

Pimples, Boils,

And Carbuncles result from a debilitated, impoverished, or impure condition of the blood. Ayer's Sarsaparilla purifies and cures these eruptions and restores the system, by removing their cause, the only effectual way of treating them.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla has prevented the usual course of Boils, which have pained and distressed me every season for several years.—G. Scales, Fairville, Mich.

I was badly troubled with Pimples on the face, also with a discoloration of the skin, which showed itself in ugly dark patches. No external treatment did more than temporary good. Ayer's Sarsaparilla effected

A Perfect Cure, and I have not been troubled since.—T. W. Boddy, River St., Lowell, Mass.

I was troubled with Boils, and my health was much impaired. I began using Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, in due time, the eruptions all disappeared, and my health was completely restored.—John R. Elkins, Editor Stanley Observer, Albemarle, N. C.

I was troubled, for a long time, with a humor which appeared in the form of ugly Pimples and Blisters. Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured me. I consider it the best blood purifier in the world.—Charles H. Smith, North Graysbury, Va.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists. Ask for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and do not be persuaded to take any other.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

A VERY DEADLY NEEDLE.

Hypodermic Injections Which Frequently Cause Fatal Results. The drinking and smoking of laudanum and opium are not unknown vices in New York, any physician will affirm. But there is a practice which is even more deleterious—the use of the hypodermic syringe, which is becoming the growth of this city.

It is only necessary to take the testimony of druggists and dealers in surgical instruments. The fact is, it has become a habit with which social reformers must deal.

A reporter talked the other day with a prominent physician upon this topic. "Many persons," he said, "are unaware that the use of the hypodermic syringe is always attended with danger of instant death. The cause of this danger is not well understood, but the fatal accidents that have been recorded were not due to the taking of larger doses than usual by mistake, nor to the cumulative effects of the drug. Cases have occurred in which persons have taken large doses for months without producing a single unpleasant symptom, and have died in a few minutes from the effects of a quarter of the habitual quantity taken in the usual manner and at the regular hour."

"There is danger of fatality against which no vigilance can guard. The symptoms are not always so severe as to produce such an untimely result. They occur about once in 200 administrations, and prove fatal at least once in ten. That is to say, a man who uses the hypodermic syringe at the rate of ten punctures a day, which is a very moderate average, should encounter the symptoms and their attendant danger of death once in every ten days on the average, and the probability is that they will prove more frequent if the habit is formed. The danger that he may be found dead in the morning is a real one with the habit of the hypodermic syringe. The moment involves a corner's inquest, and the imputation of suicide."—New York Mail and Express.

Paris' Tenement Population. In Paris the tenement population increased from 143,671 persons in 1870 to 243,564 in 1882. One block, containing 1,500 persons, has no water supply whatever. The usual drainage in such buildings is through chutes leading from different floors into a hoghead in the cellar, which is emptied as occasion requires.

According to M. Nadou, there are 315,270 houses in France without any window whatever, light and air being admitted through a hole in the door, which has to be stopped in wet or cold weather. In Paris, about 60,000 tenements have been built with by the authorities under the act of 1850, there are some 4,000 persons living in single rooms without means of warming, and half as many others occupy rooms with no opening for light and air. Nearly 30,000 habitations consist of a single room only. This overcrowding is partly the result of the destruction of small buildings to make room for costly apartment houses. A municipal commission recently appointed in Paris proposes that cheap tenements should be built on unoccupied sites belonging to the city.—New York Journal.

COINS OF THE CONFEDERACY. A correspondent asks if there were any coins made by the southern Confederacy. I answer yes, however much it may have been denied. There were four silver half dollars coined, and no more. The difficulty of obtaining bullion forced the mint to close April 30, 1861. One is owned by the Biella, of the Louisiana university, and another is in the possession of Dr. Ames, of New Orleans. I do not know where the other two are. Copies may have since been struck from the same die.

On the reverse of the coin is a representation of the Goddess of Liberty surrounded by thirteen stars, denoting the thirteen states from which the Confederacy sprung, and the lower rim of the figure 1861. On the reverse there is a shield with seven stars, representing the seceding states; above the shield is a liberty cap, and around it are the initials of copper, iron, lead, tin, zinc, and cotton, and "Confederate States of America."—"Observer" in Philadelphia Call.

Some Senatorial Peculiarities. When Gen. Sam Houston, of Texas, was in the senate of the United States the door-keeper always placed half a dozen small sticks of white pine to be placed on his desk every morning. When the senator would come in he would first sharpen his knife on a bone, which he kept in the drawer of his desk, and then while one of these pieces of pine, sometimes into a grotesque shape, and then simply cut it into strips or chips. When one piece was finished he would take another, and he generally used five a day. Mr. Reagan tears a paper from one of the public documents in his desk, and when he has several of these he tears them transversely into small squares, which are scattered all about him. Then he will break small pieces off his lip and take another piece, which in turn will be torn up into litter.—Ben: Perley Poore.

How Crackle Glass is Made. Crackle glass is still very fashionable. The crackled appearance is produced by covering the outside of the glass piece to be crackled with a stratum of flux, or fusible glass, mixed with fragments of glass. In the furnace it is placed in a muffle, or open furnace, where it is strongly heated. As soon as the flux melts, and the glass itself has become red hot, it is removed from the furnace and rapidly cooled. The flux or fusible glass under this treatment cracks and splits, leaving innumerable fine lines of fracture all over its surface, having the appearance of snow or irregular crystals, which cross and intersect each other in every direction, producing striking and beautiful effects when the light falls upon its surface.—Cass: Bells in Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Fortunate Collector. A fortunate New Yorker who has made money in a specialty is Charles L. Bissman, who began in 1870 to collect photographs of prominent persons in social, religious, theatrical and public life. The first collection which hung in his show window comprised five photographs. Today he has more than 70,000, the collection being worth between $50,000 and $75,000. The market value of the photographs ranges from twenty-five cents to $10 each. As an instance of the extensive variety, it may be noted that he has 800 different poses of Ellen Terry and more than 250 of Mrs. Langtry.—New York Tribune.

A Mexican Door Key. Did you ever see a Mexican door key? It is a very appropriate looking article, with which to lock doors on. It is made of heavy iron and is about ten inches long. Being too large for the pocket, it is usually carried on a chain at the waist.—San Francisco Chronicle.

CHARLOTTE Female Institute. No Institute for young ladies in the South has advantages superior to those offered here in every department—Collegiate, Art and Music. The building is lighted with gas, and is supplied with all the modern conveniences. It has hot and cold water baths, and first-class appointments as a boarding school in every respect.
