He manifested a very genuine interest in our Mission Hospital and will donate a large quantity of their valuable surgical appliances &c., to that institution. His exhibition of the North Carolina Pharmaceutical Association was one of the most attractive ever made in the South.

The following letter from Mr. J. C. Smathers, postmaster at Turnpike, explains itself. We will only say we have never meant to say we thought the failure of the CITIZEN to reach that place was due to Mr. Smathers: TURNPIKE, N. C., August 4, 1887.

THE CRAZY IRISHMAN WHO WOULD BLOW UP A BRITISH STEAMER.

Another Prize Fight. New York, August 8.—The long talked of prize fight between Johnny Reagan and Tom Henry, came off this morning early. The men fought thirty-eight rounds, and the fight, which was then declared a draw, was broken up by a mob.

Down With the English Flag.

New York, August 8.—"Down with the English flag! Hurrah for the Stars and Stripes!" shouted the incendiary who tried to fire the steamer Queen, as he waved his hat this morning in the Jefferson Market court. He had been brought there and placed among the audience to see if he could be identified by Robert Sinclair, the colored steward of the steamer Guyardotte, of the Old Dominion line, as the dynamite who caused the explosion and injury some time ago to that vessel. Sinclair, however, failed to recognize Maloney as being the man who tried to blow up the steamer.

The Serial of a Murderer.

Moscow, August 8.—The remains of Katofov were conveyed to this city from Zanesmes, a distance of 20 miles, for interment. The coffin was borne the whole distance alternately upon the shoulders of relatives of the dead editor, workmen, students from the University, members of the press and peasantry. The lid of the coffin was carried in front of the procession. There were 300 carriages in line. The Priests and chorists in procession were dressed in white, with silver embroidery. The Priests, bearing holy water, blessed every village through which the procession passed. The cortege halted at over church along the route, where prayers were offered for the repose of soul of the deceased. The procession gathered strength along the route. Prince Dolgorouky, represented the Czar, met the funeral train several miles from Moscow. An enormous crowd gathered to receive the remains. The funeral cortege entered the city at 3 o'clock yesterday morning.

The Yacht Racing Yesterday.

COTTAGE CITY, MASS., August 8.—A fine northeast breeze is blowing this morning, and a magnificent race to Marblehead is promised. Two-thirds of the way it will be beat to windward. It is expected the winning yacht will reach Marblehead in about 18 hours. The stake is $1,000. The signal gun was fired at 7 o'clock. The Puritan and Volunteer had estimated their distance with wonderful precision, and crossed the line within a few seconds of each other under full sail and headway on portlock, the Puritan keeping to windward at 8:20. The Electra steamed after the fleet in a hurry. At that time the leaders were hulled down on the horizon, the Puritan and Volunteer, apparently neck and neck, making wonderful time. The cheers from steamer and yachts rang out as the two leaders passed close under the lee of the Electra and within a hundred feet of each other. The start was a beautiful one. By 8 o'clock every sail had disappeared beneath the horizon under a strong breeze which blew steadily and gave no sign of flagging out. About five miles from the shore the Volunteer went ahead of the Puritan in fine style and closed upon the Sackin, which had come down with the tide and was leading the fleet.

TELEGRAPHIC.

ASHEVILLE MUST INVITE THE PRESIDENT.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 6, 1887. MESSRS. EDITORS:—In a recent issue of the CITIZEN there appeared a timely local editorial on the subject of the extension of an invitation to President Cleveland to visit this city while on his proposed fall tour. It is a matter of great surprise that the suggestion has not awakened a wider interest. It is useless to suggest the prominence and advantage which would be given Asheville by a presidential visit. Everyone who has any regard for the welfare of the city, it seems, should be anxious that the chief executive of this county should see this place—one of the remarkable illustrations of recent city growth in the South. Such a visit might have no little bearing on the question whether Asheville gets a public building or not. Why Raleigh, Lynchburg and other towns along the President's route home have invited him. The Raleigh News-Observer hopes that all other towns in the State will join Raleigh in inviting the President to the capital of the State. Possibly those who object to Mr. Cleveland's visit here might be willing to attend a meeting which would have for its object the invitation to the President to visit Raleigh. It would seem that some kind of a meeting would do credit to the place, and the passage of some sort of resolution seems not a necessity—unless the place wishes to rest under a suspicion of sleepiness and absolute lack of enterprise—and a disinclination to have the President come.

WEEK OF PRAYER AND SELF-DENIAL.

Services will be continued this afternoon, at 5 o'clock, at the M. E. Church, South. Subject: Home Missions—especially those of Holston Conference, M. E. The public invited.

An Eventful Wedding Night.

WAYNESBORO, GA., Aug. 4.—Mr. Charles Elrod, accompanied by a dozen armed men, went last night to the residence of Wm. Stoddard, where his young wife was held imprisoned by her father, and after a sharp struggle succeeded in recapturing the girl. Elrod is a youth of 18, the son of a substantial farmer. For a year he has been employed of Miss Lucy Stoddard, the fourteen-year-old daughter of a well-known contractor of this place. Mr. Stoddard objected to Elrod as a son-in-law and forbade him the house. The lovers met in secret and planned a runaway marriage, which was performed by Rev. Mr. Zimmerman. Mr. Stoddard, as soon as he heard of it, sued out a warrant against Elrod for abduction, disturbing the nuptial chamber of midnight by sending Elrod therefrom to jail and taking the young bride home, where she was held under lock and key. Elrod was bailed out, and at once organized his friends and proceeded to Stoddard's house, intent on bloody work if necessary. The guards there showed fight, but no appeal to fire-arm was made. While one party engaged Stoddard and his friends in consultation another party stole into the house through the back door, secured the girl, and fled under several parting shots from the discomfited guards.

Storm Signals.

As the coming of a great storm is heralded by the display of cautionary signals, so is the approach of that dread and fatal disease, Consumption of the Lungs, usually announced in advance by pimples, blotches, eruptions, ulcers, glandular swellings, and kindred outward manifestations of the internal blood poison, which, if not promptly expelled from the system, attacks the delicate tissues of the lungs, causing them to ulcerate and break down. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" is the great remedy for this, as for all diseases having their origin in bad blood. It improves the appetite and digestion, increases nutrition and builds up the wasted system. d&w
