."

PEARSON AND THE BLACK LOUD.

Not alone in Buncombe county is the fight against the county government system raging. In Wake county, the Metropolitan county of the State, the fight for the repeal of the system has begun in good earnest. It was opened for this campaign in the Republican Anti-Stock Law Wake County Convention held in Raleigh September 21st. White Republicans, colored Republicans, and Anti-Stock Law Democrats, composed that meeting, these various political elements being there fused together in one common, indistinguishable mass.

The proportion of colored delegates was the largest ever known in a county convention there. Out of the ninety-three delegates present, only nineteen were white. Great Africa! Such is the complexion of the political body that demands the repeal of the county government system! Think of it white men of the west!

The number of negro speakers was very large; they are said to have made five-sixths of the speeches. One of them, James Harris, said he thought the matter of county nominations trivial, and that the fight in the Legislature would be on the county government question, beside which, he said, "all other matters faded into insignificance." The county government system, established by the Democratic party after the great victory of 1875, was denounced by these colored gentlemen, and their white allies, as "odious," "infamous!"

To show the drift of this movement, a negro was nominated for the House, put in nomination by a white man.

The platform adopted demands the repeal of the county government system and the stock law, somewhat after the manner of the Pearson-Baird platform.

It is perfectly evident that the negroes of North Carolina are seizing on the no-fence question to ride into power; to capture the Legislature, and to dominate in the East over the white race as they did in 1863-97. They openly boast that they will carry Wake county by 1000 majority. They can only do this by the help of white men who are false to their own blood and lineage.

Let the white men of the west stand shoulder to shoulder in future, as they have in the past, first against and every attempt to repeal the rule over our brethren in the eastern counties!

Another Candidate in the Field—S. G. WELDON—Unanimously Nominated BY THE LADIES. After years of ripe acquaintance, having acted with his part in the role of Telegraphy, and the Culinary Art, we pronounce SAM WELDON perfect. Of all that it produces, in the way of good cuisine. We endorse his FRUIT and pound CAKE, His sponge CAKE and his TWING. As the crozier in the city. Upon which we've did dine, His bread is like a Snowflake, Crowned with a crust of brown, Sweet as the Southern Zephyr, Which fans the Elder down. Of small cakes his pound wafer, And ground almonds, MACARONS Would adorn a Queen's table. At morning, eve or noon, And of all his great variety Of every style and make, The cheaper for our Housewives To buy from him than bake.

If our tobacco users On grief would place a bar, Let them smoke "KANGAROO," "Aristocrat" and "ORIENTAL" CIGAR. Let them chew "CALIFORNIA" tobacco, And choose "SOUTHERN" Twist, The best ten cent tobacco That sun has ever kissed.

So SAM WELDON is our candidate. With standing nomination, And our votes for him will'er be cast In joyful acclamation, He's not up for a season, To fall and run away, But we'll have him with us always, For he has come to stay. MANY LADIES.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

Remembering that the Nation is United in the National A Republic of Impassioned.

There is no need in disguising the fact that we as people are growing weaker every day. Men and women who were formerly robust are becoming less strong and less active. An unaccountable feeling of lassitude, an morbid appetite, bad breath, less vigor, occasional headaches, and above all inability to sleep well and rest well—all these and many more symptoms are the sure indications of absolute physical breaking down. It does not come at once; it is often unnoted until it becomes too late to arrest its course. Then insomnia and nervous debility set in, followed by softening of the brain, insanity or death. This is an exceedingly important subject and demands the most earnest and careful attention. But what causes this terrible state of affairs? Various things. The habits of life; the occupation of business, innumerable causes. The nerve force becomes lost, the energy gone and disease and death set in. The presence of these evils being apparent the great vital question for "How can they be avoided or being upon us, how driven away?" By toning the system. By building up where disease is tearing down. But how? By using a pure, gentle, yet efficient medicine for the purpose nothing equals or has ever equaled Volina Cordial. This wonderful compound is fast making a revolution in the health and spirits of the community and is unquestionably in the front rank of modern medicines. It is a purely vegetable preparation, pleasant to the taste and wonderful in its results. It is so potent that we advise any definite course of action, but the need of the hour is so great; its danger so imminent and the relief so easy that we cannot refrain from directing careful attention to these matters and urge the importance of avoiding impending disaster at once.

A well-known public man at Washington, in conversation with the writer on this subject said: "Government statistics show a tremendous falling off in the vital force of the nation and a special increase of those diseases arising from nervous exhaustion. Whatever its causes may be the fact remains that the vitality of the country is being prostrated and increasing, and they must be checked if we are to hope for long life or health as a people."
