INTERESTING READING MATTER ON FOURTH PAGE.

R. R. Jones, at the Pioneer No. 23 South Main street, opened the season for Mixed Drinks on the 15th of April, and will continue to serve them through the season. Milk Punches, Big Yellow, Whiskey Punches, Sangarees, and other mixed drinks called for, delivered free of charge, anywhere within the fire limits of the city.

Yesterday morning rather cool and rainy, but breaking up towards afternoon. We are indebted to Capt. A. B. Thrush for a basket of crisp and juicy lettuce, one of the first fruits of spring gardening. It was highly appreciable, and has our most hearty appreciation.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Sawyer left yesterday morning for New York, to be absent some weeks. The former will devote himself to replenishing his stock and renewing those large and varied supplies for which he has become noted.

Messrs. Brevard & Blanton announce in another column that they now have in hand a full stock of Spring and Summer goods, which is at the service of the public or of any one who has the money. Call and see them.

There is nothing fascinating in the name or suggestions of a Milky Shake; but the reality is a different affair. They have become so popular, that a special machine has been devised to give the needed perturbation, one of which Palm has, and the milky concoction from it is far better we dare say than the nectar Jupiter and Juno used to quaff when in their cups.

The receipts of the Thespian entertainment on Thursday evening amounted to the sum of $156, which after deducting expenses, was equally divided between the Mission Hospital and the Flower Mission. This is an aid that will be fully appreciated.

Messrs. C. F. Pennington & Co. have commenced the erection of a building on Pulliam street, just rear of the C. E. Graham building, 160x40 feet, to be used as an agricultural warehouse. We are pleased to see this firm preparing to extend their business and to move it up town, it having been heretofore conducted at the old depot.

Hugh Dougherty, Joseph McLean and Milt McLean were arrested and lodged in Buncombe jail on Thursday evening charged with participating in shooting into the the passenger train on its way to Paint Rock. They were examined yesterday evening before Justices Malone and Buckner. Mr. C. A. Moore represented the State, and Messrs. Hardwick and E. D. Carter the defendants. After patient investigation, Dougherty and Milt McLean were discharged from insufficient evidence, and Joseph McLean was held to answer at the next term of the Superior Court, and failing to give bail was committed to jail.

We hope at the next entertainment at the Opera House, the filling of the aisles with chairs will, under no circumstances, be permitted. It is absolutely necessary these passage ways remain unobstructed. Panic from the most trivial or foundationless cause may arise. Some facilities for movement must be left open. As it was Thursday night it was a solid mass fixed irrevocably in its position.

But the conclusion is unavoidable that a Hall built for a population of 2000 will not do for one of 7000. There must be a new Opera House or Public Hall. The number of visitors here, ready and anxious to participate in all amusements, is an element that has been disregarded. Let capitalists look to it.

A LITTLE IRREGULAR.

But not enough to be noticed and perfectly sound; 200 sets Parisian Porcelain Plates 55c set. Hand Teas 55c. Best triple plate knives 1.85 set. Spoons and forks long in proportion. These are the bargains of the season (while the goods last.) Always the very lowest prices on Glassware, Lamps and Crockery. Law's Silver and China Hall, South Main Street.

All colors Sural Silk, Satins, Velvets and Flashes, just in at Whitlock's. Another invoice of new millinery, new shapes, pretty new flowers, new feathers. Call and make selection, at Whitlock's. Soda and mineral waters now on draught at Moore & Robards.

The Thespian Club desire to express their thanks for the exceedingly valuable services rendered it by the Orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Chandler, in which thanks we know the audience all join.

At a meeting of the Board of Aldermen last night there were three propositions for the building of street railways, one represented by Capt. Atkinson, one by Mr. James Martin and the one heretofore represented by Capt. McLeod. Final consideration was postponed until next Friday night.

Hon. J. S. Cochran, of Asheville, S. C., M. C. from the 3rd District, and Col. R. E. Bowen are in the city. They are in connection with the Carolina, Cumberland Gap and Chicago road, and hope to secure a meeting here this morning of citizens interested. A meeting was held in Brevard on Thursday on the same subject, and friends subscribed to the continuation of the survey. This is going on now, the corps working its way across the Ridge through Eastatae Gap. It will probably reach Asheville in about one month.

Our correspondent evidently thinks our expression "stupidity," as applied to the general neglect of the dairy a harsh one; and perhaps it is. But Asheville is not the only butter market; and butter makers need not be disturbed because they do not always secure high prices or steady sales here. We understand the capriciousness of a monopolizing market. But the whole State is open and so are the States to the South of us. If the facilities of this section, those of brain and of soil, were utilized, Buncombe and the counties of the West would perform the same function for other localities that Orange county in New York State does. It supplies the city and half the country besides with milk, butter and cheese. We do nothing of kind, and grumble because the single market we choose to recognize is sometimes overstocked.

CONFEDERATE BUTTONS WANTED.

We want two Confederate buttons, one large and one small. Fifty cents will be paid to the citizen offering each to the one who brings them.

MARRIED.

On the 20th of April, 1887, at the residence of the bride's father, Sheriff W. Worley, by Rev. W. B. Lyda, Mr. W. E. Waldrop, of Polk county, N. C., to Miss E. Lula Worley, of Buncombe county, N. C.

CITY TREASURER'S STATEMENT.

This document which appeared in yesterday morning's CITIZEN is worthy of attention. It is a picture of progress, of resources, of liberal appropriation of means for improvement, of honest disposition, economical application and judicious administration. The work done by the means in hand has been enormous; and it has had a general impartial distribution.

The administration now drawing to a close merits the honors which are accorded to it by just sentiment. Its conceptions have been bold, its execution has been able. It has set itself quietly, yet boldly to lead in the direction of the vital interests of the city demanded. It has its reward, if not in the renewal of its power, at least in the demonstration of what has been done. The conditions of Asheville as given in another character. It may not say it found Asheville of brick and left it of marble, but it can say it found it in darkness and left it glorified with the radiance of the electric light. It found it dry and waterless, and left it with the vital stream of the great rivers running through every street and vivifying every household. It found the streets impassable with mud and its sidewalks knotty with cobble stones. It leaves them with four miles of macadamized surface and sidewalks extended to the remotest domicile in the city. Much of the work remains incomplete, but the spirit which set them in motion is not the less worthy of honor. And after all that is done $15,848.88 remains in the treasury. This a record of which the city should be proud. It shows wise public servants and those servants served her wisely and well.

In speaking yesterday of expenditures of the city, a typographical error made us say the Mayor's salary was $100. It is $300, to which are added certain fees of office. And in connection with expenditures for the pay of the Police, the item of $3,714.54 is to be reduced by the amount received from fines, $1,729.04, and that of $249.83 from sales—a total of $1,985.77, which leaves only $1,728.77 to be charged to the city for a police service unsurpassed in the State.

Bonanza Mackay is put down for $360,000,000. If so, he is by far the richest man in the world, provided he can show "the dust" to that amount.

The enervation and lassitude of spring time are but indications of the sluggish state of the blood, overloaded with carbonates accumulated by the use of heating food in winter. This condition may be remedied by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the blood purifier known.

Death. In Asheville, April 22, 1887, James Green, son of James Green and Annie Davis Martin, aged two years and seven months. Funeral from Trinity Church at 4 o'clock this Saturday, April 23, '87.

APPLICANTS FOR NAVAL CADETSHIP.

The Hon. Thos. D. Johnston gives notice that all applicants for examination for the Naval Cadetship will report by 9 o'clock this morning to Prof. S. F. Venable, at the Military Academy on Academy street. Young men desiring this position should not lose the opportunity.

DEATH OF MR. JACOB C. LYONS.

Intelligence was received here of the death of this gentleman, which occurred in New Orleans yesterday. Mr. Lyons died after a week's illness of pneumonia. He was the father of Mr. H. H. Lyons, Green Martin, aged two years and seven months. Funeral from Trinity Church at 4 o'clock this Saturday, April 23, '87.

THE THESPIAN ENTERTAINMENT.

Of Thursday evening was highly enjoyed by one of the largest audiences ever packed into the Opera Hall. As an amateur performance it was highly creditable to the histrionic powers of the rule. We do not think the selection of the Drama "One Hundred Years Ago" is well suited to the fire and enthusiasm of young performers, or one calculated to stimulate either as a natural fervor might rise under the progress of the play. There was a preponderating degree of the subdued Quaker element, very representative of enthusiastic action or emotion.

The end men, so to speak, Pretzel—Mr. Jacobs—and Ginger Mr. Davidson filled their role with admirable vivacity and nice characterization. Mr. J. A. Campbell, handsome and striking in person, and picturesque in costume, was admirable as Elmer Granger. Miss Julia Robertson as Frances Granger was full of charming vivacity that gave reality to the character she presented. Miss Annie A. Dunn as Mrs. Sterling sustained with delightful quiet and simplicity the subject tone of the Quaker mother and daughter upon whose heads the weight of religious customs had laid the hand of submission of the emotions, but in whose hearts burned the fires of liberty and in whose breasts glowed the hatred of tyranny.

The other members of the company sustained their parts with credit. The after piece, Pounds, Shillings and Pence, a musical farce, was not so funny as we had hoped.

We must not forget—we did not forget—the colored choir, the first row there stood the veritable Big Tom Wilson in propria persona, en tabella, the Old Trapper, tall, massive, stalwart, motionless as a statue, with his trusty rifle raised and pointing upward into a tree. His deadly aim fixed on bear, snapper, or other animal, and when the curtain dropped there was uproarious applause, and again the curtain ran up, and the same picture was presented.

The entertainment was brightened by the finest amateur orchestra we have ever heard, volunteers of the young gentlemen of the city under the leadership of Mr. Chandler. The taste and skill displayed were perfect, and exquisite, and half the professional orchestras in the country might pale their ineffectual fires before this amateur one of Asheville.

The programmes were elegantly gotten up, printed in gilt and colors, first row there stood the veritable Big Tom Wilson in propria persona, en tabella, the Old Trapper, tall, massive, stalwart, motionless as a statue, with his trusty rifle raised and pointing upward into a tree. His deadly aim fixed on bear, snapper, or other animal, and when the curtain dropped there was uproarious applause, and again the curtain ran up, and the same picture was presented.

We return thanks on the part of the audience to the Thespian, not absolutely perfect, but most commendable good. Let us have them again and oftener, and they will always be assured of full houses, hearty, welcome and honest judgment.

At Philadelphia, there has been a general falling off in business at mills and factories, though they are crowded with work, and everything promises well.

A great deal of combining, negotiating and pooling is quietly going on among railroads, in spite of the Inter-State law. This new law will compel railroads to consult each other's mutual interest. The volume of railroad traffic will very soon increase.

It is a great mistake to make education a public charity. It lowers the self-respect of a free people. It will degrade men and women who take that view. Put education in the same category with the poor house and you stamp it with a degrading principle. To violate the Constitution to thus degrade education is monstrous; it is a positive stretch and insult to any free and enlightened people.—Wilmington Star.

It is said that the Logan family intend to publish some very interesting letters written a few years ago by General Sherman to General Logan. General Sherman has been interviewed on the subject and says that he will be the first to make public their private correspondence, but that if the Logan family desire to publish his letters he will make the matter more interesting by publishing the answers to all of them written by General Logan himself.

STATE NEWS.

Selma News: Selma is on a boom. During the past twelve months there have been eleven new houses erected here, including dwelling and business houses. Our cotton receipts for the season ending May 1st, 1886, numbered scarcely one thousand bales, for the corresponding season ending April 1st, 1887 the total number of bales shipped were over 3,300.

The Waynesville News says: Our worthy townsman, H. G. West, met with a very serious accident a few days since. He was getting down from a pile of lumber at Mr. Peacock's lumber yard, when the lumber fell and caught him, and broke one of his legs. It was a narrow escape. We hope however that he will soon recover. Being a jolly good fellow we miss him very much on the streets.

The Economist says: "More shad than ever were known" is the common remark of fishermen. We heard one say so this morning. The bread cast upon the waters in '83, returns in '87. In consideration of the good work Commissioner Worth was doing in '83, we take back all we have said about him. In a moment of irritation we said, "he was the wrong man in the right place." In place of "wrong" in above sentence, read "right." Oh! these types, how they do lie.

A telegram to the News-Observer from Carthage, April 20th, says: Seven convicts from the penitentiary stockade in Moore county escaped Sunday night. On affidavit of the Solicitor, Judge Clark issued a bench warrant immediately for the arrest of Capt. W. B. Hicks, in charge of the convicts, and John Hunter, the guard in charge, and the matter is being investigated by the grand jury of Moore county. The law against officers in case of escape of prisoners confined to their care is very stringent.

The Salisbury Herald of last week said:

"Mrs. J. G. Ramsey, Wood and others propose to take up, on May 3rd, the remains of Peter S. Nev, which lie buried in the Third Creek graveyard. They will be pleased to have the presence and assistance of physicians who think it proper to attend. This is done at the request of Mr. Lyman Draper, president of the Historical Society of Wisconsin, who wishes to ascertain whether the skeleton (skull) been trephined or not. We await the result of this investigation with a great deal of curiosity."

The Raleigh Dispatch correspondent says: The storms to which reference was made in yesterday's Dispatch as having passed through a large extent of territory south of Raleigh last Monday were really small cyclones, it appears. In southern Wake, Chatham and Johnston the storm tore through the woods, leaving belts where all the trees were twisted off and piled in all directions. People were greatly frightened. There was considerable electricity in the atmosphere. In Chatham John Knight's store was blown to pieces, and its contents destroyed or badly damaged.

A YOUNG MASTER DEFENDS A FORMER SLAVE.

The Shelby Aurora tells of a touching episode which occurred at the Superior Court at that place last week. Says the Aurora:

Merrill Nicholas, col., was tried last week for the murder of a forbidden and drunken great at a colored festival during Christmas holidays. The prisoner was poor and a stranger from South Carolina, yet in his tribulation he implored the legal aid of his young master, Mr. Culp, living in Union, South Carolina. His piteous appeal touched the young master's heart and recalled scenes of their early childhood days twenty and thirty years ago, and the lawyer and former master came to his rescue and without money nobly and eloquently defended Merrill Nicholas at the murder trial, at which the jury brought in a verdict of "manslaughter" and the prisoner sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. Here was shown a sentimental attachment for a former slave and a seventy miles journey and expense in behalf of a colored playmate. This colored man can never repay Mr. Culp for his expenses and noble defense. We commend this to our Northern press. Truly did Judge Montgomery say, "the colored man owed a debt of gratitude to the lawyers, who so nobly and without pay defended them and fought for their legal rights. Let not the colored man join in the hue and cry against the legal profession, which is their best friends on earth."

For the first quarter of the year 134,000 men went on a strike advanced to 15 per cent. through at one United States during the p. at two years.

Health Notes.

The summer is once more on us, and while we may, in our excellent climate, reasonably hope to pass through it without a visitation of the frightful scourges which are so terrible in some parts of the South, yet we must expect the usual amount of summer troubles. Among these, diarrhoea or summer complaint is most to be dreaded. Fortunately this may be relieved by using Dr. Little's Elixir, which should be found in every family.

FOR THE ASHEVILLE CITIZEN.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., April 22, 1887.
Editors Citizen.—I notice in a copy of your paper that I am a nominee of the Workmen's Convention for the office of Alderman. While I thank the Workmen for this mark of honor, I wish to state that I have not been, that I am not, and that I cannot be a candidate for any office. Truly, W. F. RANDOLPH.

A Remarkable Woman.

Mrs. Shackelford, a youthful widow who manages a cotton plantation of 3,800 acres near Pleasant Hill, in Alabama, is now in New Orleans, and is looked upon as a heroine for the bravery she exhibited during a murderous assault upon her by one of the colored laborers on her plantation. Her maiden name was Annie Perrine, and she was educated at Vassar College. When fifteen years old she returned to her father's home, in Alabama, and soon afterwards was married to A. P. Shackelford, of Virginia. She then had an income of nearly $50,000, but during a visit to California with her husband her fortune was swept away as if in a single night. Instead of giving up in despair, she kept the wolf from the door by corresponding with New York journals until she saved enough to pay her way back to her father's home. On reaching there she was called upon to face another emergency. Years and past troubles had so silvered the locks of her father that he had been unable to run the place as he had in bygone days, and a debt of $6,800, bearing a heavy interest, was increasing so rapidly that it was only a question of time for the mortgage to swallow up the old homestead. She became her father's manager, and in doing this she was compelled to be in the saddle from 4 in the morning till night, and this has been her life since she was seventeen years of age. At the end of five years her husband died, and she was left a widow with one child, now a bright little fellow of four years. Three years ago she paid off every dollar the plantation owed, and now owns the property free of debt. She raises every year 100 bales of cotton, besides corn and market supplies for home consumption and sale. A portion of the plantation is leased to colored laborers, and she has to collect rents from 186 tenants. She has had great trouble with some of the strange colored tenant, and a servant girl, in revenge for a refusal to go to a dance, poisoned her little boy. The babe, however, recovered, and on the 25th of last January she unexpectedly returned to the house and found a huge colored man in her room searching for valuables. She presented a pistol to his head and ordered him to surrender. He advanced upon her armed with a razor, and she snapped the pistol, but it proved to be unloaded, and in the struggle that ensued she received twenty-seven wounds. She sank exhausted, and her assailant escaped from the house. As soon as he turned to flee she seized another pistol, mounted her horse and, overtaking the ruffian, brought him down with a successful shot, and he was taken to prison. After being confined to her room with her wounds she recovered. The trial of this man for the cutting of Mrs. Shackelford is fixed for this week, and she wrote two letters to her notifying her that if she did not withdraw the charge he would have murdered her, friends advised her, under the circumstances, to make a statement before a justice of the peace, and then leave the county until the trial was over; which she did, and came to New Orleans.

THE BIGGEST CLOCK IN THE WORLD.

A watchmaking firm on Fulton street, Brooklyn, has now in course of construction a clock that promises to be as wonderful in its way as the great clock of Strasbourg about which such stories are told. The face of the clock will on a level with the ground while the machinery which works it will be under the ground out of sight, but so arranged that everything will be run smoothly for eight days. The figures on the dial plate will be of flowers of various species and colors but each figure differing from the others. The pivot in the centre of the dial on which the hands turn is to be a water jet, throwing a spray all round and over the flowers to keep them fresh. The mechanics of the clock is now being constructed in Boston, and is expected to be completed in a month from now.

"I calculate on placing the clock at Manhattan Beach," said Mr. Shaw, the constructor, "where it can be seen from the hotel piazzas and balconies, and admired if it is considered worth admiration. The idea is my own and the chief point in originality about it is the underground connection by wire between the dial and the motive power. If I do not succeed in having it placed at Manhattan Beach I shall take it elsewhere; but I will certainly have it placed somewhere not very far from New York or Brooklyn. The clock is to be fifty feet in diameter.—New York World.
