Judge or Harkins, which?
Jackson Court this week, Judge Graves presiding.
Judge Shuford and Solicitor Carter are pushing matters in the inferior court. It is one of the best tribunals in the State.
Mr. James O. Howell has returned from New York, and a fine assortment of goods will follow him in a few days. He selects nothing but the best goods.
Mr. Wright, another Shelby man, was in our city yesterday. Shelby is taking a large hand in Asheville just now, but we welcome them all—Shelby folks are good folks, and progressive folks, judging from those we have already captured.

MR. GUDGER ACCEPTS THE NOMINATION FOR MAYOR.
ASHEVILLE, N. C., April 25, 1887.
Dear Sir:—I see by the papers published, since I left the city, that I was nominated last Monday by a mass-meeting of the citizens of Asheville, over which you presided, for the office of Mayor. Individually I would have preferred that our ticket should have been formed by the Democratic party in regular convention; as that has not been done, and learning that your meeting was composed of our best citizens, I return to them my sincere thanks for this expression of their confidence and esteem, and accept with pleasure the nomination tendered. I beg to state that if elected Mayor, I shall make every effort to maintain the very high degree of progress and advancement on which our city has been placed by the present government. My desire is that every citizen may know, and feel assured by lives in a city that keeps pace with the march of events. Very truly yours,
J. M. Gudger.

STATE NEWS.
Cleveland has just sent twelve convicts to the penitentiary, two of them being for life.
E. Brevard McDowell has been nominated by the Democrats of Charlotte for mayor.
Henry A. London, Esq., will deliver the memorial-day address at Wilmington, May 10th.
State Treasurer Bain has rendered an official decision that cotton buyers, whether resident or transient, are liable to State taxes on purchases as provided in the revenue act.
The Hon. W. H. H. Cowles will be the orator on the occasion of the memorial celebration in Raleigh, his subject being a distinguished son of North Carolina, Gen. Jno. B. Gordon.

Looking for His Lily.
Not so very many days ago a couple—newly married—stopped at the Ryann for the night. They hailed from some where in the valley of the Red river district, and had money enough to make a small ripple in the city. The bride retired early, but the groom, still feeling his eyes, went out to see the town. He visited a number of the prominent resorts, and about midnight found himself in the hotel elevator. Calmly transfixing the hoist-boy with his eye, he addressed him:
"My boy—ish, swere's my bridsh? Swere's my turtle dove?"
The boy, of course, could not answer him. But finding the number of his room, he attempted to take him there.
"Noshir!" said the jebriate. "Iah—hic—wansh shmy cooing dove. She's the roshsh of the valley, she is."
Everybody in the rooms along the halls was awake by this time, and several heads peeped over the transoms.
"She's—a—a—hic—lamsh," he continued, "a wansh of the shew. Where's she? That what I want—hic—to know. Whosh stole my cuckoo from mesh?"
By this time they were at the door of his room. It suddenly opened, a hand and arm clothed in white was thrust out and the unfortunate yanked in with a terrific jerk and this remark:
"Here's your rose of Sharon and Lily of the valley, you blamed old fool. Go to bed!"
Philadelphia is making it red-hot for her keepers of low dives. Already three of them have been sent to prison, and a few more are on the way.
They are having a lively race in Kentucky for the democratic nomination for governor. General S. B. Buckner's friends are confident that he will win, and predict his nomination on the first or second ballot.
Doctor Tanner has been knocked clean out of the "fasting ring." A forty days' starvation is nothing new. Several persons have passed that record, but all previous performances are eclipsed by Miss Mary Baker, of Monroe, Indiana, who has not touched food for 105 days.
Sometimes a man gets mangled up so that even his best wife fails to identify him. A month ago Fred Wirth, of Chicago, disappeared. Shortly after the mutilated remains of a man were fished out of the canal at Lockport, Ill., and Wirth's widow identified the body as that of her husband, and had it buried. The other day another body was found in the river at Chicago, which has been identified as that of Wirth.

EARL DOUGLAS OF CAVERS.—Earl James Douglas was not more than thirty when he fell, but he had crowded many exploits into a short life; and his successful raids across the Border excited the enthusiasm of Scottish chivalry, and the deep enmity of "Hotspur," who saw his domains ravaged and his fame eclipsed by the young Earl. An expedition into England on a grand scale having been organized by the Scottish nobles in 1388, Douglas harried the country up to the walls of Durham, and then returned to assail Newcastle. In the hand-to-hand encounter before the walls Douglas is said to have wrested Hotspur, and to have carried off his pennon. It was when the Scots had broken up the siege, and were encamped at Otterburn, on their way home, that the famous encounter took place, which is celebrated in the ballad of "Chevy Chase." In the night-time Henry and Ralph Percy broke upon the Scottish camp at Otterburn so unexpectedly that Douglas had not time to have his armor fastened, and the Earl of Moray fought all night without his helmet. Douglas was soon in the thickest of the fight, armed with a mace or battle-axe, "lyke a hardy Hector," says Froissart, "wyllingly alone to conquer he felde, and to discomfyte his enemies." Unrecognized in the melee, he received three spearwounds at once, and a blow on the head from an axe as he was falling. His body was recovered when the English were driven back; and the scene which followed is one of the most affecting in the annals of chivalry. "When asked how he did the dying Earl replied, 'Right evil; yet thank God, but few of my ancestors have died in their beds. I am dying, for my heart grows faint, but I pray you to revenge me. Raise my banner which lyeth near me on the ground; show my state neither to friend nor foe, lest mine enemies rejoice, and my friends be discomfited.'—Blackwood.

COMPOUND OXYGEN.
It is Gudger or Harkins, which? Jackson Court is in session this week. Our Col. Cameron is in attendance.
The rains of Sunday and Monday helped the farmers very greatly.
Asheville can soon boast the prettiest streets in the State, outside of Raleigh.
Asheville is on a boom. Let not our people, as a corporation, make a mistake.
Mr. J. C. S. Timberlake passed through our city yesterday evening, en-route to Atlanta.
T. W. Branch makes an important announcement in another column. See advertisement.
There is a fine prospect for having two street car companies in operation in Asheville soon. The more the merrier.
There is another boom for Asheville in a few days. Some certain transaction will astonish the natives. Keep the ball a moving.
Our friend Joseph A. May, the "fruit of Haywood county," was in to see us yesterday. A good man, who deserves success, and will attain it.
The Raleigh News-Observer of Sunday has a splendid write up of the battle of Gettysburg, which will prove of special interest to those who participated in that famous conflict and will add another important page to history.
Mr. E. H. Wright, of Shelby, tobaccoist, has been in Asheville for the past few days looking after our tobacco market, and yesterday made an investment in a lot in Shelby Park.
White men, divide; we can afford to do so in the presence of a solid enemy! We can thus secure not only a radical, but a very unsatisfactory government of city affairs.
Divide, discuss and cuss, of course.
We are highly gratified to know that Capt. Atkinson has given his consent for President Cleveland to spend several days in Asheville on the occasion of his contemplated visit to the South this summer. The President will now take Asheville in his trip.
Messrs. Williamson and Chedister have begun the necessary excavations on Patton Avenue, for very extensive and attractive buildings. When completed they will add greatly to the attractions of Patton Avenue.
We are going, soon, to have two street railways—two companies being ready and determined to construct lines to suit the requirements of the city. We need them all. Push matters ahead, gentlemen, Asheville can stand and sustain any such enterprise.
The Inferior Court of Buncombe began yesterday, Judge Shuford presiding, Solicitor Carter prosecuting. Of course the usual "bill of fare" was presented, because our Solicitor is an excellent and a watchful officer, and the usual Buncombe grand jury is very exacting. We cannot say, as yet, what will be done in the way of convictions.

ASHEVILLE'S GROWTH.
In referring to the census of Asheville just published by the Southern Directory Company, the Raleigh News-Observer pleasantly says:
"We note with pleasure the rapid growth of Asheville as shown by the census last taken and reported elsewhere. At the present rate, it appears our mountain metropolis will in 1890 be as large as Atlanta, that young giant of the South, is now. The present population is 7,268, a figure which probably makes the city fourth or fifth in point of size among North Carolina towns. The probabilities of growth and industrial importance too are equally as great in the case of Asheville as those of population."
God Bless the Man who Offered the Amendment.
We learn from our exchange that:
"In the Alabama Legislature a bill was introduced to prevent the sale of liquor within 100 yards of any church. A smart man, who recognizes the fact that as long as men want to drink they can, in some way, get whiskey, offered an amendment prohibiting church members going within 100 yards of a bar room."
We despise hypocrisy, in any thing. Let every man who professes to be total abstainers stand to the avow. If every man who will not go within "100 yards of a bar-room" will agree to the above sentiment much trouble could be saved. But as men are not honest, and it is hard to tell where the people stand.

THE LATE JACOB LYONS.
The Columbia (S. C.) correspondent of the Charleston News and Courier thus refers to Mr. Lyons, whose sad death Friday in New Orleans we have already announced:
"In the business circles of Columbia there was frequent expressions of regret when the fact of the death of Mr. Lyons became known, for while the deceased had not been in Columbia for many years, he left an unimpaired reputation as a shrewd and successful business man here. Jacob C. Lyons was born in Columbia about the year 1807, and resided here until 1867, when he removed to Philadelphia. During the greater portion of this time he was recognized as one of the most prominent business men in the city. His father, Isaac Lyons, had a very large mercantile establishment at the corner of Richardson and Gervais streets, and after his death Jacob Lyons conducted the business. The deceased was very wealthy. He sold to the present owner the Van Benthuyzen square."
HON. J. M. GUDGER ACCEPTS.
As will be seen in another column the above named gentleman accepts the nomination for the office of Mayor tendered him by the large meeting of citizens held on the night of the 18th.
Messrs. Fitzpatrick, Walker and Haliburton also accept for the office of Aldermen.
The meeting which made these selections was a very large one, and the result of the meeting shows those who participated feel a lively interest in the continued progress and prosperity of our city.
There are but two tickets, so far, in the field, the above named, and the ticket tendered by Mr. H. S. Harkins for Mayor. On this latter appears also the name of Mr. Fitzpatrick for Alderman. Mr. Randolph declines the nomination tendered by the Harkins meeting, and this leaves Messrs. Fitzpatrick, Walker and Haliburton named by the citizens' meeting, and Messrs. Fitzpatrick and Wolfe in the field for Aldermen.
The Boston Globe says that Mr. Cleveland will not refuse a renomination he can get if his administration during the next twelve months is satisfactory to the democratic party. In fact, the man is not yet born who would decline a second nomination if favorably tendered him.
NEVER THOUGHT OF THAT—"Why is it," asked the new teacher, who is not a prohibitionist, "that we do not see so many drunken men in Europe as we do here in America." And the smart, bad boy spoke up from his accustomed place at the foot of the class: "Because we don't stay in Europe as much as we do in America."—Burdett.
