NO MORE BLACK EYES.

Pittsburg Doctor Finds a Way to Con-"I have treated," said the doctor, "as many as twenty-five persons recently for this distressing affliction. All of them were anxious, of course, to get rid of the signs of the conflict, and in one or two cases it was of vital importance that the blackness of the bruise should be obliterated at once. That set me to thinking, and as I possessed a liking for painting in oils I called in my knowlshow you practically what, as a result, my treatment is." Then the doctor brought out a little wooden box full of oil-color tubes. Out of scores of tubes he selected four. They contained silver white, burnt umber, Naples yellow, and vermillion. From each tube he squeezed out a little paint upon the back of his left hand.

"I find," he said, "that the back of my hand is the best palet I can have for this work. Every hand has, especially when it is partially sunburnt, a number of distinct tones of color, and I find they assist me in forming my tints for laying on the bruised portion of the face of my

First he took, as he proceeded to demonstrate his process, a little from the dab of burnt umber and spread it over a two-inch section of his hand. This, he said, was the ground he found it best to use. Upon this dark ground he laid a touch of vermillion, then a little white and finally a mere suggestion of yellow. A deliciously soft feminine flesh tint was the result after he had combined the colors with his fore-finger. With a little more of the burnt umber he made the complexion of the flesh assume a ripe brunette tinge, and then with the admixture of some of the white paint' reversed it to a light blonde.

"I can, with these four simple colors," he said, "catch the exact shade of any face. I have tried it often enough now to be sure."

There was, however, a certain unnatural gloss over the painted flesh which the reporter noticed. This, the doctor stated, could be removed by lightly sprinkling over the surface powdered magnesia and then removing it gently with a brush.

And this is the process which has saved many a man from the disgrace of a black eye before his friends and relations. It may be added that the doctor who has achieved this triumph of mind over matter has found that ordinary oil paints are preferable for this particular use to the grease paints which are commonly used by actors in their make-up for the stage.

It would appear possible that so desirable a device had at least one drawback, and the doctor was asked if the painting of a blackened eye in the way described was not likely to retard nature's healing process. The doctor replied: "My experience has been that the tinting of the flesh with lead paints really assists nature. I have found that the eyes which I have painted have re-covered faster than those I have not. The lead certainly does no harm. Another curious fact is that not every perthink that the person who does the artist who knows how to produce a flesh tint. The burnt umber, I have discovered, makes the best groundwork upon which to produce the lighter effects

"There are little depressions often enough in the skin of the face, and these I can imitate by dabbing the coat of paint with a dry brush. If there are prominent veins under the patient's eyes, a little blue laid on delicately in fine lines will bring them out satisfactorily. I have encountered all sorts of complexions, but never one yet that baffled me. My friends may rely upon me to help them conceal their battle marks-and I'll paint them only for love, too-but the world at large must go about with its eyes blackened until doctors in general learn how to paint." -Pittsburg Dispatch.

To Make a Good Profile. But few heads make a handsome profile. Why? Because to make a good profile a man must have a prominent or projecting chin. A straight or aquiline nose is essential in taking a good picture. The majority of men take better side face than full. When the full face of a man is taken it doesn't bring out the lineaments so well. Of all people, women are the hardest to photograph, Babies and young children are sometimes difficult to take, but they are nothing compared to some women. They will, in the first place, take half an hour or more to primp and make themselve pretty. Next they will insist on making their own pose, which usually is not adaptable to photographing. Taken in all, women are troublesome, but they are the photographer's best customers. If the public would but know it, they would get better pictures did they leave the matter of posing in the hands of the photographer - Photographer in Brooks their goods to New York City.

The case was tried in several Illinois courts with varying results, until finally the Supreme Court of the State held that this discrimination was in violation of State laws, and rendered judgment against the railroad company. The decision of the Supreme Court to-day is in effect that the State law regulating freight charges cannot apply to inter-State traffic, as such application would trench upon the constitutional powers of Congress, and be a damage of the freedom of the freedom of the Congress, and be a damage of the freedom of the Congress, and be a damage of the freedom of the Congress, and be a damage of the freedom of the Congress, and be a damage of the freedom of the Congress, and be a damage of the freedom of the Congress, and be a damage of the freedom of the Congress, and the freedom of the Congress, and the freedom of the Congress and th aging restriction of the freedom of traffic. Chief Justice Waite, Justices Gray and Bradley dissent from the opinion of the court, holding that Congress, not having legislated to prevent unjust discrimination in railroad charges, the State of Illinois has the power to do so. The dissenting judges think the effect of the present decision of the court will be to surrender and give over the just powers of the States to the railroad corporations which they have created and price with the states.
