STATE NEWS.

Says the Warrenton Gazette: If we could have two supreme courts, one in Asheville, it would be a great convenience to the court, lawyers and suitors, and the saving in the way of expense would more than pay for the additional court. Why not have two courts, one in Raleigh and the other in Asheville, each with exclusive jurisdiction in prescribed territory? This would facilitate the business before the court at least one hundred per cent.

Says the News-Observer: It is probable that a civil service examination will be held in this city, about the 20 inst. for applicants for positions in the departments at Washington City.—Col. J. W. Cunningham.

THE "CAIN."

THE OBEROKEE IN-CHO BELIEVES HE IS FLECTED AT THE ALMIGHTY FOR

Today a letter from the OBEROKEE IN-CHO BELIEVES HE IS FLECTED AT THE ALMIGHTY FOR any quantity of silver. By turn he was a literary man, and had an accomplished education, and, perhaps, the finest library in Western Carolina. He was said to have been a good man. We wish we could say as much for the mother. Suffice it to say she was not a good woman. When the mother was asked, "What party was swept away—everything he possessed, and he died just before the surrender, leaving his wife and two little sons to battle their way in the world?"

They were about eight and ten years of age when their father died, and with proper care and training, they would have undoubtedly made good and useful citizens; but with such a mother, we will ask, what better could have been expected of them? She taught them to hate everybody, and that everybody was their enemy. She made them go armed, and when they were out for a walk, she would carry concealed weapons, she said the fine imposed, bought him a pair of pistols and told him to wear them buckled around his waist, and to use them when he thought proper.

They—Henry and Edward—grew up to be young men, and at the time the crime was committed, they were about 28 and 30 years old, respectively.

Jealousy on both sides and a woman was the cause of the crime.

Henry had loaned his brother Edward six dollars or more, and often he had cap a stray look at his brother, always put off with some trifling excuse.

He went over to see his brother about it—they were living on the same farm, but not in the same house—and he was heard to remark before he left the house, "that he would have his money or blood, and he got blood!"

They met in front of their mother's house, and were standing within ten feet of each other, and Henry, seeing them standing there quarreling, walked out of the house and stood between them—the conversation that took place between them was never known.

Suddenly, Henry drew his pistol, and Edward, seeing the pistol, drew his, and they both fired, and Henry's bullet struck Edward in the head, and he fell dead.

As stated above the mother was standing between them, and had her right hand up to her head, putting under her arm a bundle of clothes, and the bullet fired the ball took off the forehead of her right hand—barely missing her temple.

Both were married men and had families.

Henry Mortimer was arrested, tried and acquitted. His mother being the only witness in the case.

And now comes the strangest part of this story—stranger than fiction.

Henry Mortimer was a "Modern Cain." He had not a hair on his head from the crown of his head to the soles of his feet. We have seen and talked with him, and knuckling his hair—only he is about six and a half feet high; very stout; converses splendidly, although somewhat reticent in his manner at first appearance.

Shortly after he was acquitted, and just after he returned, he was seen between 10 and 12 o'clock, he was visited by his dead brother. He could see and hear him, but he himself could not move or speak. He lay as if dead in a passive state. He had beautiful hair, very long; conversed splendidly, although somewhat reticent in his manner at first appearance.

He is a wanderer on the earth, and travels at night. He is the greatest curiosity that we have ever seen. He has been seen by many people, and he is now in the hands of Messrs. J. S. Meroney and W. G. Payne, who have started out to exhibit this "Modern Cain," as two of our most worthy citizens—Mr. Payne being an exhibitor of our county, and do anything to the good people wherever they may go. It is no humbug, but a fact.

THE ENTERTAINMENT TUESDAY NIGHT.

The entertainment given at the Court house Tuesday night for the benefit of the Christian church of this place proved a most agreeable and most profitable one. The programme of the evening was both well arranged and well executed. The evening was good throughout, that of Miss Kelly, of the Female College, in the rendition of "Good-bye," winning marked applause. We are glad the receipts of the evening, from both the entertainment and the supper which preceded it, were good, proving highly satisfactory to all concerned.

THE ENTERTAINMENT TUESDAY NIGHT.

Our contemporary the Raleigh News-Observer has recently had a tempting offer—we had the same—which it declined with thanks. An advertising agent offered a celebrated hipless corset, worth a few dollars, for a thirty dollar advertisement. Our young Raleigh friends say: "Now this office has a wild desire to accept that proposition, but sees no way in which it can be done with profit, because—1st, no member of the editorial staff wears corsets; 2nd, no member of the staff is married; and therefore the corset could not with propriety be disposed of; 3rd, no member can get it arried, every one having tried it, and finding it impossible to do so, and signally failed in every instance. These being the circumstances, the advertising agent is informed that this petition is declined with regret."

W. D. Hoyt & Co., Wholesale and Retail Druggists of Rome, Ga., say: We have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery, Electric Bitters and Bucklen's Arnica Salve for two years. Have never had a bad remedy that sells as well or gives such universal satisfaction. There have been some wonderful cures effected by our medicines in this city. Several cases of pronounced consumption have been entirely cured by use of a few bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery, taken in connection with Electric Bitters. We guarantee them always. Sold by H. H. Lyons.
