

ASHEVILLE CITIZEN.

R. M. FURMAN, JORDAN STONE, J. S. CAMERON, Editors.

FRIDAY MORNING, SEPT. 30, 1887.

The New York city Democrats went to their State convention on the best of terms with each other and peacefully harmonious.

Another bride in the White House. Mr. Charles M. Hendley, private secretary to Col. Lamont, is to be married to Miss Bessie Butler Johnson, of New York, on the 4th of October.

We congratulate Charlie. Now whenever Dan Lamont moves about we hope the press' dispatches will not fail to tell us how Charlie is getting on. It is very important to the country to know these things.

A New York paper says: "A movement is on foot looking to the erection of a new crematory in New York city wherein bodies are to be incinerated by electricity. The scheme is regarded as a feasible one, and it is believed will do much toward removing the prejudice existing against the cremation by the elaborate methods practiced in Pennsylvania, Long Island and elsewhere.

We have no doubt this will suit the average New Yorker better than the other system, because all apprehensions of "family jars" are removed.

Our cotemporary the Charleston News and Courier sees brightening prospects for the early completion of the Carolina, Cumberland Gap and Chicago Railroad. It is true the cloud is no bigger than a man's head, yet it is there, with every indication of growing.

Since writing the above we clip the following from the Morristown, (Tenn.) Gazette: A business letter to this office from Col. J. O. Cottrhan, Secretary of the Charleston, Cumberland Gap and Chicago Railroad Company, dated Asheville, S. C., September 21, has this item of general interest to our local readers: "A contractor is here from New York looking over the line with a view of taking twenty-five miles, from Aiken to Edgefield, and we are about to close with him. If this is done, the prospect is good for the line to be pushed right through."

A LIAR. An exchange gives the following: "The man who fought, bled and died for the tattooed statesman from Maine in the little war has turned up at Nashville in the person of an old negro by the name of Jacob Poor. He carries a bullet in his shoulder which rightfully belongs to the Plumed Knight, and which he can no doubt get if he will call on Jacob and pay up $800 of the $900 which Jacob says was the amount promised, and of which he received only ten dollars in hand."

Now we believe this old negro is a liar, so far as not having received the amount promised by Mr. Blaine. There are many things about Mr. Blaine we do not admire, but, to say that while he remained at home and got rich out of army contracts he would fail to pay his "substitute" who put his shoulder to the bullets for him we cannot believe. It is of record that Mr. Blaine preferred army contracts at home and getting rich thereat, to facing the music and the enemy on the field. This no one can deny. But to say he refused to pay his poor negro substitute who took his place in front while he, B, fleeced him and comrades in the rear, we cannot believe. That negro is a liar, evidently.

WHAT ONE REPUBLICAN SAYS OF ANOTHER. Hon. R. R. Butler is the republican representative of the first Tennessee district in Congress. The Knoxville Journal is the able republican organ of East Tennessee. Here are some recent complaints from the Journal to Mr. Butler:

"R. R. Butler is a representative in Congress. On a great moral question, like that of prohibition, his constituents are entitled to his best judgment. At the outset he told them the amendment, (prohibition amendment now pending in Tennessee,) was right and that he should vote for it. He afterwards, for a money consideration, agreed to oppose it. Instead of giving the benefit of his judgment and advising them as to the right, he basely attempted to sell them out to gratify his own stupidity. Instead of dealing honestly with them, he treated them as if they were his chattels to be disposed of at whatsoever price he might agree upon with their would be purchasers."

"Bribery is sin, and the man who accepts a bribe is a wicked sinner. R. R. Butler thinks the wages of sin is five thousand dollars, but in the near hereafter, when he wants to remain in political life, he will find that 'the wages of sin is death.' His constituents have passed judgment upon him and are already saying: 'Depart ye worker of iniquity, we know you not.'"

Mind and body alike suffer from sluggish action of the blood, the result of dyspepsia or biliousness. Ayer's Pills will stir up the liver, excite the stomach and bowels to activity, open the pores of the system, and insure health of body which is indispensable to mental vigor.
