The only drawback was the bright moonlight, but that only partially dimmed the splendor of the rockets, the Roman candles, double headers, serpents, &c., and the effect of the brilliant flashes on the snow covered to t ground was something marvellously beautiful. Unfortunately we can only speak from hearsay, and cannot write of the occasion descriptively.

In clearing the side walks immense piles of snow have been gathered along the whole line of Main street and a part of Patton Avenue. These piles are six of Patton Avenue. These piles are six to eight feet high and eight to ten wide, and meeting from each side of the streat mirrow the carriage way to a very cramped compass. If the snow is to remain on the ground unchanged, indefinitely, as the court seemed to think when it adjourned inc die, a most serious permanent inconvenience will arise. Novelty of the situation might justify for a few days the tolerance of these snowy masses. But they cannot be allowed to stay forever. Therefore we suggest their removal.
