ASHEVILLE, N. C., January 1885.

In justice to all similarly afflicted with ourselves as well as to Drs. Hargan & Gatchell, I voluntarly make the following statement:

My wife has suffered for several years with severe lung trouble, continuing to grow worse until last November when she was unable to sit up, but a part of each day.

No appetite, night sweam, severe cough and loss of fiesh. The best physicians of Pouliney, Vermont, advised an immediate departure South. We reached Asheville November 17th, and commenced taking treatment of Drs. Hargan and Gatchell, inhaling Compound Oxygen and Balsam Vapor. My wife has improved rapidly from the first. Her appetite is good, sleeps well, coughs but little, raises less, night sweats ceased; so pain anywhere, takes long walks and climbs the mountains with little fatigue and has gained a first in weight. We feel certain another month's sweatment will affect a permanent cure. As for anywilf I am delighted to state that I improved sapidly from the first treatment and am nearly well. 2823 ASHEVILLE, N. C., January 1888.

Thave suffered for 38 years almost beyo department with the worst form of Piles, and abandoned all bope of relief. The Drs. sreatment has been gent o and almost painless still has effected a cure for me.

Yours respectfully,

A. J. SMITH. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are living in town and can verify and add to the above. HOME TREATMENT,

We manufacture the Compound Oxygen, and alignities all parts of the country, even to the Pasili Coast. We send apparatus and chemicals plast two months for $12. This is as valuable office creatment.

As it had been previously arranged that they should hold a joint discusion, Judge Boykin gave them from half past 1 until 4 p. m. to air their principles. The speaking began at Mr. Ewart having the lead. This gentleman is a ready, fluent speaker, and his speech was absoutely free from offensive charges or allusion; while at the same time it was full of ingenious perversion of facts, and statements not borne out by the record. I did not hear his argument on the tariff with which topic he opened. I did hear his attack on the revenue system which pleasant visit to his old homes at he assailed with a holy indignation arraigned his opponent, Mr. Johns-The biographical sketch of Oliver ton with charges that his pretended hostility to the system was displayed, that Mr. C. was the attorney of the monstrous whisky trust. He said the revenue laws were maintained in favor of that trust, that Mr. Carlisle was bitterly opposed to their repeal, and proved his power as speaker to suppress his proposing such repeal. He said that the pro tection given to the large whisky operators enabled them to form the gigantic trust that now existed. It tariff encouraged and enabled the hour. promotion of many other kinds of trusts by which the people were doubly robbed under the tariff and under the trust. Mr. Ewart had much to say on the negro question and on the subject of county government. He arraigned the democratic party for its failure to repeal it at the last session of the legislature. He appointment of negroes to many and lucrative offices. His party, he said would give the negro his rights and nothing more was due him. He discussed the Blair bill, and threw the responsibility of its failure to pass on the democrats. He said that it was misunderstood and misrepresented by the democrats. He said that the general govern-ment was to give to the states only the same sum appropriated by the states. But the fact is that the government appropriates for so many years asumamounting to$77,000,000 and the states to receive the benefit of the fund must equal the sum forced upon them by the government, an amount very far in excess of the present educational fund.

making it a curse instead of a bless-Mr. Carter in his reply denied very emphatically that Mr. Carlisle had any connection with the whisky trust. Mr. Johnston was reproach ed for voting for that gentleman because he was oppo ed to the repeal of the internal revenue laws. He voted f r Carlisle because he was a fare, noble, able man, and because he was a southern man, the first from the south invested with that high honor since the war. He showed from the records that the hearing: Not a single voice second-ed him, and the bill was contemptuously ignored. He, Mr. Carter, tance had said the same. All that the democrats could do was to soften some of its hardest features. Mr

Johnston had made strong efforts in that direction. The republicans had unanimously opposed them, Mr. Carter in reply to Mr. Ewart's arraignment of Mr. Cleveland for appointing negros to office said that was not what he approved, vet M Cleveland was not to be judged from a southern standpoint. The northern people had not that reason to feel the sting of negro official supremacy. The north had not, as the south had done, felt all the bit-

In regard to the Blair bill, Mr. Carter said the bill was not in the campaign at all. Both parties had excluded it from their platforms, Mr. Harrison could not fayorit for he advised the appropriation of the surplus in the treasury to the purchase of bonds, and that surplus had been relied upon by the father of the bill as the fund from which to appropriations under the bill was be drawn. Some of both parties favored the bill. Some of both parties opposed it. It could not fairly be called a party measure. If there was special responsibility for the failure of the bill it rested the shoulders of republican Mr. Hiscock, of New York, who objected in the house to the consideration at the bill, and in effect laid it on the table.

Mr. Carter replied effectively Mr. Ewart's tariff arguments, but was obliged, as his time drew to a close, to make his remarks on this subject brief. For the same reason Mr. Ewart's rejoinder was brief. They were made to a much reduced audience, and were without point The discussion was conducted with courtesy and good humor. While Mr. Ewart was commended far his fluency, his ingenuity and his courtesy, it is generally conceded without disparagement to his ability, that in force of reason, and in the presentation of irrefutable facts and arguments, Mr. Carter held a decided advantage, and as the representative of Mr. Johnston, well d effectively upheld the cause of his chief.
