A GOSLIN STILL

The Editor of the Winston Republican in commenting upon Senator Vance's criticism upon Mr. Cleveland says:

"In North Carolina the Democratic press of the State, except the editors of such as are holding post-office appointments, in common with the politicians are in accord with their favorite Senator." "Zeb Vance, rather than the President The President, by means of the bread and butter bribe, will doubtless be able to control the delegation to the National Convention of his party, not only in this State but throughout the whole country, and thereby the nomination, but the people do not support him. Hence we say Mr. Cleveland must go."

Out of about one hundred democratic editors in the State but two or three that we can recall have received any of the National "bread and butter." Not more than that number, as we are apprised, oppose Mr. Cleveland. And the people and the democratic press will be found to be nearly unanimous in support of Mr. Cleveland's re-election. "Hence we say Mr. Cleveland must go"—back to the White House for another four years' term.

SPOONS.

"Mr. Richmond Pearson is mentioned as a probable candidate for Governor next year in opposition to the Bourbon nominee. The record made by Mr. Pearson during the recent session of the Legislature has made him very strong with the people, and the exposure of the crookedness in connection with the election of magistrates is well calculated to increase his strength. For whatever office he may be a candidate for next year, Buncombe county will give Richmond Pearson not less than two thousand majority.—Raleigh Signal.

Upon which the Tarboro Southern thus expresses itself, and felicitates the Signal:

"Pearson he only to say the word and the radicals will set up a yell for him, for there never was a radical who was not for Revenue, and Pearson has a bar!"

In his contest for the legislature last year he tapped it slightly, and in December when the radical officers elect were looking for him to go on their bands, Richmond laid left the field for New York where he had made a silver spoon for every Buncombe county voter who cast his ballot for the new convert to radicalism. He even had the voter's name engraved on the spoon. The remembrance of this cannot fail to make every radical spoony on Richmond.

The pleasure of being born with a silver spoon in the mouth is as nothing, compared to voting with a silver spoon with your name hand-somely engraved thereon in prospectu.

We believe the Signal; as long as Pearson's spoons hold out he will be able to dish up a big vote in Buncombe."

THE LOTTERY LAW.

The late Legislature plunged without much consideration, into one of those measures which are in their character reformatory but which express the ideas of fanaticism rather than those of morality. There are many offences known to the law that are classed as mala in se, for the repression of which the common judgment of mankind concurs. These are embraced not only in the decalogue, but they include the action of human nature when it is subjected to the rule of society; common safety demands absolute punitive control over them. There is another class, the sport or caprice of legislation. In one stage of legislation, certain acts are not only lawful, they are commendable. The South Sea and the Mississippi schemes carried with them the enthusiasm not only of the court, but of the clergy. They were wrong only in their failure. There was nothing inherently wrong in these; and accordingly we find, until the assertion of a certain ascetic principle, that the church did not disdain, much less condemn, the resort to lottery enterprises to advance its plans for the propagation of churches or for the propagation of the gospel among the heathen. It used a simple principle of human nature to obtain by appeal to interest what could not always be got by plain demand on the pocket. So in the organization of schools no appeal was so effective as that made through the lottery ambiguity. And when it came to public enterprises, the lottery plan was the one most sure to catch the popular cooperation.

Lotteries never become offensive until the growth of that sentiment which busied itself with the care of private affairs and individual concerns. There grew up the spirit which was the outgrowth of plarantate virtue—the domination of the idea "I thank Thee Lord that I am not as other men are." Then the lives of all men were to be shaped to that model, a procrustean bed upon which all were to be laid, to be stretched, or to be lopped, according as they exceeded or fell short of the prescribed rule. Temperance took its growth in this, to be forced up to the opinions of those who directed its movements regardless of the human temper; to be enforced by the rigid inflexibility of legislation which looked only to the length of the bed on which the victim was laid. And so with the lottery business which is based upon the same idea.

We do not think the question of morality comes into account. The essential point is that of personal and public liberty. "That government is the best which governs the least." The interposition of the law is the least offensive when it is the least obtrusive.

And that series or system of laws which takes its point from the virus of fanaticism is the one to be resisted as most repugnant to the temper of human mind enlisted in the preservation of the sacred principles of human liberty. Society exacts some surrenders. Liberty is thus secured. But slavery comes in when society demands the sacrifice of the whole. In medio tutissimus ibis.

That earthquake in Vermont the other day was no doubt produced by that fearful explosion of democratic dynamite in the neighboring State of Rhode Island, which blew up the republican party of that little State.

The Anarchists do not relish Mr. Powdery's plain talk at Harrisburg. They begin to suspect that they had not captured the workingmen movement, after all. On the other hand, the self-respecting Knights of Labor are studying ways and means for ridding their order of the outlaws who have been trailing in its van and doing them the grossest injustice in the opinions of their fellow-citizens.—Washington Star.

The whole interest in the next division of the Coercion bill centres in the action of the Unionist Liberals. Whether the manifestations of public opinion during the week will bring them back to their duty remains to be seen, but in any event Ireland will be the gainer, for the Irish cause is assured of the support more conclusively than ever of English Liberals until the battle for Home Rule is won.—Philadelphia Times.

The Hon. Wm. D. Kelly, of Philadelphia, is now in Anniston, Ala. He has been in Florida most of the time since the adjournment of Congress. Judge Kelly predicts that the census of 1890 will show Florida to be pre-eminently the cane sugar and rice-growing State of the Union, and that she will stand high as a grower of tobacco. He regards Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee as marvellously endowed States, and anticipates a continued rapid development of their industries.

Bishop Lee of Delaware, presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, died, Tuesday, at his home in Washington. His death leaves Bishop Williams of Connecticut, presiding bishop.

Another Suicide. At Rocky Valley, in an adjoining county, there was buried last week a prominent man who might be yet an ornament to society, had he not neglected the advice of his friends to such an extent that he had to be laid to rest by his own wish. Mr. Jones had at first a slight cold, neglected, it became serious. His friends advised the great Cough Remedy, Symphix. He refused every appeal by his friends. As a natural result he grew worse and died. Ye that are suffering with coughs and colds beware that you do not lay yourself liable to the same charge and fly a premature grave, but take Symphix at once and live.

STATE NEWS.

J. P. Caldwell of the Statesville Landmark still contests the law of the Legislature proscribing lottery advertisements. He still publishes them, and retained counsel to defend his rights.

The late legislature made an appropriation to publish the history of the North Carolina troops in the late war, written by Col. John A. Sloan. Gen. Roberts and Col. Saunders have supervision of the work. We hope they will print it just as Col. wrote it. It will be out during the year.

Lenoir Topic: Anybody who thinks that Granite—formerly Lovelady—is in the woods will find himself mistaken by going there. There are three churches, the newest, the Methodist, being quite a pretty modern building, newly painted; a handsome Academy, several large storehouses and a number of pretty dwellings.

Some weeks ago a member of the Legislature from Tyrrell county denied the statement that the tides there had ruled lower since the earthquake of August 31st last; or, in other words, that the land had risen. It is now positively asserted that this is the case. Gum-Neck creek is now nearly dry half the time, something beyond unheard of.

The Franklin Press says: We noticed the other day some beautiful axe and pick handles, which were made by Mr. Benefield, on Cullasija. The hickory is much better, and the work fully equal to that of the machine-made handles. Mr. H. D. Child proposes to keep these handles on hand, instead of the Northern work, thereby furnishing a better article, and encouraging home industry. Why can't we have more of these small industries?

The Wilmington Star says: The Savannah (Ga.) News reports the French cruiser Duconedie at that port; that she will remain there five or six days, and will then go to Charleston and Wilmington, N. C., and from there back to Martinique via Bermuda. The Duconedie is a small steam cruiser barque rigged and spar decked, 1,290 tons burden. Her armament consists of six guns, sixty pounders, and five Hotchkiss cannon. She is manned by a crew of 150 sailors and marines, and commanded by Capt. Boulet.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, limbs and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. As these symptoms of indigestion are present, flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture like perspiration, produced by a very disagreeable itching, after getting warm, is a common attendant. Blind Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure.
