

ASHEVILLE CITIZEN.

H. M. FURMAN, JORDAN STONE, J. D. CAMERON, Editors.

SATURDAY MORNING, DEC. 4, 1886.

OUR WIVES AND DAUGHTERS SHALL BE PROTECTED.

This was the legend appended to the carcass of a negro hung the other day at Florence, S. C., for attempted violence upon a respectable young white woman.

In the face of such hideous dangers the suggestion of legal courses in relation to the offenders is absurd. To the dishonor of the law it must be said that its conclusions are uncertain-dilatory always.

Against the wandering brute society must arm itself, and turn with promptest vengeance to dispatch with remorseless vengeance the gross polluters of the white man's home.

Only for these offenses should law abdicate its duties. For such offenses the law should fold its arms, and complacently stand by and see the sentences of the natural law swiftly put in execution.

BRITISH MORALITY.

We are glad to find no particulars of the dirty divorce trial between Lord and Lady Campbell in the Southern papers.

We shall hope for the maintenance of this distinction; if to be changed, to see the Northern press drawn closer to our standard.

The trial now before the world shames the name of Lord and Lady. It drags down from its high estate the title once presumed to cover all that was good and great.

Both Lord and Lady Campbell, nobles, living within the shadow of the court, the bright exemplars of manners and of fashion, the envied models of snobbish imitation, prove themselves when brought to human level and stripped of the adventitious aids of rank, to be in manners savage as the beasts, in morals vile as disgrace the lowest; and as teaching to mankind how base and false is the glitter of a long endured nobility.

Yet with British morals in high places so degraded, we find the strongest growth in the United States of that contemptible, unmanly Anglomania; as if the rapid growth of native wealth and luxury would not bring degeneration with speed sufficient without anticipating the calamity by importing the full blown evils of British vice and weakness.

Almost Raised from the Dead. Thomas Johnson writes us that recent exposure gave him a terrible cold, the cold a bad cough, and the cough gave him what everybody thought to be consumption.

The Petersburg, Ind. appeal, in supporting the Blair Bill, concludes its article.

In other words, the federal government made citizens of slaves, and ought now to aid in the work of qualifying those slaves to be citizens.

If the federal government and everybody else would just let the negroes alone, and not constantly hold out legislative and other hopes he would soon adjust himself to his new condition, and would learn to rely upon his own efforts.
